Applications in Horse Stealing Case.

Montville Authorities Arrest Leon Weinert—Charged With Harboring Stolen Horses—Furnishes Bonds of $550 for Continuance.

Leon Weinert was arrested Saturday afternoon at his place on Chapel Hill in Montville, near Chesterfield, by Constable Michael Hickey of Centerville and brought before Justice of the Peace William Smiddy at the home of the justice in Uncasville. Mr. Weinert is charged with harboring and receiving stolen horses.

When arrested he made no resistance, but accompanied the officer to court where he asked for a continuance of the case, not having an attorney. Attorney John D. Hall of this city was present to ask for a continuance. No evidence was presented at this time, but the request for continuance was granted and the case continued to Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock before Justice Smiddy. The accused was released on bonds of $550, furnished by himself and his son, partly in cash.

The arrest of Weinert is an outcome of the horse stealing case early in June, when Harry Epstein of Philadelphia and Abraham Needle of New York were tracked to the Weinert place and captured there with a pair of horses which they had stolen from Centerville, E. L. Osgood, the owner, and Needle was skinning it and cutting it up when the officers arrived.

Police officers of this city and Chief Andrew of Centerville making the arrest, indications at the time led the officers to believe that Weinert knew something about other horse stealing cases in this vicinity, and the Montville authorities have been at work first in the homes of the horse stealers, who he had a few bombshells to explode.

Another notable victory for a veteran champion has just been won in the tennis tournament on the Longwood courts, near Boston, where many of the best players in the country met this year, as in summer gone by William A. Larned, the champion of last year, again defeated the players who won first honors of the tournament and the right to challenge Larned for the famous Longwood cup.

It proved to be rather an easy victory for the champion, although Mr. Laughlin, the young athlete who played against him, had done very brilliant work throughout the earlier rounds. Experience especially demands speed and dash the veteran, who has been a conspicuous figure in tennis for nine years, was so decisively that it was evident he might have come off victor against a decidedly more dangerous rival.

This sort of thing is more remarkable in tennis than it would be in a sport which called for less extreme agility and suppleness. When men close to forty can play tennis as well as does it is evident that Cleveland is not alone in his glory, Cleveland Leader.
