BREED THEATER

Eloping With Aunt, Screaming Comedy Success.
Easily one of the brightest comedy motion pictures seen here in a long time is the one entitled "Eloping With Aunt," now being shown at the Breed theater. The large audience assembled there last evening well high acclaimed themselves fortunate in witnessing an excitingly funny incident followed another in rapid succession until the hysterical climax reached when the audience seem to simply howl. A fascinating young daughter has a lover whose attentions to the young lady are not entirely agreeable to the father in the case, and the young lady is promptly prepared to be sent to Europe with her aunt. The aunt's price is the cause of much trouble, as she insists upon getting a new gown, and the lover, knowing this, purchases a magnificent one. The lover returns to the young lady's home to find that the father has broken a pier glass in his rage, and finding this the cause of the aunt's duplicate gown and the aunt entering the room, there is nothing for him to do but to get behind the pier glass frame, from which the glass has been removed, and imitate the aunt in her prinking before the supposed mirror. The ruse is not discovered until the daughter wiles the father that she has married aunt and return for reconciliation.
Many other fine pictures are shown and the musical part is worthy of especial mention.

LINCOLN PARK

Vaudeville at Rustic Theater.
The hot wave yesterday afternoon and last evening worked out well for Lincoln park. The weather was just what that cool and inviting spot were crowded.
The bill this week at the Rustic theater is highly diverting and all the performers are local favorites thus early in their appearance. The roller skating act of Hawley and the comedy continues to amuse. Miss Clara Mae Hammell is recalled two or three times to sing "Al. H. Burton's songs and stories take well. The "Duffy's Finish" sketch by Leonard and Whitney brings loud and long laughter, and the musical act of Vynos is an exceedingly picturesque, unique and pleasing feature.
"Duffy's Finish" is a fine cure for the blues, and the Vynos barnyard scene, where music is made to flow under their skillful fingers from every stick, pan, pot, long rail, is liked by everybody. If the act was twice as long all hands would be delighted.
The orchestra for the evening in the pavilion is appreciated by those who care to trip the light fantastic toe. Other attractions at the park are well patronized.

MILCH GOAT KEEPERS

State Association Holds First Field Day—A Business That is Growing.
The Connecticut Milch Goat Keepers' association, the only organization of the kind in the country, whose membership comprises residents of sixteen states, held its first field day in the history of the organization the past week at the farm of Milo N. Wooding of Agureville, just on the outskirts of the Connecticut hills. The Rev. W. Smith of Melrose is president of the organization. Alfred Dixon of West Hartford is secretary. Mr. Wooding's thirty acre farm, on which he is raising his first herd of milch goats, is situated on an eminence overlooking the river. The Connecticut hills, the honor of the field day the lawn and house were decorated with the national colors and the flag. The field day was an object of a good deal of curiosity on the part of many of the farmers in that locality, who were inclined to look upon the goat with suspicion, especially as the members of the association claim that in time the milch goat is going to be the successful rival of the Connecticut cow.
The neighbors of Farmer Wooding suggested that up to the present time the greatest friend of the milch goat in America had been the Italian residents, and that the Italian national colors should float alongside the flag of Uncle Sam at an annual meeting of the Connecticut Milch Goat association.
Between twenty and thirty new members of the organization were announced as having joined during the past year. The numbers of the association reported considerable business done during the year in selling goats for different parts of the country.
The association acts as an exchange agency in the goat traffic, offering to be purchased or would be sellers an opportunity to do business through the organization. During the last few months hundreds of applications have been received from President Smith and Secretary Dixon asking for information about the goat as a milk producer.

A fair maid from the city saw a queer thing on a tree, she said: "Oh, ain't it pretty! Whatever can it be?" With a stick she poked it, and her beauty's ruination, for, alas! it proved to be a hornet's habitation.

Salt-peter in Glue

The addition of a teaspoonful of salt-peter to a pot of glue will not only act as a deodorizer, but will add the glue to dry more rapidly and to become harder.

Custom in the Hebrides

Before the spring plowing in the Hebrides, plow and harness are three times sprinkled with salt and water, then a little of the solution is poured into the mystified ears of the horses.

The Bamboo for Poppy Growers

It is proposed that the punishment for those who cultivate poppy without license will be between light and heavy bamboo and banishment in accordance with the area of the ground of cultivation.—Shanghai Mercury.

Burden the Farmer Bears

A Cause of Earache

Earache is often caused by a diseased tooth, so that a visit to the dentist is often the right way to a cure. The best domestic remedy is warm olive oil, just a drop or two poured into the ear. Never put glycerine in the ear canal, as it may injure the drum.

Slavonic Superstition

A great risk runs the peasant of Slavonic lands if he carelessly wastes any of the bread that he daily munches, since every crumb is gathered up by evil spirits, and should their dust heap become heavier than the man's weight, on his death his soul is forfeit to the devil.

Make Use of the Passing Moment

The mill cannot grind with the water that is past. As little can it grind with what is to come. It can grind only with what is passing through it. We can make no use of time past. As little we can make of time to come. We can make use only of the passing moment.—Ram's Horn.

Wise Advice

Trust me, scholar, it is the part of wisdom to spend little of your time upon the things that vex and anger you, and much of your time upon the things that bring you quietness and confidence and good cheer.—Henry Van Dyke.

Monkey Had Good Memory

During performance in a variety theater at Copenhagen a monkey named Moritz suddenly sprang off the stage and threw himself into the arms of a man in the audience. It was discovered that the man had been Moritz' master four years before.
