HALLOWEEN CHARMS

Features of Social Which Juniors Give for Seniors.

The junior class entertained the senior class of the normal school on Wednesday evening at a Halloween social held in the school gymnasium. The gym was prettily decorated with corn, jack-o'-lanterns, witches and cats, as well as other reasonable decorations. The fortune booth was a popular feature and was besieged all the evening and kept Miss Hazel Dimmock busy reading horoscopes for the vivacious young ladies. The fish pond came in for a great deal of attention and some were lucky enough to get a

OBITUARY.

Horace Whitaker.

Word has been received here of the death of Horace Whitaker, which occurred in the latter part of October at his home in Grosu, Cal. Mr. Whitaker was a native of Ashford, the oldest of sixteen children. He left home when comparatively a young man and went west. When the first call for volunteers was made in 1861 Mr. Whitaker and four of his brothers went forth in defense of the country. From 1861 to 1864 they braved the dangers of the battlefield.

Four of these men returned to their homes, and the fifth, Daniel, died at the battle of Aldie, in the early part of the struggle. Mr. Whitaker never married. He is survived by three brothers, William, formerly of Ashford, and now of California, Joseph of West Hartford, and Gen. Edward Whitaker of Washington, D. C. He leaves six sisters, Mrs. Harriet Hay of California, Mrs. Mary Smith of Westford, Conn., Mrs. Adaline James of Mansfield, Mrs. Bertha Pratt of East Hartford, Mrs. Anna Lodee of Lynchburg, Va., and Mrs. Emma Whitaker, a missionary in India.

At the close of the war Mr. Whitaker returned to his ranch in California, where he has since resided.

TWELVE-INCH MAIN

Breaks in Valley Street and Takes All Night to Repair.

Supt. H. S. Moulton of the water department was notified shortly after 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon of a break in a pipe on Valley street in the vicinity of the new addition to the Windham Silk Co. He found that a 12-inch main had broken and that water was running into the cellar of the new addition to the silk mill. He immediately set a gang of men to work to find the broken pipe and they were digging all night fixing up the damage. The water was shut off from Church street up Valley to High and down High street to Main street. The section of Valley street in the neighborhood of the break is a pretty wet and muddy place and that section of Valley street between North and Church streets has been closed to traffic all day.

WEDDING.

Lovejoy-Louks.

Thursday afternoon at 11 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill S. Louks, Warrenville, their daughter, Miss Ida E. and Edmund M. Lovejoy of Pawtucket, R. I. were married by Rev. G. C. Chappell, pastor of the Union Baptist church, Montville.

The parlor of the Louks home was prettily decorated with cut flowers, chrysanthemums and autumn leaves. The bride was given away by her father, Albert W. Louks, a brother of the bride, was best man. The matron of honor was Mrs. E. H. Smith of New York, an intimate friend of both families. As the bridal party entered the parlor the seating music from Lohengrin was played by Mrs. David O. Mathewson. The bride's gown was of white silk, trimmed with hand run Chantilly and crystal lace. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The matron of honor's dress was of old rose, exquisitely trimmed. After the ceremony a reception was held and a breakfast served, at which about fifty guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. Lovejoy left late in the afternoon for their honeymoon, and will make their home in Pawtucket, R. I., where Mr. Lovejoy is employed by the Industrial Trust Co. of that city. Mrs. Lovejoy is a graduate of the Pawtucket high school, class of 1907, and until recently taught school in Warrenville.

JEWETT CITY

Calendar Supper With Novel Features—Served in Baptist Church Vestry—Entertaining Programme Provided—Borough Small Notes.

The Baptist vestry was transformed into a fascinating spectacle Thursday evening, when a calendar supper was given under the direction of Mrs. Arthur M. Brown. There were twelve tables set, for which seats were secured in advance.

The January table was in charge of Miss Ida Foster, assisted by Mrs. Wilbur Johnston and Miss Alice McBroome. It was a McKinley table, his portrait over the center of the table and a frame work of flags. Red, white and blue streamers extended over the table corners, and runners of the same color were on the table. Flags were upon the wall also. The favors were white carnations.

The February table was the St. Valentine's table, in charge of Mrs. Charles H. Gardner, assisted by Mrs. George Sparks and Miss Emma Babcock. There were red runners upon the table, with a large Cupid for a center piece, and red crepe paper from which hung hearts, and Cupids were over the table. The favors were hearts with gilt letters on the back.

