AS A SUBSCRIBER VIEWS IT.

The names of subscribers are coming in for the Jubilee book of the 250th anniversary as fast as The Bulletin anticipated that they would. This book is essential to the proper completion of the event, and its publication was assumed by The Bulletin as a matter of civic pride rather than as a speculative enterprise.

An order from a New York subscriber, who has no other interest than the interest awakened by a few years of residence here, reads:

"Please have my name put down for one of the celebration books. I want it for two reasons: First, I want to be able to read the whole thing and study the pictures at my leisure; secondly, it is an investment—your Jubilee book will be in demand at $5 or better before you and I get through selling things. There are people living in Norwich now who won't order and whose children will be begging for copies at any price in 1925."

This is the truth. If The Bulletin does not print an edition larger than 500 copies, the book may be in such demand that it will go to a premium at once.

No agents will be sent out to solicit orders, because that would add to the cost of the edition. Names of subscribers should be sent in to the business manager of The Bulletin.

THE BULLETIN'S ILLUSTRATED BOOK.

It is not surprising that a great deal of interest is felt in the pictures which are to be a feature of the 250th anniversary Jubilee book—what they are to be and what they are to represent. Portraits of the officers and chairmen of committees and the guests of the city will number a score or two and then there will be photographs of the decorated streets, the parade, the performances and objects of special interest, it is expected, will make about 50 pages. Where there are large assemblages of people the pictures will be made large enough to make the identification of citizens possible.

There are quite a number of these photographs which will be given a full page.

It is the purpose of The Bulletin to make this book so attractive that it will be in prompt demand when it appears in December for delivery.

The Bulletin has had submitted to it for examination about 200 photographs already, and expects to have others submitted.

The letterpress and the illustrations will represent the best part of the anniversary celebration, and the book will be prized for its accuracy and value by Norwich people everywhere.

Order books on the coupon to be found in The Bulletin's advertising columns.

EX-GOV. WOODRUFF'S PROTEST.

Since ex-Governor Woodruff has been regarded as "the father of public utilities commission" it is not strange that he should feel a little particular about the bill. He has looked the bill over and decided that he doesn't want the honor. He feels sure that he suggested a step forward and he recognizes this proposed legislation as a step backward.

He gives six reasons why it should not become the law of the state. He assails it in this way, in conclusion: "The bill confers but few powers upon the commissioners and the critical examinations of these powers shows that they are delusive. The bill is so worded that the commissioners who may be appointed can do but little for the benefit of the people. It would be a mistake to create a commission which must be of considerable expense to the state, without adequate powers. It seems probable that the service they could render under this bill would not justify the expense of their maintenance."

"The Barnum bill is now pending before the house and may be under consideration Tuesday next. As strenuous efforts are being made to pass it, it seems to be the duty of all citizens, regardless of politics, to do their utmost to cause its defeat."

Who can blame the governor? The most the supporters of the measure can say for it is that it is a wedge in the right direction, one of those little openings which may be made to exhibit beautiful vistas later on.

GOV. WEEKS DOESN'T LIKE THE BILL.

It is reported that Governor Weeks is likely to veto the proposed Sunday law, because it is impossible to interpret the liberalizing clause which permits Sunday activities adjudged to be for the "general welfare of the community." Although this law has the cordial support of several clergymen, the governor regards it as a local option Sunday law which is very likely to have different interpretations in different communities, and because of its looseness that it may fall to work uniformly in all parts of the state.

He is of the opinion that this clause should be clearly defined by legal authority, so that an endless dispute shall not arise as to what "the general welfare of the community" demands. Some communities might think that the general welfare required a beer garden. Ambiguity in law should certainly be guarded against.

The twenty weeks of tariff bill to congress must have been about equal to six months in jail.

THE JULY FIRE LOSS.

