Grocer Appeals From Fines for Selling Hard Cider Jan. 16-Rev. P. S. Butler's Funeral—Charter Revision Committee Meets—Bids for High School Contract.

Samuel Renick, the South Main street grocer, was fined $10 on each of two counts in the city court Monday morning for having illegally sold fermented cider to Capt. John Murray and Special Officer Harry Stratton on Sunday, Jan. 16. The cases had been continued since that time.

There were three other counts against Renick, one of which was for making another sale of cider to a rounder who has since disappeared and therefore could not be used as a witness against the defendant. The other two counts charging the illegal sale of Jamaica ginger. All of these counts were nolle.

Renick appealed from the decision and will take the case to the superior court. His bonds, which the court fixed at $100, was furnished by Richard Gorman.

FUNERALS

Johnson, Westfield, Mass., Rev. C. N. Jones, Woodstock, Rev. H. W. Hewitt, Providence. A quartette from this city, Misses M. Gladys Murray and Gladys Williams and Messrs. H. L. Corbin and John A. Morse, Jr., sang at the service. The bearers were R. O. Davis, Oliver A. Hiseox, Irving Paine and John Arnold. Burial was in the Barlow cemetery.

Funeral services for Mrs. Eugene Beaudry, who died after a brief illness at the Quinebaug river, were held at her home Monday, Rev. J. R. Stubbett officiating. Burial was in Grove street cemetery.

CITY COURT

Thirteen Evidors Given Hearing on Monday. Thirteen cases, an unusually large number, were passed upon by Judge L. H. Putnam in the city court Monday's session. Some were new cases and some continued ones, but none were of a really serious nature.

Out of the lot a couple giving their names as William and Ellen Hickey and their place of residence as Fall River were sentenced for intoxication to serve 30 days in the city jail, this in addition to costs of $3.00.

Ernest Jones was sent over for a like offense to serve 20 days. The costs in his case were $3.00.

CHARTER REVISION COMMITTEE

Meets for Organization—Sub-Committees Named. Col. G. D. Bates was named as chairman and F. E. Clark as secretary of the committee on revision of the city charter recently appointed by Mayor Archibald Macdonald when the members of the body met for organization in the common council chamber Monday afternoon.

The work mapped out for the committee includes the reviewing and studying of the city charter with a view to determining where it would be advisable to eliminate, alter or add to the ordinances now in force and to investigate and recommend as to the advantages of devising a dual form of government for the city and town of Putnam.

The following sub-committees were named: On Revision, Representative John A. Dady, Judge L. H. Putnam, Attorney Charles L. Torrey; on devising means for effecting a dual form of government, Col. G. D. Bates, Selectman Clarence E. Pierce, Dr. Omer Larue.

The full membership of the committee is as follows: Col. G. D. Bates, Dr. Omer Larue, John O. Fox, Rezie Bouchette, John A. Dady, J. Richard Argente, Charles L. Torrey, L. H. Fuller, Clarence E. Pierce.

NOANK

Sonia-Jack Wedding at St. Joseph's Church—Effort to Have Clean Streets—New Club—First Mackerel Catch.

Monday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's Catholic church Miss Nellie Jack of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, was united in marriage with Oliver Sonia of Noank. The altar was handsomely decorated with palms and cut flowers.

Miss Grace Fitzpatrick presided at the organ and the choir of the church sang. The music of the wedding march from Lohengrin the bride appeared on the arm of a relative. She was dressed in white crepe de Chine over white taffeta, with trimmings of point lace. She carried white carnations. Her veil was of tulle and she wore a wreath of lilies of the valley.

She was attended by Miss Flora Morrison, who was gowned in white silk and wore a wreath of white carnations. Dalais Mallet was best man.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. H. Leddy of Mystic. At the conclusion of the nuptial mass, which was attended by many relatives and friends, the wedding feast was served in the dining room of the hotel.

Mrs. Jane Carson, where the bride has been a guest for the past few weeks, and where a breakfast was served, Mr. and Mrs. Sonia left early in the afternoon for Boston for their honeymoon trip, at the conclusion of which they will return to the village to make their home in furnished apartments in Main street. The groom is employed at the Robert Palmer & Son shipyard. The bride received many beautiful presents.

First Mackerel Catch of Season. Fishing skipper Wildwood, Captain Fred Biddings, arrived in port on Monday with the first mackerel catch of the season. The result of one day's net fishing, 250 mackerel and two barrels of herring, was mostly in the hands of local retail sales, except two barrels which were shipped to Norwich markets.

