

WHAT IS GOING ON TONIGHT

Vaudeville and Motion Pictures at Auditorium. Motion Pictures and Illustrated Songs at Broad Theater.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Miss M. C. Adles will be in New York all this week. See adv. F. C. Atchinson, M.D., has opened an office in room 102 second floor, of the Shannon building.

BREED THEATER.

"A Vein of Gold," Thrilling Western Story.

The feature picture of the Breed theater for today is "A Vein of Gold," and is a thrilling story of a convict who is granted a release for several days to see his sick mother, and, seeing the necessity of funds and having none, he robs the old grocery store, and returns with the money to the mother. Two years later he is released from the penitentiary and starts immediately to the Breed theater today from a successful season in the larger theaters in Boston, where she has worked this last season. She will sing the latest in the illustrated line, and songs of the higher class.

There is a very strong Biograph picture entitled "The Impudent," and is one of the newest and best of the company's offerings. Miss Kada Clark, dramatic soprano, is the new singer who comes to the Breed theater today from a successful season in the larger theaters in Boston, where she has worked this last season. She will sing the latest in the illustrated line, and songs of the higher class.

THE AUDITORIUM.

The management of the Auditorium promises a well balanced and pleasing bill for the first three days of this week, consisting of a little music, a little singing and a little good, clean comedy. Clara Rogers, the well known girl cellist, will render several selections on this tuneful instrument over which she is the complete master.

"Back Home," a rural comedy presented by Mr. Harry D. Crosby, assisted by Miss Anna Lee, promises to be one of the best comedies sketches seen here in a long time. The scene is laid in the village postoffice and the act is a real old fashioned rural comedy.

An act which is especially appropriate just at this time is a twenty-minute skit presented by Berwick and Hart depicting fun in a pugilist's training quarters. As a special feature for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week the management has secured the original and only Jack Johnson training pictures. This picture was taken at very close range and is so clear that one can even see Johnson's muscles move as he works. A hard six-round bout is also shown with one of his trainers.

Goldfish Died of Fright. A woman who nursed three goldfish in a small aquarium tank graced with aquatic plants thought she would add a hissing touch to her water garden by dropping into the tank a gaily colored celluloid alligator she had picked up at a ten cent counter. She dropped the alligator. One of the goldfish instantly leaped several inches above the water, flopped back inert and never moved again. The mistress of the goldfish was sure her darling had died of fright.

Worry Habit. The worry habit is one that grows rapidly. The more it is indulged in the stronger it becomes. When you discover that you are its victim, just stop and consider: What do I gain by it? If so, what is the gain? What do I lose by it? Health, strength, cheerfulness, the power of helping others. Whatever you do, don't say "I can't help it." The worry habit is easily overcome if one is determined.

Was Playing No Favorites. A captious Englishman began holding forth the other day after dinner upon the enormities of a certain baronet in the next county. His neighbor interfered with: "I think it right to inform you, sir that I am Sir George's brother." "His brother? Oh, I know nothing about his brother, personally, but I am told he is even a greater blackguard than Sir George."

Equality. There should subsist a great degree of equality between the rank and fortune of individuals; without which there cannot exist long any equality between them in point of right or authority. There should be little or no luxury; for luxury must either be the effects of wealth, or it must make it necessary.—Rousseau.

What an Inch of Rainfall Means. An acre is 6,272,640 square inches. An inch of water on an acre is, therefore, 6,272,640 cubic inches. That amount, at 277 cubic inches to the gallon, equals 22,000 gallons, or 230,000 pounds, or 100 tons. An inch of rain is, in other words, rain falling at the rate of 100 tons to the acre.

Tolstoy's Rules for Life. Never justify yourself. Prefer a stranger who loves the truth to your nearest who does not respect it. Do what you consider honest, not expecting any glory in return; remember that a stupid man is a poor judge of good deeds.—Tolstoy.

Town Redolent of Perfume. The sweetest town in the world is Grasse, in the foothills back of Cannes, on the French Riviera. All through the year Grasse is really one big bubbling cauldron where are distilled gallons, barrels, hogsheads of perfumes.

GLEANINGS.

