LATCHES OUT WESTERLY

Generous Proffer of Entertainment to Providence Working Girls—Another Hitch in Nichols-Langworthy Settlement—Rev. Peter McOscar Reappointed to Pastorate—Hose Company's Outing.

Rev. F. H. Decker, superintendent of the Fountain street church home, was formerly pastor of the Congregational church in Westerly. He recently made appeal to some of his former parishioners here and the response was so liberal that Rev. Mr. Decker is almost embarrassed.

In the course of his missionary work he came in contact with several young women who are earnestly endeavoring to better their conditions, and he believed that they would be greatly benefited by some kind of an outing. He communicated with friends in Westerly and the favorable response far outnumbered the supply of girls and having sent to Westerly those he had prepared for, he is now looking for other deserving cases in Providence, who will be sure of an outing or week or more in Westerly if they are satisfactorily recommended to Mr. Decker, as his parties are so popular they are glad to assist him in his special missionary work.

Considerable interest in Westerly is centered in the petition to the superior court of James M. Scott, receiver for the Nichols & Langworthy mortgage company of Hope Valley and New York creditors representing claims of $18,000, asking the superior court to set aside the mortgage on the Washington Trust company of Westerly from selling certain first mortgage bonds. The restraining order remains in force and the parties were allowed by Judge Rathbun after a lengthy hearing, until next Wednesday for the filing of briefs upon the legal question raised in the discussion.

The petition for the injunction was filed by John A. Tillinghast of Providence, counsel for the Nichols & Langworthy mortgage company, who are unsecured creditors of the Nichols & Langworthy mortgage company. The petition for the injunction was filed by John A. Tillinghast of Providence, counsel for the Nichols & Langworthy mortgage company, who are unsecured creditors of the Nichols & Langworthy mortgage company.

The Washington Trust company, under whose petition Mr. Scott was appointed receiver July 20, advertised for the sale of the bonds on the 25th inst. The bonds were held by the trust company as security for claims against the mortgage company and were defaulted by the Industrial Trust company, trustee under the mortgage. By the restraining order issued several days ago the sale was temporarily restrained and the matter was now heard upon the petition for an injunction.

The petitioners claim that the assets of the Hope Valley concern, whose plant was destroyed by fire some months ago, are insufficient to pay the claims in full and that the value of the bonds is dependent upon an advantageous sale of the real estate and upon the ability to realize upon certain fire insurance policies covering the English insurance companies, concerning which there is a dispute as to the liability of said companies.

The court held its decision and requested counsel to file briefs on the questions raised. Silas Maxson, president of the West Mystic Manufacturing company, appeared as plaintiff against the West Mystic Manufacturing company, who is a superior court judge in the Providence Superior court. Mr. Maxson's petition represented that the defendant company had been purchased by the West Mystic Manufacturing company.

Poor Policy. We should imagine that in the present condition of public opinion and the drift of affairs in the temperance question, the interest in this state would avoid giving reason for unfavorable comment upon its action in asking for an increase of privileges under the existing law. The distance limit, within which it is illegal to establish a saloon in proximity to a church, is a very commendable and a very strong sentiment in Connecticut communities. Gov. Weeks did well in vetoing the bill which asked for the diminishing of that limit and, as has been said, those behind the movement for the bill were playing with a very dangerous proposition likely to excite the sentiment of the state still further against them. As a sample of saloon aggressiveness it will be used, and legitimately, too, against the whole business, and while the governor's veto has, perhaps, put a quietus upon any great exhibition of noisiness, the saloon interest ought to be able to see a pointer in the matter with reference to future demands. Better let well enough alone.—Bridgeport Standard.

Still Guessing About Taft. "I have about reached the conclusion that Taft will turn out to be one of the independent presidents we have ever had," said a United States senator of long experience today. "I suppose you know the politicians are still studying his methods without being able definitely to make up their minds as to what is in store for them. The general expectation was that he would soon after he entered the 'White' house, begin the work of building up a political machine. So far he has shown no disposition to do this. He has not thought of taking advantage of his power to construct a machine that would make his nomination certain. Practically every department or foreign appointment he has made is a personal appointment. He has appointed men from many states without consulting the senators or any organizations in those states. He has appointed democrats, republicans and newsmen without consulting the politicians. You say there does not seem to be any kicking? That is true, and it is true because the men appointed are all high class."—Indianapolis News Special.

THE VETERAN HAD HIM.

"Were you ever in prison?" demanded the prosecuting attorney insinuatingly. "No, sir," admitted the gray-headed witness for the defense. "Aha! I thought so. And what for may I ask?" "Assault and battery with intent to kill."

"And how long were you in prison?" "Until I escaped," admitted the witness. The prosecutor turned triumphantly to the gentlemen of the jury. "So, gentlemen," he said, "we have here, as the chief witness for the defense, an ex-convict and fugitive from justice by his own confession."

He turned again to the witness. "When and where were you in prison, sir?" he sneered. The old man straightened up and spoke in a strong, clear voice.

"I was captured, sir, at the battle of Fort Harrison on the 29th of September, 1864, and sent to Libby Prison, Richmond. I effected my escape while being transported to Salisbury, North Carolina, on the 6th of October, 1864. I was captured again by the prosecutor wanted to know—Every body's Magazine.

An Opportunity. The 100th anniversary of the war of 1812 will give an opportunity to the United States to join in commemorating 100 years of peace. This thought was advanced by Mackenzie H. King at the Harvard commencement, in the suggestion that the neighboring countries should join in the celebration of a striking object lesson in the victories of peace as opposed to those of war in settling international disputes. The Canadian government has already announced its intention to join in the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the close of the war of 1812 that will be the whole world a striking object lesson in the victories of peace as opposed to those of war in settling international disputes. Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, the mucus accumulates and is held above it by the inflamed membrane, and the hearing is lost. Unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, the hearing will be permanently lost. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh of the Eustachian Tube.