Move for Clean Streets. One of the local members of the town board of street commissioners, also a member of the Village Improvement society, has donated three waste cans which have been placed in the busiest sections of the village, one at the post office, another at the police station, and the other will be placed in a conspicuous place in the village.

The following notice has been placed in conspicuous places on the street and distributed among the residents: Clean Streets in Noank. Do you not think that it would add much to the attractiveness of our village if the streets could be kept free from paper and litter? The local member of the town board of street commissioners will try to do this, this summer. He cannot succeed, however, unless all the residents of the village co-operate in the effort. Will you aid in this work, by using your influence to prevent papers and rubbish being thrown into the street and by keeping the street in front of your residence picked up?

New Club Projected. Arrangements are being completed by the young men of the village for the organization of a social and reading club, known as the Noank Club. It is secured yet, but the committee in charge has several places in mind, the most favorable of which is the cottage near the corner of Main and Grand streets, occupied by the late Phil Sheldon. It is probable that the club will locate there, providing a lease of the property can be obtained. A committee of money will be formed to take up the matter.

From Around Town. Builders have completed a fine stone wall around the residence of Charles Hadley, in High street. The wall is a continuous one, and is built of New cement walks have also been laid.

Rev. H. B. Rankin left Sunday night for New York, where he will be the guest of friends.

C. C. Mowbray of Fishers Island returned home Monday, after a few days' visit in the village.

David Anderson of Hoboken, N. J., is the guest of relatives in the village.

Mrs. James P. Brown left Monday for a week's visit with relatives in Amherst, N. Y.

John Sullivan and William Thompson, who have been employed on the boilers of the tug Jamison at the Noank yard, returned to Worcester.

Carsten Peterson, inspector of the work of construction of the drydock at the Noank yard, returned from a brief visit in New York.

Mrs. Latham Rathbone entertained Mr. and Mrs. Everett Barnes and daughter, Marion, of Westbury, over Sunday.

Hart Geed of Hadleyville was at the lobster hatchery Monday.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR. Fisherman's Protective Association Upheld.

Mr. Editor: It has been stated that the object of the Fisherman's Protective association in opposing the commissioners of fisheries and game, by complying with the statute which requires the liberation of egg lobsters as soon as caught, is to destroy the commission, in order to be able to sell the lobsters freely from the wharves, some restraint at present exercised upon them by the state officials. To one familiar with the existing conditions, this kind of talk does not seem much like, as the day's catch is sold direct from the boats to wholesale dealers, and no sensible man believes that the dealers are fools enough to risk the severe penalties imposed for the possession of short lobsters. The cars of two dealers were searched two years ago by a zealous warden, who seized thirty or more lobsters, under the impression that they were all short. These were taken to Groton, where they were measured by Judge Latimer and several disinterested parties. One lobster was found of whose length there was some doubt. The prisoner was given the benefit of the doubt, and fined for the possession of this one measly lobster. It cost him about $30, and none of the others taken were returned to either dealer; nor was any indemnity offered. But as the warden got his $20 for the lobster, he probably he was satisfied.

As the dealers handle several thousand pounds every week, this accidental possession of one lobster, which the dealer would have thrown overboard as soon as found, does not show any great intent to violate the law, and does not appear to justify the warden in the destruction of his lawful property.

If the statement lately published was correct, the state officials last season sold to local dealers about 2,000 female lobsters, from which the eggs had been removed. The writer finds that the statutes allow the commissioner to take crustaceans at any time for the purpose of cultivation and dissemination. But what gets his goat is, how the commissioners expect to multiply the species by the dissemination of boiler lobsters? He also doubts if this peculiar form of dissemination was in the minds of the legislators who gave them this power, as the law makes the possession of any such female lobsters a crime to be punished by a fine of $25 and each lobster to constitute a separate offense.

All persons who deal with the commissioners of fisheries and game in this line should be very careful to conceal their purchases, as wardens collect $10 from each person convicted of any violation of this law. In addition to the $25 fine that the fishermen have a great regard of the truth was shown by their action last fall, when they refused to make report to the commissioners of lobsters caught in foreign waters on forms that were so arranged that the report appeared to be that of a catch made in Connecticut waters. Rather than give a report which they believed might mislead the people of this state as to the value of their fisheries, they raised sufficient funds to carry their case to the supreme court, if necessary. The case was decided against them in the town court, the court sustaining the contention of the commissioners, which practically meant that the words "in" this state meant "out."

The case of the state missed fire on an appeal to the court of common pleas. It is rumored that the officials have packed their flints and will try another shot.