Financial statistics of Turkey for February, forwarded by Consul General Edward H. Ozum of Constantinople, show that the revenue of the government was $5,591,991, an increase of $1,573,297 over the same month in 1909.

After the prizes had been awarded college refreshments were served in the dining room and reception hall, the ladies unconsciously grouping themselves prettily, like gaily plumaged birds, resting after flight.—Rogers Park (Ill.) News.

From the original home as a native, wild growth in Western Asia and adjoining Europe the cultivated pea has been taken by man to all civilized countries. It has been cultivated for thousands of years, for dried peas have been found in Egyptian tombs.

One planter near Tuxpan is preparing to plant 1,000 acres in oranges and grape fruit. There are also a number of successful orange growers in the vicinity of Tampico, and it is expected that, in the near future, considerable quantities of this fruit will be shipped to the United States.

Consul H. Albert Johnson, in a report from Liege, gives the details of the progress of a number of companies opening up coal mines in the Belgian province of Limburg. These are the Limburg Mouse company, Charbonnage des Liegeois, Societe Dumont, Charbonnages de Rezaiz and Charbonnages de Beerington.

Deputy Consul Albert S. Troughton of Malaga furnishes a detailed description of a Spanish invention for producing matrix sheets for stereotypes. The inventor, whose address may be obtained from the Bureau of Manufactures, desires to enter into correspondence with parties who might be interested in perfecting or developing the apparatus.

The growing importance of the port of Tampico is fully recognized by the Mexican government. Plans are continually being made and money liberally spent for the betterment of this grand natural harbor. In February a dredge was purchased and has already begun the work of clearing out the harbor and the channel of the Panuco river to the custom house wharves. The channel will be made 23 feet deep.

A Reminder. She—"I see by this paper that buttons and similar objects are now made of milk." He—"Run out and get a quart of milk, will you? This shirt hasn't a button on it."

You Know It. "To flirt is human," says a Harvard professor. "To embrace divine," adds the gentleman who has just found out that she is willing to go that far.

The Savages. All men have a working knowledge of duty. A savage is a man who hasn't cultivated the art of making a great deal of talk about it.—Puck.

Last One. "Pop!" "Yes, my son?" "What is an ultimate consumer?" "Oh, the ultimate consumer, my boy, is the one who gets the hash."

Where the Work Came In. Mrs. Bacon—"I understand your husband is at work on a new poem?" Mrs. Egbert—"He is. He's trying to get some magazine to accept it."

Deception. It is vain to find fault with those arts of deceiving wherein men find pleasure to be deceived.—John Locke.

Perennial Youth. To be 70 years young is sometimes far more cheerful and hopeful than to be 40 years old.—O. W. Holmes.

Power in Speech. Speech is power; speech is to persuade, to convert, to compel.—Emerson.

Or Wouldn't Like To. Even a man who keeps a cash account can't tell where all his money goes to.—Somerville Journal.

Cannot Travel Far. The liar is sooner caught than the cripple.—Spanish proverb.

Weakness of the Fool. A fool is always beginning.—French proverb.

MUCH IN LITTLE The London Lancet says that English oyster beds are now being very carefully protected from sewerage contamination, whereas few foreign beds receive this protection. Chicago has a smokeless locomotive, for which perfect combustion is claimed. Not only is it free from smoke, gas and forest-destroying sparks, but it effects a saving of over 35 per cent. Since the introduction of taxicabs in New York city, four years ago, the time-honored hansom has been gradually disappearing from Manhattan's streets. Of the hundreds of these vehicles that were at one time a feature of life in the busy city only a few remain. Merchants in the south have awakened to the value of rural telephone lines, and are seeking to develop them, with a view to increasing their trade among the rural population. In certain sections they have made large contributions to aid the farmers in building their lines. For the first four months of 1910 British exports amounting to $662,715,925, which Consul General John H. Griffith of London says was an increase of $89,372,450 over the same period of 1909. The imports amounting to $1,093,579,664, showed an increase of $95,394,038. A contract for steel rails and flat- plates has been let by the government railways of the state of South Australia to a British firm (Workington Iron and Steel Company) for nearly $800,000 in competition with firms from two other countries (Germany and Russia) no American firm having made a tender.

