

Catarrh Sufferers

Good Thing to Know
If you now own a Hyomei hard rubber inhaler The Lee & Osgood Co. wants you to know they will send you a bottle of HYOMEI for only 50 cents.
Remember this, all who suffer with catarrh—a disease of the HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) is put up in a separate package and sold for 50 cents, to accommodate the vast army of people who already own a Hyomei inhaler.
The Lee & Osgood Co. will sell it to you at that price and give you the opportunity to begin at once to rid yourself of vile catarrh and snuffing, hawking and spitting that go with it. Many people through years of neglect have let catarrh get a strong hold upon them. Some of these people unreasonably think that one bottle of HYOMEI ought to cure them.
No matter how chronic your catarrh troubles, HYOMEI is guaranteed by The Lee & Osgood Co. to cure them if you give it half a chance. Just breathe it, that's all, and its healing, soothing, antiseptic properties will make you feel better in a day.
If you own an inhaler get a 50 cent bottle of HYOMEI at The Lee & Osgood Co. today. If you do not own a Hyomei inhaler ask for a $1.00 outfit, which includes inhaler.

"Stop, Look, Listen!"

In a decision of the United States court of appeals in the case of the New York Central vs. Malmgren is a point which should be noted by automobile owners and operators. The familiar rule, "Stop, look listen," the court says, is more binding upon the chauffeur than the driver of a horse. An automobile can be stopped near a track without danger, while a horse might be frightened by the locomotive. According to this decision, chauffeurs who dash over a crossing without looking for approaching trains are guilty of contributory negligence. If they more often used ordinary caution the probability of fatalities at crossings would be greatly lessened.
This decision, however, is in no sense a defense of grade crossings. The abolition of these death traps is necessary to insure absolute safety. The signals of warning may be misunderstood by drivers who are not inclined to take risks. Public sentiment, while strongly opposed to the creation of new grade crossings, is not powerful enough to abolish the old ones on short notice, and the prospect is that it will be many years before all roads are carried over by railway tracks.
—Providence Journal.

An automobile has been brought out in Europe that is light and can be picked up and carried by two men whom it will accommodate.

WHALER MARGARET HAS BEEN SOLD

Sold by the Church Trading Co. to Captain James F. Avery of New Bedford—To be Copper Sheathed and Return to the Business.

The Church Trading company, which has been sending out the whaler Margaret for the past few years, has sold the schooner to Captain James F. Avery of New Bedford. The schooner returned from its last whaling trip early in August, and after unloading its cargo anchored in the harbor. It was sent out three times by the company after sea sickness, seals and whales, and had good luck each time.
On Tuesday the schooner was towed to New London, and is now at the Riverside yards, undergoing some repairs, which will take a few days. Among other things copper sheathing is being placed on the bottom, and when the work is completed the vessel will be taken to New Bedford from which port she will hereafter sail. Captain Avery owns other whaling vessels, and it is probable that he will send this boat out in the spring. He also owns several coasters and has long been identified with marine enterprises. Captain Avery is a brother of Mrs. Alice Clay of New Bedford, and New London friends of the captain are to make a trip in the schooner to New Bedford with him.
The Church Trading company was organized through the influence of Dr. G. R. Harris, whose death occurred while the vessel was on her last cruise. Owing to his death, he being the active head of the company, it is probable that the business will not continue in the company any longer. On Thursday Judge Brown, an officer of the company, stated that if they had intended to continue they would not have sold the whaler, which is a staunch boat and well built for such business.

WHAT HAS BECOME OF CYRUS ALLYN?

Suitcase Containing Deed, Letters and Clothing of Ledyard Man Found in Hartford.
What has happened to Cyrus Allyn of Ledyard? asks the Hartford Post. The finding of a suitcase and the extension case at the Union station in that city Thursday morning by Police-man Sullivan occasioned the inquiry.
In the two cases were found a quantity of clothing and a mass of papers which prove pretty conclusively that the cases are the property of Allyn. They contain letters addressed to him in many places, among them being Cornish Flat and Conway, N. H. There is a deed of property indicating that he bought of Byron A. Maynard of Ledyard a piece of property for $120.
There was also a letter from a firm of Norwich lawyers pertaining to a business matter. What became of Allyn that he should abandon so much of his personal property is a question that, perhaps only Allyn can solve.

The Corporation Lawyer.
Mr. Hamlin's reply to George Fred Williams' reading, and not merely because of its interest in the state campaign. It may suggest to some people the possibility that a man can serve corporation interests and serve the people without any clashing or the betrayal of either client, which is a fact that now seems to be beyond the comprehension of many. Mr. Hamlin seems to have served corporation and public alike, the most marked distinction between his two fields of service being that the corporation paid him for his services, while the greater part of his public service has been gratuitous.—Boston Herald.

