MIDDLETOWN DEFEATED. Home Team Won, 3 to 2, in Game on Thursday.

The Connecticut baseball association was opened officially in this city on Thursday afternoon, when upwards of 200 witnessed Fitcher's Peas bite the dust in a game that was breaking their way by the score of 2-2.

The weather was fine and the field in fairly good condition. All the leaders of the various knickerbocker organizations from the West End to Sudon were on the grounds and after the game admitted that the Willimantic gave a good account of themselves for the second game of the season.

Considerable interest was taken from the contest by reason of the fact that some men were too slow to register a kick over a trivial matter. Tommy Banham, the center, was the fount from which most of the jets of steam burst forth.

From the call of the game there was, however, something doing that made the interested fans go on and once again D'Andrea played a fine game at short and won the hearts of the spectators for his skill and work. Middletown was, in the opinion of many, the better team.

A Game Preserve. Sportsmen often talk about game preserves where birds are reared and later shot, but it has remained for a humane and conscientious woman to establish a genuine preserve, one that will be a place of security for all time for feathered songsters. The name of this admirable woman is Mary J. Emery. Her home is in Cincinnati and she has purchased a park that will cost her a quarter of a million dollars as a home for birds. It will be under the care of the department of biology of the University of Cincinnati. Bristol Press.
