FUNERAL

Mrs. Edward Dexter. The funeral of Mrs. Edward Dexter was held from her home at the corner of Broad and Reynolds street, Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock. The service at which Rev. C. H. Barber of the Congregational church officiated, was attended by relatives and friends.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVALS

The Congregational, Methodist, Episcopal and Baptist Sunday schools will have Christmas trees on Saturday afternoon. The exercises at the Congregational church will commence at five o'clock, the exercises at the Methodist church at 5.30 o'clock, at St. Alban's at 4.30, and at the Baptist church at 5 o'clock.

HOLIDAY HOURS AT P.O. OFFICE

Postmaster C. A. Potter announces that the postoffice will be closed from 12 m. to 6.30 p. m. on Christmas. The money order and registered mail divisions will be closed all day. The carrier on the rural free delivery route will, however, make his trip as usual, Christmas being the only holiday during the year on which the rural service is not suspended.

The height of the rush is now on at the office and the outgoing mails are the heaviest of the year. The foreign money order business has reached about the normal amount and friends abroad will receive liberal remembrances from kinfolk in Danielson.

BIG STICK FOR SLOW TAXPAYERS

Collector Elbert L. Darbie has commenced his roundup of delinquent taxpayers. The collector is after the real slow ones with a big stick and some have already been paid over to him that was given up only after an officer had served notice that it was a case of pay or go to jail. There is going to be a cleanup this year such as will jar those who dislike to give up to a town a real demonstration of the saying that there is no escape from death or the tax collector. It cost one man $17 to settle for three years' military and poll tax Tuesday morning. The price was made high by the cost of collection.

ICE CROP

Will Be an Early and a Good One if Present Cold Continues. It looks like the Weather Man was going to make the people of Danielson a Christmas present of a fine ice crop. If he will only keep the temperature down around where it has been the last week for about three days more the crop will be about ready to cut. Every body of water in this section has a fairly heavy coating of ice and all that is needed to make it cut is an extra thickness. The ice of prime quality, clear as crystal and entirely free from melted snow. Present weather conditions continued, the first of next week will see the harvesting under way.
