New Glass Set.

The placing of a large plate glass in the window of the H. J. Hirsch & Co. store, on Main street, Wednesday afternoon, was watched with interest by a good sized crowd, especially when it was found that it was an inch too wide to go into the frame. The glass was cleverly handled by Peck & McWilliams' workmen, who did the job, finding a way of gaining the needed width by taking off the copper molding and cutting out behind it. The big plate, which was 100x124 inches, replaced one which was broken by a boy who was washing the window. The cup which he was using slipped from his hand and hit the glass about the center, boring a hole clear through. The broken piece was replaced by the company that had it insured.

NEW LONDON TEAMS

WON BOWLING MATCHES.

Arcanum Club Teams Got One Game in Each City—How Cup Match Will Be Rolled.

The final matches in the preliminary contest between the teams of the Arcanum and Thames clubs were rolled on Wednesday evening, the Thames team taking two of the games in each contest. In the match here Arcanum team No. 1 won the first game by the big team total of 910, but lost the other two games by good margins. Five of the bowlers made over 500, Forrin getting 585 for a total.

The summary follows:

Thames No. 1.

Ferrin 205 199 181-585 12 15 1 2

Hilop 152 97 144-393 3 9 13 5 2

The match for the cup will start in two weeks with the first game at New London, and it will be for the best five out of nine games. The Arcanum has won the cup two years in succession, and if they win this year they own it.

The Arcanum team will include Tilly, Stevens, Crawford, Potter, and Richmond, with the Thames team probably include H. Taylor, J. Taylor, Ferrin, Gledhill and Congdon.

OBITUARY.

Maurice M. Barry.

The death of Maurice M. Barry occurred at his home, No. 66 Baltic street, at 2:40 o'clock Wednesday morning. He had been in poor health for the past two years and his death resulted from locomotor ataxia.

The deceased was born in this city 57 years ago, the son of John and Julia Barry. He was employed by the Smith by trade and was employed at the carshops here for many years. He was in business for himself in this city and also for twelve years in Montville, being an excellent workman. He married Miss Annie McIntyre April 13, 1882, by whom he is survived, together with one sister, Mrs. John Looby, of this city.

Mr. Barry was a good citizen and a faithful husband. He possessed a quiet disposition and many friends. He leaves three uncles, M. K. Sullivan, Patrick Sullivan of this city and Daniel B. Sullivan of Worcester. He also leaves the following stepbrothers and sisters: William Murphy, Elizabeth Murphy, John Murphy and Misses Julia, Catherine and Nellie Murphy, all of Providence.

Several from this city, including W. F. Hill, chairman, and the transportation committee of the board of trade; H. F. Ulmer, H. W. Tibbitts and F. H. Smith appeared before the railroad commissioners at Hartford, Wednesday, favoring an additional afternoon train from Putnam south. Postmaster Caruthers was unable to go, but telephoned his desire for such extra service. Decision was reserved.

New Cooking Class.

The new cooking class at the Halle club began on Wednesday evening with an attendance of 22 members. The lesson was conducted in the kitchen of the restaurant by Madame Sautier, with a practical demonstration of the dishes to be cooked.

FRESH EMULSION COD LIVER OIL

Cod Liver Oil Emulsion is known by everybody to be one of the most effective remedies for chronic coughs, long standing coughs, emaciation, and general run down conditions. Oil is the fattening and strengthening part. Hypophosphites the nerve and brain food.

Patented emulsions, emulsions which have to stand a long time before sold, cannot contain much oil, or they will spoil.

SMITH'S EMULSION WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES is made frequently and contains fully 50 per cent. of the finest Norwegian Cod. It is also one of the most pleasant tasting emulsions of cod liver oil we have ever sold. We flavor it to suit YOUR palate.

Charity Imposed On.

John Donovan considered that there is too much imposition on the charity institutions. People raise money for the United Workers and then some rascal gets the benefit of it. There should be a law for those who will not work. The loafers seeking alms could be put to work on some ledge of the stone crusher and made to earn what is given them. He thought the dispensation of charity should be outside of politics and not in the selection. One commissioner of charity would be all right, he thought.

UNION OF CHARITY COMMISSION

Delegates from Various Organizations Heard Regarding the Matter at Conference in Y. M. C. A. Parlors—The Town and United Workers Efforts Should Be Under One Head.