The July fire loss in the United States and Canada reached $125,000,000, which is a half million more than the loss for July, 1925. The New York Journal of Commerce record shows that the property destroyed in the first seven months of 1927 was $135,717,500, the first seven months of last year, $140,320,900. In the seven months just passed, $119,632,950.

The biggest of this year's July fires was the $489,000 one in New York City. Duluth has a scheduled lumber plant fire, New Bedford had a $460,000 cordage plant fire and Tacoma a $490,000 packing house fire.

Connecticut had nine fires reported with a loss of over $100,000 in the aggregate reaching $124,000, which is an unusual loss for this state.

Galesburg, Ill., lost a $70,000 church in the July fires; Euclid Beach, O., a theater; Hempstead, N. Y., a post-office; Fox Lake, Wis., a sanitarium; Omaha, Neb., a school; Burlington, Wis., a town hall; Fall River, Mass., a golf club house; and Vancouver, B. C., a penitentiary building.

Writing in the American Review of Reviews—August number—Guy Ellinger, with the first seven months of a bit upon the fact that the yearly fire waste in six European countries is 22 cents per capita, and in this country nearly $2.50 per capita. "The cause of this difference," he says, "lies in the material of which we build our houses. The British confagurations and it is solely our fault that we are burning up and paying out needlessly every year one-half of the value of the buildings erected that year."

It matters not what the price of milk is, the fact has to be admitted that the milkman has to earn his money; and a majority of the kickers would decline to do his work for the money they are to receive.

The early rise in price was to have been expected. A Southington farmer states the case well when he says: "We are getting one cent per quart more than we did when feed was less than half the present price. Labor is 4 per cent higher and 100 per cent less efficient. Horses are 100 per cent higher and all other expenses in proportion. Hundreds of men have quit making milk because it doesn't pay."

Supply and demand regulate the price of milk, everything else being equal, and there is no way of keeping milk cheap when everything a farmer or user is getting dearer and dearer.

The increased cost appears to be hard upon underpaid labor, but the milkman is neither to blame for the conditions which confront him, nor the conditions which confront the low-wage class.

We may as well take the increase cheerily, and remember that the farmer has no chance to graft. He brings milk to the market in the year before daylight, and when the tax of the service is ten times the revenue received from it.

HE GARRIED A DAGGER.

There is a law in this state against the carrying of concealed weapons and it is generally regarded as a "dead letter." It is refreshing to discover that when a violator of the law is discovered some of our judges do not hesitate to make an effective application of it.

Judge Penn of Meriden had a citizen before him on Friday who carried a dagger, and he did not let him escape with a light fine, which would have been readily paid, but sentenced the offender to six months in jail; and it is agreeable to note that he is receiving the commendation of the press for the vigor he has displayed for the suppression of the concealed weapon habit. It is a good thing to make men of this sort realize that they are regarded as a menace to the well-being of the community, and will be treated accordingly.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Happy thought for today: The man who is prudent and industrious has good luck all the time.

When the Wright aeroplane factory gets to running that will have to go night and day to meet the demand.

It is surprising that Speaker Cannon should take to golf when he would make such a fine umpire for baseball.

Even the gravediggers in Sweden have joined the strikers. That is carrying the whole issue to the graveyard.

It is not so strange that the Lincoln penny does not fit the slot machines. Old Abe would not have them, had he his say.

The lad of nervous temperament has already begun to worry about the opening of school. He would prefer a continuous vacation.

New York has added thirty more dogs to its police force, and it now has 45 on duty. Crooks are the most violent enemies of dogs.

The new tariff does not appear to cool the atmosphere as much as was expected; but it cannot accomplish everything in a minute.

The Lincoln penny has demonstrated what a fuss can be created over a cent. It is intimated that the courts may be appealed to over it.

Since all the adjectives in the dictionary have been exhausted upon the ice trust this year, it is getting the smile that doesn't come off.

It is not strange that Roosevelt favored the raising of the salary of Taft. He realized what an opening his administration was going to have.