AUTOMOBILE PRESENTED

Rev. William A. Keefe.
Vestry of St. Mary's Church Crowded as Rev. J. J. Smith Makes Presentation.
Rarely, if ever, has a priest or layman in this city been tendered such a reception as that given to the Rev. William A. Keefe, now pastor of St. Thomas church, Voluntown, when he was called here Thursday evening and presented with a handsome, five seated Buick touring car by the parishioners of St. Mary's church, among whom he has labored so zealously for the past three years.
The vestry of St. Mary's church, where the presentation was formally made, there was hardly a vacant room left at 8 o'clock, and the hour set for the opening number on the evening's programme. The evening's affair was in charge of Rev. James J. Smith, it was made enjoyable to all by informal talks by Father Smith, Father Keefe and members and friends of St. Mary's church, and by musical selections from the choir.
A hearty welcome was extended to the large number present by Father Smith, who rejoiced to see that so many had come to bid their good friend goodnight.
A greeting song was rendered in a pleasing manner by the church choir, after which Miss N. J. Buckley sang "Our Hearts Are as True as the Sky," and called forth hearty applause for her splendid effort.
Father Smith then told of his great pleasure in meeting the members of his parish in those rooms, where so many pleasant memories had been created during the thirteen years of his ministry among them. He referred to his early experience in this place, of the kind words that were spoken of his predecessors and of the fine attitude of the people towards the priests.
When Rev. Keefe saw that the speaker continued, and when representatives of three of the societies of the parish met with him one evening it was decided to shorten, if possible, the distance that separated them from their former curate. The people all responded readily to the call made upon them, and everywhere the members of the committee in charge were received most kindly.
Turning to Father Keefe, Father Smith welcomed him in behalf of St. Mary's church and told him he was always welcome among his former friends because of the fine life he had led and good works he had wrought while among them.
The automobile was then presented by Father Smith, who expressed the hope that the new pastor at Voluntown would use it for a long while and to good purpose.
Rev. William A. Keefe was applauded vigorously as he stood up to reply. He declared it was unnecessary to voice his appreciation of the gift, as all knew full well what his feelings were. He realized that the giving of this costly present had meant to every one of the contributors, but said that, as a token of their esteem for him, it would always be a source of inspiration as he went about his new charge.
The pleasant experiences in this place, the lasting friendships that had been formed, and the pain he experienced at the thought of parting were all called to mind, and especial reference was made to the happy relationship that had existed between himself and Father Smith. In conclusion he extended to all his hearty thanks.
Several were called upon at this time for a few remarks. John Sullivan, Joseph A. Donnelly, Frank J. Murtha, Dr. Edward J. Brophy, Louis Brunelle and John J. Corkery responded, and afforded entertainment and pleasure to all by their pleasing remarks. Every one of the speakers told of their high regard for Father Keefe, of the fine work he had done, and the wrought among them all and in conclusion extended to him their best wishes for his future success.
John J. Corkery was the last of these speakers, and the concluding lines of his address, which were directed to Father Keefe, were:
Bright be the life before you,
Friend of our happy days;
May none know you but to love you;
None name you but to praise.

After the meeting had been adjourned, the entire party gathered in front of the church and gave three rousing cheers for the new pastor at Voluntown as he was borne away in his new automobile.
AT POLI'S.
Vaudeville and Motion Pictures.

Following the opening moving picture number at Poli's for the week's end are the sensational sharpshooters, Frank McCrea & Co., whose work is well put on, and they get a big hand. Belle Adair, who is making her debut here, made a most favorable impression with her songs and received a big hand. She possesses a fine voice and has a charming stage presence. Her work is of a high character and she made a decided hit.
In The First Lesson Sager Midgely & Co. have a laughable character skit which gets to the audience and keeps them well entertained. Clark and Bergman have a baseball number which works in many of the baseball phrases in a laughable manner. They are also clever dancers.
Ten people are with the Southern Serenaders in the presentation of southern pastimes and they sing and dance to the delight of the house, getting much applause. The concluding vaudeville number is the elevated bar act by Rice, Sully and Scott, and they work in plenty of comedy. It is a lively number and proves popular.
The moving pictures are selected with a view to interesting the public and they are distinct and finely displayed.

There are some motor taxicabs & Bonos Ayres, but they are few in number compared with the horse-drawn public vehicles, nor does it seem likely that the latter will be superseded by them for some time. Horses are cheap in Argentines, while taxicabs has to be shipped from the United States, and is therefore expensive.

Cottolene

Doughnut Day is enjoyed by all the family without fear of future disaster

There are two kinds of doughnuts—
There's the lard-laden doughnut that is heavy, soggy and lies like lead in the stomach—that's the old-fashioned kind. Steer clear of it; it's the lard that makes it indigestible, not the cook.
Then there's the crisp, flaky, richly browned doughnut, that almost melts in your mouth, yet without the suspicion of greasiness. This kind is made with Cottolene, a vegetable product that makes food that even a child can digest with ease.
You never knew real doughnut goodness until you try the kind made with Cottolene.
Cottolene is much purer and more wholesome than lard.

Never Sold in Bulk
Cottolene is packed in pails with an air-tight top, to keep it clean, fresh and wholesome, and prevent it from catching dust and absorbing disagreeable odors, such as fish, oil, etc.

COTTOLENE is Guaranteed