A profitable discussion of the needs of a charity commission to carry on the charitable work of the town was held at the parlors of the Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday evening, lasting two hours. Represented at the meeting were church and fraternal organizations who had sent delegates from such bodies, and the statements made showed that the need of investigation of all cases for relief aid is asked for is imperative. How to get at that and do it in the most practical and best way was talked over, and the idea that there should be a charity commission for such work prevailed. The deduction was that the outside poor includes those who are not identified with or merged in good standing with any church or organization, except of course in some worthy cases where widows are helped and others who are deserving of assistance. The desire to prevent the overlapping of charity by the United Workers and the town, and the weeding out of the dead beats, it is believed to be the problem by a charity commission.

B. F. Bishop presided at the meeting, and he reviewed the objects of the meeting and the two previous meetings held, when various speakers were heard on the matter and at the second a charity commission was suggested. This gathering, he explained, was to get expressions from the different organizations as to how charitable work is done by such organizations, in order to get a better system in the town than there is now. Secondly, it is desired to get interest aroused in the matter and have you take it back to your organizations, to get help out in the general work and also see if the organizations are willing to co-operate by telling to whom charity is given and how it is used, a central body is decided upon.

City Missionary Speaks.

City Missionary C. A. Northrop explained that 86 organizations, including all the churches, fraternal orders, King's Daughters, have been invited to the meeting so that there could be an exchange of ideas. It is desired to know when people are helped from the church or fraternal orders, and to be relieved of this outside poor task, and approve a charity commission. The selectmen and United Workers should do its work with the town co-operation from all the organizations dispensing charity. He believes it is the last thing a person should do is to get aid from the town. Relatives should be appealed to first, then the church, but last of all the town. It is possible to prevent many from getting on the town list by having the churches and the town are keeping track of those asking aid. The churches are doing a large work, but in all cases there should be thorough investigation. No aid should not be given unless it is deserved. The expense can be cut down by all working together. The idea is to help the man and make him stand for himself. He told of a case on Wednesday where a man who had been out of work and received aid had been helped by bringing his money home, both he and his wife went on a drunk and have been on it for three days. Money should be known to all organizations.

Charity a Great Problem.

Rev. P. C. Wright said that charity is always a great problem. It is not a question of money, but of citizenship. The giving by several organizations to a worse condition, when no organization knows that the other is giving. Some say they prefer to do their own work, but the problem is so complex today that it cannot be done wisely that way.

Families should be assisted when assistance is needed. There is no criticism of the present outside poor account, but the cases need investigation, as the appearance of the applicant is a benefit to the man and make him stand for himself. He told of a case on Wednesday where a man who had been out of work and received aid had been helped by bringing his money home, both he and his wife went on a drunk and have been on it for three days. Money should be known to all organizations.

He thought the selectmen could delegate the care of the poor to others than the selectmen or ones who are familiar with the work.

B. F. Bishop stated that in New Britain the city a stipulated amount for the care of the poor, the same as for the town of Norwich was the city for the care of the poor. John Donovan said that he considered the best thing to do was for the pastors of the city to get together, and this was the idea of Rev. Smith, and as they had thought, could handle the matter. Father Smith, he said, doesn't want the United Workers to help any Catholic of his parish unless he is informed first. His hope of the fact that in 1850 the sum of $8,000 was spent for the poor, the past year $50,000 was spent.

Fraternal Not Included.

F. J. Murray, representing the A. O. H., presented the fraternal side of the matter and cited the case of the Forsters, where sick benefits of $5 a week for half the year and $2.50 for the remainder of the year were paid. There is a perfect system and it works successfully, there being very few frauds. The organizations could not furnish information, as the work is independent and secret. It cannot be called charity, as it is not charity. It is benevolence, and each one assisted unless he is informed first. He thought fraternal orders cannot be classed as charity organizations. The members pay so much a week or month to get their benefits and they have to pay up to get them.

He referred to the great imposition on charity funds and thought the taxpayers should have a meeting on this matter and be informed. He thought there could not be too careful investigation and declared that the asking of alms by children should be discouraged. He told of a case where over $18 a week was coming into the family and a boy was sent to ask for a pair of shoes. When asked as to why this was done, the lad replied that his father said it would cost 50 cents to get his shoes tanned, but he could get a new pair for nothing.

Representatives of the United Workers and the H. H. Osgood lodge, I. O. O. F., M. U. spoke in behalf of the movement and explained their own method of dealing with charity cases. E. A. Prentice spoke for the Second Congregational church and did not think the list of those assisted would be public, as there is a committee of deacons who look after that work.

John Donovan considered that there is too much imposition on the charity institutions. People raise money for the United Workers and then some rascal gets the benefit of it. There should be a law for those who will not work. The loafers seeking alms could be put to work on some ledge of the stone crusher and made to earn what is given them. He thought the dispensation of charity should be outside of politics and not in the selection. One commissioner of charity would be all right, he thought.