The tariff is now in working order and we should all get right to work. It may still show up a farebreak here and there, but it will raise the revenue.

The demand of Mississippi that a statue of Jefferson Davis shall be put in the national hall of fame seems to be a case in which the limit has been reached.

The government revenues have tumbled down over seven millions on account of the prohibition waves in different parts of the country. Does prohibition prohibit?

Woman in Life and in the Kitchen

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

An attractive way to embroider the initials on a set of tablecloth and napkins is to use with mission or craft furniture. These letters should be square-shaped and include them in a square-shaped medallion; open a little on both sides, says an expert needlewoman. These letters should be square in shape and simple in design, and are to be well padded and worked solid. The effect will be very good with the plain style of furniture.

The slender girl is having her bathing suit made of one of the pretty plaid silks in dark colors. Even the girl with well-rounded figure can wear them if she will give attention to the lines of the dress. The panel-front design is one of the best for her.

A pleasing occupation for the versatile girl is to make a dozen or two bedroom towels. Soiling does not harm them as it might a finer piece of work accidentally left in the dust, and it is industry that calls for little skill. Scalloping the hems in button-hole stitch will add a daintiness to a plain towel, and the design can be pleasantly marked by using the ends of a spool of cotton and a pencil. Monograms or a simple conventional figure may be developed from the hems if within the skill of the worker. The buttonholing alone, however, is pretty.

NEEDLEWORK SUGGESTIONS.

Wash a cup of rice in cold water, put it in saucepan, cover with water and boil until the rice is cooked. Boiled put it in a pudding pan with one quart of milk, one cup of sugar and one egg beaten until light. Cover the whole with nutmeg and cook until brown.

Don't slice bananas, nor yet serve them whole. Have them cold and take off a strip lengthwise, leaving the pulp revealed in a long, yellow banana. This is to be scooped out with a teaspoon and so eaten; and, until you have tried this mode you will never know how good a banana can taste. This is also a wholesome way to eat the fruit than any other.

PAYS TO BE NEAT.

The girl who keeps herself looking neat and attractive on a winning day is the one who is most successful when every one feels like looking her best. Is the girl who has genuine regard for her associates.

Those are the days when it pays to give care.

HOME HINTS.

Keep tacks in glass bottles. It saves opening many boxes to find a particular one.

Ammonia should not be used near a fire, nor should the bottle be left uncovered, as it is inflammable.

Do not cover the frying pan when frying fish. It makes the fish dry. It should be crisp, with solid, firm flaky meat.

It is well to remember that in summer you are cooler after a hot bath than one that is ice cold. Hot water draws the blood to the surface, making the skin feel cooler. Cold water, on the other hand, induces rapid circulation, which means extra heat.

Salt will set the colors in pink and in blue materials, while vinegar should be used for greens and mauves. When the material displays a combination of colors, both the salt and vinegar are necessary.

To remove the gloss from serge materials, lay a cloth dampened with water on the shiny surface, then press with a hot iron. While steam is rising, lift the cloth and allow the garment to dry without more pressing. This removes the shine only temporarily, and the process needs repeating often.

It is worth remembering that if it is necessary to use iodine with iodine in medical treatment, it should be done in the dark. Thus it will not blister nor stain the flesh.

TORN BUTTONHOLES.

If a buttonhole tears out lay a piece of closely woven tape, the back of it, stitch firmly in place, hem the old buttonhole to it neatly and then cut and work in the tape a new buttonhole. An extra piece of material may be used to rip the band apart and take out the threads of the old buttonhole, stitch the tape on the inside of the buttonhole, and the hole will close as before. When buttons have torn out it is comparatively easy to squeeze a new square of good tape through the hole, lay it flat in the proper position between the two folds of the band and stitch it in place. Hem down the ragged edges on both sides and sew the buttons to the tape. Any button or buttonhole that is to bear the strain of a button should be made when the garment is being made, and buttons being placed in the band before it is stitched.

