WEDDING.

Coghlan-Blicq.

There was a pretty wedding at the home of Neville Blicq, No. 223 Rockwell street, on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock when his sister, Miss Alice M. Blicq, who has made her home there for the past several years, was united in marriage with William A. Coghlan of New York city in the presence of relatives and intimate friends. The bride was given away by her brother, who acted as best man, the bridesmaid being Miss Elizabeth Ottmann. Miss Lizzie Stamm was flower girl. As the bridal party entered the parlor the bridal chorus sang a beautiful hymn. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. S. H. Howe, pastor of Park Congregational church, the couple standing under an arch of laurel and roses, while the decorations of the parlors also included snowballs and peonies.

The bride was charmingly dressed in white lace and carried bride's roses. The bridesmaid wore a handsome gown of white silk and carried pink roses. The flower girl wore white striped tulle trimmed with white lace. The bride's going away dress was of brown satin soiled with hat to match.

Following the ceremony a reception was held and a wedding supper served. Mr. and Mrs. Coghlan left on the 7 o'clock train for New York city, where they will reside in New York city, where the groom holds a responsible position with a large general store. They carry with them the best wishes of a large number of friends.

There were many beautiful presents received in silverware, cut glass and china, showing the esteem in which they were held. The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond ring, while the bride's gift to the groom was a pearl brooch.

Among the out of town attendants was Richard Coghlan, brother of the groom, from New York.

PARTICIPANTS IN PARADE FIFTY YEARS AGO.

Quite a Number Who Took an Active Part in the Bicentennial Observation.

In response to the request of The Bulletin for the names of those who participated in the bicentennial observance, the following have been received: Ex-Policeman James Stanley, John T. Clark, George Zimmerman, Major and Mrs. B. P. Learned, who both sang in the choir at the great plain and the cemetery.

C. H. Tufts of Norwich Town, Tyler Roath and George Tufts were on the Advertiser float.

A number of names of those who witnessed the celebration and attended the ball have been received, but it is the actual participants whom The Bulletin desires.

No Explosives During Celebration.

Police will Not Allow Any Demonstration on Streets July 5 Because of the Danger—Site for Fireworks Marked

The celebration of the Fourth this year would naturally fall on Monday, but inasmuch as that will be the big day of the celebration it has been decided that fireworks will not be tolerated, owing to the danger from them in the crowds, to skittish horses and because of the large amount of burning and decorations that will be displayed. Chief Murphy stated Sunday that orders will be issued to his men to arrest any persons who are found setting off fireworks in the city.

It is realized that this will be a difficult job to accomplish, but with exertion of the evening and with a general co-operation on the part of the citizens, it is believed Norwich will for this year have a safe and safe celebration where there will be no danger with the large crowds which there will be on the streets it is realized that extra precaution must be exercised, as the large crowds will no doubt tend to hamper the response by the fire department to any call through the heart of the city.

Fireworks Location Fixed. The committee on fireworks for the celebration has raised a tall pole on Rogers hill to signify that the fireworks will be discharged from that point. Monday evening a flag was raised there this week to make it more noticeable, and the residents in the various parts of the city can now tell where the fireworks will be set off. If you can see the flag-pole you can see the fireworks.

President Not to Play Golf. Like the invitation of the Halle club to visit their quarters, President Taft was obliged to send his regrets to the Norwich golf club in response to the invitation to play on their links, and states that his time in Norwich would be entirely taken up and it would be impossible to play on the course.

Clay Statues. On Saturday the first of a series of statues which will be erected about the city was started in the triangular plot to the east of Chelsea parade. These statues are to be done in clay and represent a group of Puritans, two men and a woman.

Girls Will Not March. The two companies of St. Mary's cadets, Tierney guards, had a morning drill Sunday in T. A. B. hall, at which they did work very satisfactory to Major John Crawford, who had them in charge, and is confident they have reached form now that will win them great credit in the parade.

In the afternoon there was a meeting of the St. Ann detachment, at which it was decided that the girls had better not parade, as it would be entirely too much of a walk for them. It is planned now to secure some place along Broadway, where the girls can view the parade in a body, and where it is secured, they will probably meet at their rooms and march from there to their reviewing spot.

Children's Day Service at Methodist Church. Eight Baptized, Rosa and Booklet Presented, and Short Sermon by Rev. Dr. Kaufman.

