

How the College Crews Compare.

Harvard is Expected to Win but Yale Will Not Submit Passively—Great Hopes for the Yale Freshmen—Crimson Eight trying Out Shells while the Blues Take a Nine-Mile Row.

A change was made in the Harvard crew this year again Friday, and it is thought that it will be permanent. Waite of the second four displaced Foster at stroke, the latter going in as stroke of the second four. Bacon, who rows No. 5 in the varsity eight, and who was unable to come to the top with the crews on account of cold that settled in his chest, is now suffering with boils which somewhat interfere with his rowing. It is expected that he will be in good condition in a few days.

Question of Boats.

Which of two shells the Harvard varsity eight will use in the regatta Friday morning the eight went out in the boat presented by Robert L. Bacon for a couple of short stretches, and then changed over into the new shell received from England a few days ago. No selection was made after the practice. The eight went to the navy yard for a row, going in short stretches at a fair stroke. The freshman eight, on the other hand, was given a stiff two mile pull with the stroke at times up to 35, then down to 31 with a finish at 34. The men stood the work well. No time was announced.

Yale Goes Nine Miles.

Tucker, who was rowing No. 2 in the Yale varsity until obliged to stop on account of an attack of indigestion, went out in a pair oar on Friday for a short row. His condition seems to have improved. Captain Walker of the freshman eight, who has been suffering from boils, was back in the boat for the evening practice. Philbin, who has been rowing No. 6, was put in at 4, displacing Bruns, who was in as stroke of the four oar, displacing Sorag.

The varsity eight rowed down to the bridge and retraced its steps, covering a little over nine miles. The freshman eight went down to the navy yard and return, followed by the three four oar crews, covering the same distance.

Comparison of Crews.

A. H. Barelay in the Yale Alumni Weekly says: "Were it not for the fact that Harvard has an exceptional crew in point of physique, the Yale eight would measure up to the average physical requirements of the eight oar crew. But, compared to Harvard, Yale has physical defects which are conspicuous. John Kennedy, as usual, has made the most of his material, and the chances for the race seem to have narrowed down to the simple proposition whether 'Wray will be able to make the most of his material. It will take a good many defects to scatter Yale's confidence in the long stroke—which averages from 20 to 22 to the minute. A crew which rows from two to three points more to the minute must have a whole lot more physical power to stand this additional pumping and yet not lose form and effectiveness in the application of its power. In 1909 Harvard demonstrated that she had this physical strength.

The situation this year is not radically different from that of 1909. The material for both crews appears to be better than it was a year ago. Just as there was in 1909, there has recently been a shakeup in the Crimson shell after it had suffered defeat by Cornell. The complaint this year was the same as last, namely, that the stroke had shortened up. A year ago Wray straightened out this defect after he reached the Thames and he is trying to do the same thing this year.

A year ago Harvard had more veteran material than Yale and the same is true of these crews. The final rowing in the varsity eight is likely to be as follows: Stroke, R. W. Cutler; No. 7, E. C. Bacon; No. 6, Alex. Strong; No. 5, J. E. Waid (captain); No. 4, L. Willington, Jr.; No. 3, G. P. Metcalf; No. 2, G. F. Newton, Jr.; No. 1, R. Whitney. Cutler stroked the winning freshman crew of two years ago and the winning varsity crew of 1909. Strong rowed in the winning freshman crew of 1909. Waid rowed in the winning freshman crew of 1907 and in the winning varsity crew of 1908 and 1909. Willington rowed in the winning freshman boat of 1908, and in the victorious varsity eight of 1908 and 1909. Whitney rowed in the winning freshman boat of 1908, and in the victorious varsity eight of 1908 and 1909. Add to this experience an average weight of 175 pounds, an average height of 6 feet 1 inch and an average of 30 years and four and a half months, and you have the physical machine that Yale has to contend with.

To Prevent Smoke.

Here is a hint on preventing the smoke that usually accompanies adding fresh fuel to an open fire or grate. When adding the new wood put it at the back, drawing the pieces already burning to the front to keep in the heat and prevent smoke.

Partisan Definition.

"Father," said little Sollo, "what is a political trickster?" "I can't give you a definition that will cover all varieties. But, in general terms, he is a member of the opposition who succeeds in having his own way."

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

The Conservation of Nature's Resources applies as well to our physical state as to material things. C. J. Budlong, Washington, R. I., realized his condition and took warning before it was too late. He says: "I suffered severely from kidney trouble, the disease being hereditary in our family. It has taken four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy and now consider myself thoroughly cured. This should be a warning to all not to neglect taking Foley's Kidney Remedy until it is too late." Lee & Osgood Co.

WEDDING.

Nylen—Tubbs.

At the Brewster's Neck chapel Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock Miss Olive Hurlburt Tubbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Tubbs, and Carl Henning Nylen of Leyard were married by the Rev. D. W. Adams, a former pastor of the chapel. The bride was accompanied by her father, by whom she was given away. Miss Agnes Holmberg, a cousin of the groom, was maid of honor, and Miss Edith E. Partridge was bridesmaid, and Little Louise Long of New London was flower girl. The groom was attended by Ernest C. Tubbs, a brother of the bride. The ushers were Ernest B. Partridge, Paul C. Carpenter and Arthur Martin. The bride was beautiful in a gown of white silk, princess style. She wore a veil and carried a bouquet of bride roses. The maid of honor wore blue silk and carried pink roses. The bridesmaid wore white silk and carried pink roses. The marriage was witnessed by a large number of friends and relatives, many being from out of town. Following the service at the chapel there was a reception at the home of the bride. A buffet lunch was served to fifty friends and relatives.

Club and Hotel for Children

Paris has its infants' club, where the babe about town may spend an idle afternoon; but London comes a good second with a hotel for children. Here, in suites of two rooms, the children of the well-to-do may find a town address while parents are traveling or enduring unamiable climates. The guests range from atoms of a month or so to veterans of eight or nine, and each three have a day and night nursery to themselves.

Valuable Suggestion.

It is said that severe prostrations of coughing may be arrested by giving the patient a teaspoonful of glycerine in a wineglass of hot milk. This is one of the simple remedies which are dear to the heart of the practical woman, and it is so easy to remember that it may serve to alleviate the suffering of some unfortunate.

Frivolous Modern Society.

In the Victorian era a young English woman was in the fashion if she attended half a dozen balls in the season. By degrees her ambitions increased until now a dance every night is not considered too much. Thus the number of dances during the season has vastly increased.

Low Equator Speed.

It is true that every function of body and mind slows up about 20 per cent., and permanently, too, after six months under the equator. Faster telegraph operators sent from here to New Orleans after a few months fall perceptibly in speed and never recover.—New York Sun.

Philosophy of Dress.

A duchess may be as shabby as she pleases, and, in spite of socialism and a badly hanging skirt, she will remain a power in the land; but the suburban lady does not care to be seen with her best friend if the latter be wearing an old-fashioned frock.—Black and White.

President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad declares that if the interstate commerce commission does not permit the railroads to raise freight rates the transportation lines will be in a bad fix.

Working for Oneself.

Business is a great educator—working for others often cripples in-born capacity and renders the individual a mere working machine. The man who works for himself unfolds his powers and grows. His faculties are all alert and every resource taxed to the utmost to bring about best results. The struggle to get on develops the best that is in manhood—these are the points in favor of business life, but they are offset by many risks.
