VARIOUS MATTERS

Swordfish are being brought in by the fishing boats in fairly good quantities and the season promises to be up to the standard.

The mills along the rivers are beginning to feel the effects of the lack of water and many are forced to take to steam or partially shut down.

A brisk shower of fifteen or twenty minutes' duration was enjoyed from the Franklin meeting house north toward the state line on Thursday afternoon.

The cottagers at Ocean beach held their first invitation dance of the season on Thursday evening. About 100 couples were present and it was an enjoyable affair.

The roads throughout the country are very dry and the passing automobiles make life miserable for people who happen to be on the road, whether in automobiles or wagons.

There are so many patients receiving attention at the Backus hospital at the present time, it is stated, that outside nurses have been called in to assist the regular force.

The season at Quonocontaug has been slow in starting up, says the Sea Shore Breeze, but all the hotels are filling rapidly and it will be lively there from now on until September.

It was decided on Wednesday that there was any fear of typhoid fever breaking out among the state troops at Niantic. The health officers also stated that there was no typhoid in Pipe Grove.

The annual summer outing of the Connecticut Editorial association will be held on Monday, July 25, at Woodbury and Lake Quassapaug.

A considerable number of deer have been seen of late in surrounding country districts and much damage is reported from them to the buckwheat and rye crops, as well as to the vegetable gardens.

Mosquitoes seem to be the only things that are bothering the Norwich Y. M. C. A. boys at their camp at Bushy Point, as otherwise they report that they are having a splendid time.

Work has been begun by the Central Vermont railroad improving its roadbed on the lower end of its line. During the summer upwards of 2,000 ties will be placed between South Windham and Williamstown.

The Preston City baseball nine, of which Herbert Johnson is captain and Gerald E. Burdick is manager, have stopped playing for a few weeks, but will start up again, with renewed zeal, after the busy hay season is over.

Twenty men, representing various of the fine arts, met in the studio of Charles Noel Flagg at Hartford Wednesday evening and took the first step toward the formation of the Connecticut Academy of the Fine Arts.

Plans are being worked out by the committee on Old Home week at Wales, Mass., the big days to be August 8, when Rev. C. H. Ricketts of this city is to be the speaker, and the following Sunday.

Sylvester Z. Poll of New Haven, who recently became the owner of the Broadway theater, and Mrs. Poll are to celebrate their silver wedding on August 25. The guests will number between two and three hundred.

Discharged laborers are suspected by officials of the Connecticut company of placing spikes and stones on the trolley track at Montville Wednesday morning. The motorman saw the obstructions and stopped his car.

Next Wednesday the first of the coast artillery companies of the C. N. G. will leave for the annual tour of duty at the island forts. The entire corps of the state has been ordered to report at the different forts on July 21.

The state secretary's office is instituting the use of registered letters to offenders who have received a conviction for reckless auto driving demanding an explanation and warning them of the consequences if they are convicted a second time.

Owners of motor and power boats must see that their engines are properly muffled, according to the provisions of the law passed by the general assembly in 1909. The penalty for violation of the law is a fine of not more than $25.

It is feared that when the New Haven road makes its rumored changes in and about the present railroad station at New London, the Parade may be interfered with. The improvements to be made there by the ladies of the Pequot have been postponed.

Postoffices have been notified that those sending matter by registered mail and desiring return receipts should endorse on the registered matter, "Return receipts requested." Until a short time ago receipts were returned in all cases.

Connecticut Episcopalians will be interested in a tablet given by J. Pierpont Morgan about to be unveiled in St. George's church, Schenectady, N. Y., to the memory of Rt. Rev. John Williams, for 48 years bishop of the diocese of Connecticut.

An unusually large growth of pusley is reported this season. This plant is a splendid thing to fatten hogs, and makes also a delicious green, combining the tenderness of Swiss chard with a fine flavor like spinach. In England it is cultivated and sold extensively.

The big guns at Fort Mansfield were used for the first time this summer on Wednesday. The target was towed out two or three miles, just in front of the bathing beach. The five and eight inch guns will be in constant practice for several days.

The portrait of the late Gov. George L. Lilley by Charles Noel Flagg was hung in the State library at Hartford Wednesday afternoon. The three-quarter length painting represents the late governor as just arisen from a table, upon which rests his left hand. In his right he holds a book with his fingers between the leaves.

MRS. BAIN PLACED UNDER ARREST

Believed that She Set Fire to the Barns on Charles S. Brown's Place, but that She is Not Responsible for Her Acts—Two Calves and a Dozen Hens Eaten to Death.