Children's day service at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church yesterday was a delightful occasion and greatly enjoyed by the large congregation. The pastor began the service by giving to each a rosebud and a beautiful booklet entitled, 'The Children's Welcome,' containing pictures of Jesus, rituals of baptism and confirmation, etc., making a choice keepsake. One girl, who is soon to leave the city with her parents, was baptized and received in the church. Dr. Kaufman preached a brief sermon to the young from the text, Luke 10: 40: 'And the child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, with wisdom, and the grace of God was in him.' His theme was Childhood Hope, and he said in part:

One of the most beautiful things about this beautiful world is childhood. How very large a proportion of human happiness is the joy that parents and in their children's eyes, and the children are truly a comfort. And this, I think, is very commonly the case among Christian people. What high hopes of parental prayer are for their children! How glorious when these hopes are realized! But how severely and when these hopes are blighted by children who grow away into vice! It is perfectly natural for the young to dream waking dreams of future heroism and to see visions of glory as they grow in body and spirit. What they ought to hope may be seen by studying the childhood of Jesus.

1. He grew. Every child delights in growing larger in body and spirit. It follows like to think they are getting to be big. Very soon they do dislike to be classed with those who are younger and smaller than themselves. So eager are girls and especially boys to be considered bigger than they are that they imitate the vices of grown people and consider that the notion that it makes them look large. Never could there be a greater mistake. Wrongdoing always dwarfs the soul. Rightdoing makes it big. Goodness is large and enlarging.

2. Jesus increased in strength. He grew strong in body and mind and spirit. Doubtless he cared for his body—as all children should do. The body must not be neglected. Parents owe it to their young that they be properly fed, clothed, housed and that they have ample time for play under favorable conditions. This does not discourage habits of industry, but work and no play may make Jack a dull boy. But all play and no work makes Jack a lazy boy. Better be dull than lazy—be no to.

3. Jesus grew in wisdom. Every girl and boy should hope to become wise—wise enough to make right decisions as they grow into youth. One of the very best ways to gain wisdom is to learn well the lesson of obedience. Every home should be a school in which the most valuable of all practices—that of obedience is firmly taught. Much of the lawlessness which is the chief curse of society begins in a disobedient childhood. Parents owe it to their children to teach them this one supreme lesson. The following advertisement appeared in a daily: "Wanted, for a step—a boy that obeys his mother. Such a boy could be trusted anywhere."

4. Upon Jesus as a child was the grace of God. This means God's favor—God's approbation. It is dreadful to have God's condemnation—to have him against you. He is against them that do evil. God is forever against them who have no regard for his law. God is love; but he is righteous love, abhorring sin. Childhood hopes can be fully met only by giving the heart to Jesus. He is the supreme teacher—the one best friend. Love him; serve him; follow him wherever he leads the way, and your finest hopes will be more than realized in time and in eternity.

Children's Concert. In the evening there was a concert at which there was a very large attendance and handsome decorations. The following programs were finely given: Opening chorus, With Banners Proudly Waving; prayer, David Purvis; responsive scripture, Superintendent Leonard Purvis; singing, Merrily Sing, Buttercup, twenty-six girls of primary class; exercise, The Shower, Grace Service, Helen Woodworth, Edith Palmer; exercise, Don't Laugh at Us, Porrett Lewis, Milford Newbury, Arthur Ferguson, Henry Smith; exercise, Be Sweet, J. Nellie Woodward, Ella Burdette; exercise, Don't Laugh at Us, Beautiful June, Henrietta Ladd; singing, Junetide Comes, school; exercise, Glants and Lions, Norman Himes, Leonard Purvis; singing, Merrily Sing, the Misses Haack's and Haglund's classes; exercise, In His Fold, Sadie Ladd, Emma Maffitt; exercise, God's Smile, Edith Snowmaker, Anna Hault; singing, dust and chorus, Summer Voice, Marjorie Young, Elizabeth Lane and school; singing, Quickly Pass It Along, school; recitation, Singsap, Miss Lucy Blackburn; singing, Wreaths for the King, Marietta Boyens, Isabel Penton, Mattie Hanson; exercise, What is Noble, Howard Ivon, Carl Hahn, Luncheon Being One Sultana Roll.

Why They Are Acting So. The New Haven Journal-Courier is properly indignant at Senator Bulkeley's description of tariff making as 'the art of making a profit out of a loss' and would like to have Connecticut repudiate it as well as the course of Senators Bulkeley and Brandegee. There is a suspicion, unholly and grotesque as it is, that the senators are doing just what they are doing so that Connecticut will not repudiate them. There is their view of statesmanship—and it seems to be justified by results.—Waterbury American.

Definitions. A pessimist kicks because he can't dress in a Pullman berth; an optimist sleeps with his clothes on.—Milwaukee Journal.

An optimist is a man who lives in Omaha, says an unbuttoning Omaha paper. Being an optimist, he is probably able to speak well of his town.
