HAPPENINGS IN WESTERY

Providence Expert Considers Changes in Union Street Grade—Suit Over Automobile—Italian Voters to Do Better Next Caucus—Death of Channcey Richmond—News of Sports.

B. Court Bentley has instituted suit against Frederick O. Barber in the sum of $500 to recover one-half commission on sale of an automobile, of which Bentley has the agency in Westery. Barber is engaged in the garage business and negotiated with Walter H. Davis of Watch Hill for the purchase of a car same as sold at the Bentley agency. Bentley hearing of the proposed sale, notified Barber that he had no right to sell the car within the Westery jurisdiction, and learned that it was Barber's plan to get the automobile through the agency of John F. Noyes of Mystic. Both Bentley and Noyes had entered agreement not to enter into each other's territory in the sale of that special car. Finally it was arranged that Barber should receive the car from the Mystic agency, sell it to Mr. Davis, receive the full commission and turn one-half over to Bentley. The car was sold, paid for, the full commission received, but Barber declines to give Bentley one-half of the commission. Hence the suit by Mr. Bentley, which is brought in the Third district court.

The members of the Italian-American Political club ascribe their defeat in the republican caucus, Thursday evening when they attempted to nominate a ticket, entirely to lack of leadership which was to be expected in a new political organization composed entirely of inexperienced politicians. One of the members, as representative of the organization, says: "We will stick together and make a better showing next time. At the caucus Thursday night we lacked leadership. If we had some fellow who even knew how to stuff the deck of political cards, and did not even know how to deal them correctly, we would have won out, for, as it was, we put the town committee on the run."

The committee appointed to consider all matters pertaining to the proposed change of grade in Union street, the cutting down of Cookey hill, so as to make easy grade from Broad to Main streets, is endeavoring to do the work with thoroughness. The report will be made to the town meeting next Tuesday and the information will lead to intelligent action by the taxpayers of the town, as none others are allowed to vote in town meetings where there is prospect of expenditure of money. The committee will report the cost of making the proposed improvement, including the conditions agreed upon or proposed by property owners along the street, and also the estimated cost of lowering the town hall and fire house, should that be considered advisable.

In order to ascertain the cost of lowering these two buildings, one brick and the other a wooden structure, Earl DeF. Titus of Providence was called here by the committee on Friday afternoon, examined the premises and then gave his estimate to the committee to be included in their report.

The building occupied by the Woman's Exchange, at the corner of Broad and Union streets, will be materially benefited by the change, Rev. Edwin Babcock, who owns the property adjoining, does not object to the change, provided the building is lowered, and retaining wall and sidewalk built at the expense of the town, and that this be done at no loss to the tenant or himself, and that in the event of his tenant being disturbed that both he and his tenant be reimbursed for any loss.

While the change would benefit the Hibernal hall property it would entail an expense that the organization does not care to incur in connection with the present conditions, but there would probably be no objection if the town assumed the cost of the changes in property. The Mirchen building, corner of Main and Union streets, would be improved and the property is so located that no damage or cost would result to the owner. Aside from the town hall and fire house, all the rest of the property fronting on Union street is owned by James A. Welch and Frank W. Coy, the former owning over half of the entire frontage. Both will do their full share towards the proposed improvement and at their own expense.

The committee is composed of Albert N. Crandall, William Clark, Clifford W. Campbell, Frank Haswell and John Carney, and they will recommend that if the change of grade in this street is ever to be done that now is the acceptable time, and before Mr. Welch begins the construction of new buildings in Union street on the sites of those destroyed by fire.

There is perhaps no place in New England where more loyal support is given a school baseball team than Westery. The cheer to the champion team representing the Westery high school, although located in the same state, Westery is not as large as Providence, still, in order to accommodate those who wanted to see the Westery-Norwich game Friday afternoon, it was necessary to run two special cars of the largest type in the Norwich-Westery trolley road, in addition to the regular cars, and besides many made the trip in automobiles.

It is estimated that three hundred from Westery were in Norwich to help cheer the Westery high school team to victory over the team representing the Norwich Free Academy. The contest for the championship of the Interscholastic Baseball league.

Otis F. Dean, one of the most popular employees of the C. E. Cotter & Sons company, left the company Friday afternoon, after a satisfactory career of fifteen years, of which he was inspector. At noon Friday when the week's work ended, he was surrounded by hundreds of his fellow workmen and given the warmest of cheers. Then John McNeely, in behalf of the shopmates, made an address of good wishes and presented Mr. Dean, and an closing presented as a token of friendship to Mr. Dean a beautiful gold ring with amethyst setting.

Mr. Dean made effective response in expression of the friendship and good will of his fellow workmen. Cheers were given and Mr. Dean received the personal best wishes of nearly every one connected with the large establishment, including the Messrs. Cottrell and the office force. Mr. Dean will soon leave for Detroit, where he will enter a large plant where special machinery is manufactured. He will eventually locate in Grand Rapids, where he is now head of the Dean Printing company. Frederick Lueck will succeed Mr. Dean as inspector at the Cottrell plant.

JEWETT CITY. Opening Reception of Congregational Cradle Roll Proves Most Pleasurable.—Borough Team Loses Robertson.

The opening reception of the cradle roll of the Congregational church was held in the vestry Friday afternoon with seventy present, forty of whom were children. The vestry had been transformed into a room with rugs, cushions and easy chairs, tables with books and games, and flowers everywhere—carnations, lawns, pansies and buttercups. The banner with Welcome, Cradle Roll Department, was suspended at the rear of the platform. The children played with the games and listened to the phonograph and some had a peanut hunt. Misses Lila Jennings and Mabel Young were in charge of the games. Miss Eleanor Ayer and Master Edward Faust received the guests at the door. A short entertainment programme was given by the children, Mrs. E. A. Faust, who has had the entire affair under her direct speaking first of the object of the cradle roll and the methods which are used.
