THE PROBATION LAW. Reports for the Year Prove it to be Successful. Probation officers of the state have made their annual reports to the Connecticut State Prison association, according to law. The probation law has been coming into use slowly, but is giving an increasingly good account of itself.

One feature of value that few people seem to understand is the power of the probation officer to collect wages of married men who are in his charge and use the same for the support of the ward's family. Officer Combelleck of Waterbury collected over $3,000 during the past year under that head, and applied it to the purpose of supporting the families of negligent and recreant probationers. He also collected more than $2,000 in fines. In New Britain Officer Johnson made an equally good record, and in Hartford Officer Arnold and his assistants led the state.

In Bristol during the year the probation officer had had some twenty cases, two of the superior court cases. In only two cases has it been necessary to report probationers back to the court, and only one of them was sent to jail. The purpose of the law is to give offenders a chance to brace up. They are made to realize that the next station on the route they are traveling is jail or the reform school. By exercising self respect and manhood they can escape the disgrace of a jail sentence. In almost all cases they realize that, in the language of the day, they are up against it, and become good citizens. The law is especially valuable as applied to boys. Of course it can not work miracles, but it can be, and is, a great help to erring ones, and gives them a helping hand when they most need it.

New Stamp. Postmaster General Hitchcock has ordered the issuance of a 12 cent stamp to cover the ordinary letter postage and the new registration fee of 10 cents. Mr. Hitchcock was in Newton recently to cast his vote for Gov. Draper, and the next day he was in New York to think the postmaster general declares that President Taft's tour "is a great success. Mr. Taft is making a splendid impression wherever he goes. His popularity is great throughout the east."

NO BLUE LAWS.

Fiction of Tary Preacher, Boston Clergyman Declares. If the good old state of Connecticut with its beautiful trees and hills, Charter Oaks and wooden nutmegs is ever held up to ridicule because of its supposed blue laws, in the presence of any loyal son of one of the original thirteen states, let him fling back the joke in the face of the sender. Connecticut does not have to stand for that any longer. The truth is out. At the People's Presbyterian church Sunday night, Rev. M. D. Kneeland, D.D., of Boston, said that those so-called laws were never on the statute books and were never intended to be there.

He said they were the work of a renegade clergyman who was "sore" on the state of Connecticut because he had been kicked out of it as a Tary. In order to get square, he wrote a lot of absurd statements such as forbidding a man and wife to indulge in the pleasure of osculation on the Sabbath day and said they were the laws of Connecticut. Not knowing any different, people believed him, and to this very day Connecticut has to stand for being called a blue state, a blue bath day and said they were the laws of Connecticut. Not knowing any different, people believed him, and to this very day Connecticut has to stand for being called a blue state, a blue bath day and said they were the laws of Connecticut.

When you stop to think of the terrible results which come to men who indulge to excess in intoxicating beverages, you may wonder why men drink. The wives and mothers of those who drink intoxicants will be glad to know there is a remedy which will restore their loved ones to a life of sobriety and usefulness. Many thousands of grateful women praise Orzine for its benefits. Orzine has been known to effect a cure after all other means failed.