FOR A LAWN TEA.

For a smart lawn tea, salads, sandwiches, cakes and creams comprise the principal items of the menu. The variations which can be made on a common sandwich are limitless, and any number of combinations can be made according to the taste of the maker.

Herb sandwiches are palatable during hot weather, being made of lettuce, pepper grass, watercress, peppermint and thyme. These are frequently all mixed together with a mayonnaise dressing added.

The strongly flavored herbs are finely minced and sprinkled lightly over the buttered slice.

Then the other slice is placed on top, and the sandwich is trimmed into shape, with no ragged green being allowed to show.

Chopped olives, green pickles and curry powder may be employed in this way.

Other herbs which are good used in this way are parsley, sorrel, dandelion, basil, thyme and the leaves of horseradish.

IN THE KITCHEN.

Corn Starch Cake. Excellent. One cup of sugar, one cup of flour, one-half cup of corn starch, one-half cup of milk, one-half cup of oil, one-half cup of egg, two teaspoons of cream tartar, one-half teaspoon of soda.

Molasses Doughnuts. One cup of molasses, one egg, a little salt, one teaspoon of cinnamon, one cup of sour milk or cup of warm water, one teaspoonful of soda; add one-half cup of stiff, fry in hot lard. Very nice.

Oatmeal Muffins. Sift together one and a half cups of flour, one-half cup of oatmeal, one-half cup of salt and three level teaspoons of baking powder; now with a silver fork mix in a cup of cooked rolled oats, then add one-half cup of milk, one beaten egg and two tablespoons each of melted butter and sugar. Fill greased muffin pans half full and bake at once. This is a good way to use up oatmeal left from breakfast.

Green Pea Soup. Take lean, fresh beef, two pounds; green shelled peas, two quarts; water, two quarts. Directions: Boil the pods in water one-half hour, then skim them out; put in the meat; simmer slowly till one-half hour before serving, adding boiling water to make up for evaporation; then add the shelled peas, and when tender thicken a little with flour; season with chopped parsley, salt and pepper.

TRAVELER'S POCKET. Perhaps the most necessary possession of the woman who travels is a stout pocket attached to her corset or worn on a belt beneath her skirt.

The prettiest of the white linen envelopes, daintily embroidered and worn suspended from the neck by a wash ribbon, may be recommended for a short journey in weather that is not unbearably hot; but when even a neck ribbon cannot be endured the envelope may be sewn to the corset.

There was once a woman (this is a true story), who pinned her jewel case to her gause undervest, and meaning to arrive at the other side of the ocean with only clean clothes and whole ones, she cast into the ocean all those half-worn garments in which she had started on the journey. Perhaps you will be nearly as glad as she was to learn that she pocketed, but not quite, cast the linen pocket into the briny deep. In reality, she remembered to unpin it and then momentarily forgot her caution. It is far safer, where notes, jewels and valuables are to be carried, to make the bag of suede leather or heavy drill, pocketed and with flaps that button down, and to wear it around the waist suspended from a belt fastened with an actual buckle.

There is no more useful present for the traveler to be a homeward bag, firmly made on the sewing machine, will prove the best. If this is too far removed from the beautiful to appeal to you as a presentable gift, why not give with it the embroidered envelope? For your traveling friend will certainly have use for both.

Winchester, Ind. — "Four doctors told me that I could never make me regular, and I could not sleep nights. I would eventually have dropsy. I would bloat, and suffer from bearing-down pains, cramps and chills, and I could not sleep nights. My mother wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice, and I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking one and one-half bottles of the Compound, I am all right again, and I recommend it to every suffering woman." — Mrs. May Deah, Winchester, Ind.

Hundreds of such letters from girls and mothers expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for them have been received by The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

Girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, faint, irritable spells or indigestion, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences and be restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands have been restored to health by its use.