POETRY. THE SONG OF THE PEOPLE. (After Kipling.) To Teddy the First, he held the First, alone is the song unrolled, He has strewn his brands over the lord- ruled lands and never a one grows cold; He has hurled his scorn at the unicorn and prodded the horn's hide, You have heard the song—How long, how long, must we wait for our victory's pride? Now Teddy the First, he held his own in a way that it should be held, He gave his text till the words were vexed and demanded his voice be heard, and wroth was at the shrine of the demand was "Silence!" and "Bind him up! He's hurting our business, see!" For all should know that he's a foe to great Prosperity. They "tied" him up the best they could, but the cords that were used were weak, They tried to drown him in a tank of abuse, but the tank had many a leak. They howled regrets and they bel- lowed threats and they gnashed their teeth in vain, And try as they might they lost the fight that needs be fought again. Aldrich and Cannon and the "regular" crew, of whom is the story told, They have worshipped at the shrine of a tariff with a thumb on the pulse of gold. They strut in their "hale" "protection" in a glare that they think is fame— You hubbard the song—How long, how long, must we play the losing game? Ballinger lurks in his wolfish lair behind the tariff defense; He shows no shame in his sneaking game—his wish is to be im- mense. Taft calls the overland mails whenever he should be in his place Is running here and mumbling there to save the tariff's face. The consumer deploring increases in the costs that are soaring high, May have his say, but he ranks today a factor with a voice as feeble as a fly. The burdens he bears are heavy and heavier yet to be— though it be asked twice—but his country calls him free. The honor of a party's pledges—of that is the story told; The tablet of its name promises now rot to "neat the party's mould. And the people spoke, "As we bear the yoke, bear our burden wear. You have heard the song—How long, how long, must we toil up the winding stairs?" —Arthur Wiley.

THE FARMER. The farmer leads a merry life, He has not much to do, But just to look after his chops, To sell to me and you, And if he wants a motor car, To save his time in the Jersey mood, Then all that's requisite is just To raise the price of eggs. The farmer is a happy man, He drinks the richest milk, His daughter, from the Cleveland Leader, And his wife can dress in silk. For him the Brahmas cackle, And he has him the Jersey moo; I think I'll quit this city life And be a farmer, too. —Somerville Journal.

Views and Varieties. Clever Sayings "Ever do anything in the way of sentiment work?" "Yes; I've tried bill collecting."—Pittsburg Post. "Seems to me the president is away from the capital a good deal." "He is, that's a fact. But they play better ball in some other towns."—Philadelphia Ledger. "First Sweet Young Thing—We are starting the battle of life. Second Young Thing—Yes; and we don't know whether the victory is a victory or a defeat.—Judge. "Tell me what a man eats and I'll tell you what he is." "That's a lie! I've eat fish every Friday and my life ain't a can's swim a stroke!"—Cleveland Leader. "Your novel is evidently the result of inspiration." "Yes; I didn't start it until after reading the advertising notice my publishers got up."—Washington Herald. How like the sad sea waves: Is our little vacation stroke; We roll in with a mighty bluff And go out broke. —Philadelphia Telegraph. American—Why do you think the English language is destined to become the universal language? Foreigner—Because it is the finest swearing language on earth!—Chicago News. "It's very nice." "To kiss her twice." "Said Andrew Jackson Carter. But glory be. So sweet is she, just a starter. Two times is just a starter. —Birmingham Age-Herald. Stranger (after an examination)—Well, doctor, what do you think? Have I the gout? Great Physician—Heem! Ee—what is your income? Stranger—Two hundred a year. Great Physician—No; you have a sore foot.—Tit-Bits. "To 'em' never stopped at de Palace hotel befo', is yo', boss?" inquired the colored man who was piloting a just-arrived traveler from the railroad station to the hostelry. "No. 'Em makes you so sure of it."—"Uh-kaas yo' gwine dar now, sah."—Puck. "Baseball ain't what it used to be out in my old town," said the boy who was selling soft drinks, cigars, chewing gum and candy. "What makes you think so?" "People didn't wait till they got thirsty to buy lemonade and sarsaparilla. What they were after were bottles to throw at the umpire."—Washington Star.