On Thursday afternoon, following the burning of the barns at the farm of Charles S. Brown at East Great Plain, near the Starr farm, Policeman Brock under orders from Chief Murphy arrested Mrs. Nora Bain and on the police station she was marked as an insane person. She was detained at police headquarters over night, and it is expected that some action will be taken this morning in regard to her case. It is believed that she set fire to the barns, which were totally destroyed, but she is not held responsible for her act, because of her mental condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Bain and child live at Mr. Brown's place. Mrs. Bain looking after the house. About 1:45 o'clock Thursday afternoon she called to her husband, who was in the cellar at work with farm hands, getting potatoes ready for market, telling him that his barns were on fire. He responded immediately, as did the other men, but it was impossible to save the buildings. It was found that the fire had been started by Mrs. Bain, who had rushed into the barn to save three calves, but was able to rescue but one; another came out, but ran back to its death. It is believed that Mrs. Bain burned to death. In trying to save the calves Mr. Brown had his clothing scorched and his hands were badly scathed. He was taken to the hospital, but he is not expected to level the two barns. The second barn was also set, it is stated, and it is believed that Mrs. Bain was the one who set it. The fire was started in the center of the barn floor and it is believed that Mrs. Bain was the one who set it. The fire was started in the center of the barn floor and it is believed that Mrs. Bain was the one who set it.

MORE HARD WORK AT NANTIC CAMP

Nearly All of First Separate Company Taken Prisoners.

Maneuvering over the same territory as Wednesday, the Second Infantry and other arms of the Connecticut National Guard in camp at Niantic had a strenuous morning Thursday. A battalion commanded by Major Norton, and including the First Separate company, was designated a flanking force, which was being pursued by two battalions under command of Major Tilden and Major Isbell. There was no decision given when the engagement was called off, but the opinion was held that Major Norton's force, which was being pursued, was the one that was taken prisoner. The operations were watched by the regular army officers criticized the work of the past days and expressed themselves as being pleased with the improvement shown.

Horses Were Frightened. A pair of horses owned by George W. Carroll of Norwich ran away, when frightened by the military band on Monday morning, writes a Niantic correspondent. The team collided with an automobile standing in front of the Niantic house and were stopped by guests of the hotel. Two women sitting in the automobile escaped injury. The horses were frightened by the band machine escaped without much injury. The coachman for Mr. Carroll had driven the horses from Norwich to Niantic, where they were taken to Mr. Carroll's summer home at Crescent Beach.

WILL BE ARRESTED.

New York, New Haven and Hartford Road Will Endeavor to Stop Trespassing.

Four of the special agents of railroad detective in the employ of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad arrived at Niantic Monday morning, writes a Niantic correspondent. They will remain there for the remainder of this week or longer in the interests of the company.

The reason for the presence of these gentlemen at this time is because of an endeavor on the part of the railroad officials to stop trespassing on the company's property.

Probably the several accidents that have happened to trespassers in Danbury and vicinity within the past few weeks have spurred the officials to attempt a more rigid enforcement of the law in that section.

The detectives state that their orders are to arrest every person not an employe found on the company's property.

In order that people may not be ignorant of their intention, the officers have been directed to post notices about the railroad property warning against trespassing.

A Big Legal Fee.

It has been decided by a referee of the probate court at Chicago that the fee of $250,000 demanded by a lawyer in settling up the estate of the late John D. Rockefeller is just after all to be allowed. The exaction probably is not as grievous as the one of $93,000 demanded by a young lawyer in connection with the Shaw case, which called out from Judge Holt of the United States court at New York the remark: "Since this trial began I have been reading the papers and I find that his greatest fee was $250,000. And how is it? It is a general and the most distinguished advocate of his time." That was $89,783, it is to be noted.

No Doubt of It in Future. Should the democrats carry the legislature in Connecticut next fall, which is not likely, there is no reason to believe that the farmer of Norwich will be the successful candidate for United States senator. Those who do not recognize his self announced candidacy for that office as an absolute joke see in it enough humor to queer him as a possible nominee. It appears from the newspaper comment that the farmer of Norwich has a habit of saying strange things but there will be no doubt of it in future.

He has established a reputation for himself this time. It is being remarked that Connecticut has had many peculiar officials but that it has never yet chosen a humorist.—New Britain Herald.

Incidents in Society

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Atterbury are the guests of the Misses Ripley of Broadway.

Hon. and Mrs. Henry Ruggles and daughter, Miss Annie Ruggles, of Broad street are at Hardwick, Mass., for the remainder of the summer.

Known to Woolen Manufacturers. Richard Waterhouse, one of the best known woolen manufacturers in the state of Rhode Island and owner of the plant of the Greenville woolen mills at Greenville, R. I., died at his home at Greenville Wednesday in his 74th year. He had been in poor health for some time. Four years ago he retired from business life and gave up the active operation of the mills, which have since been leased to a New York firm.

Rockville Firm Not in Contempt. Judge James P. Platt in the circuit court of the United States Wednesday refused to find Belding Brothers & Co. of Rockville, in contempt. Benjamin F. Armstrong, a milk manufacturer of New London, had asked that they be held in contempt. Judge Platt filed a memorandum of decision on July 11, which gives his reasons for refusing the motion.

Only Lacked Westerly. Stephen Coffey of Norwich has been in Westerly today. He is one of the Norwich baseball magnates, and his opinion is that if Westerly had been in the Connecticut association it would have been a success.—Westerly Sun.