March was the St. Patrick's table, and here Mrs. E. R. Gardner was in charge, assisted by Mrs. John Blake and Miss Beattie Biers. Over the center of the table was an immense shamrock, with festoons of green paper and small shamrocks. The favors were green runners on the table, with a white chrysanthemum center piece. The favors were shamrock candy boxes, and the Shamrock menu cards. Green shaded candles lighted the table.

April was the Easter's table, in charge of Mrs. A. M. Brown, assisted by Misses May Potter and Rosa Wilcox. Yellow crepe paper, from which festoons and streamers were over the table, and jonquil paper runners upon it. The favors were jonquil candy boxes.

May was the May-pole table, in charge of Mrs. Brown, assisted by Misses Emma Gardner and Ethel Harberton. A May-pole of pink and white paper was in the center of the table, and streamers extended from this to the sides. Pink and white runners were on the table, and white baskets of candy were the favors.

June was the bride's table, and was in charge of Mrs. E. C. Whiting, assisted by Mrs. George Babcock and Miss Elizabeth Whiting. There was a large center piece of pink roses, and round and square favors were overhead, extending to the ends of the table, where there were large pink bows. Pink candles in silver candelabra added much to the effect. The favors were wedding cake tied in the usual style.

July was the patriotic table, in charge of Mrs. Edward Roney, assisted by Misses Wilbur Blake and Theresa Roney. There was a center piece of flags and overhead were large and small streamers, flags, shields and eagles, while on the walls was a picture of Washington, draped in flags. The favors were crepe paper American flags.

August was the summer girl table, in charge of Miss Alice A. Brown, assisted by Misses Josephine Miller and Elizabeth Clark. Mirrors of butterfly flies floated over this table among the yellow crepe paper festoons. Yellow runners were on the table, and there were summer girl menu cards. The favors were bicentennial canoes.

September was the sunbonnet babies' table, in charge of Miss Mary M. Brown, assisted by Misses Georgina Campbell and Ida Brown. Autumn leaf runners were upon this table, and overhead were trimmed chrysanthemums and asparagus fern. The favors were maple leaf candy boxes, on which were perched diminutive sunbonnet babies.

October was a Halloween table, in charge of Mrs. R. W. Dearnley, assisted by Misses Martie Barber and Edith Butts. A ghost's head was the center piece, and scattered over the table were black paper cats and owls. Overhead were pumpkins, yellow and black paper cut witches and owls. The window near the table was draped in yellow and black paper, with an immense owl in the center. The favors were witches on broomsticks.

November was the Thanksgiving table, in charge of Mrs. J. E. Phillips, assisted by Lillie Jones and Mabel McBroome. Over the center of the table was a big wishbone, inside of which hung a turkey. There were yellow runners on the table and a center piece of paper turkeys on which were pumpkins and apples, flanked by candles. The favors were turkey candy boxes.

December was the Christmas table, in charge of Mrs. Nelbert Myott, assisted by Mrs. F. H. Gilbert and Miss Martha Church. The table was in an open booth of red and silver, with a Christmas tree for a center piece. Overhead was a large red Christmas bell with white streamers. The favors were Christmas stockings of candy and popcorn.

The napkins at each table corresponded with the month it represented. The supper served was cold meats, escalloped potatoes, cabbage salad, rolls, cake and coffee. This part of the affair was in charge of Mrs. Charles Butts, Mrs. Nathan Babcock, Mrs. E. C. Wilcox, Mrs. A. E. Prior, Mrs. Hattie Tillinghast, Mrs. Ellen Babcock and Mrs. Emma Roney. A unique feature was the manner in which the program was arranged. Each month furnished one number which was not known until the time for the entertainment arrived. This was the program:

January—Vocal solo by Mrs. Robert Wilbur.

February—Vocal solo by Isabel Burton.

March—Ocarina duet by Wallace Payne and Ernest Saunders.

April—Recitation by Charles L. Babcock.

May—Song by Francis Brown and Tyler Gilbert.

June—Piano solo by Mrs. F. S. Leonard.

July—Violin solo by Professor Bulard of Norwich.

August—Solo by Miss Elizabeth Beardwood.

September—Solo by Miss Mabel Young.

October—Piano solo by Miss Emma Babcock.

November—Recitation by Alice Gilbert.

December—Solo by Vera McBroome.

The whole affair was finely arranged and Mrs. Brown received many merited compliments.

Norway's Dwelling Banks.

The cry against paternalism in government, like many popular cries, goes astray when it seeks to condemn by wholesale; seeing no good in any so-called paternal enterprise. In view of the fact that the time is near at hand in this country for the establishment of postal savings banks, which, after all, are fundamentally paternal, it may be interesting to note how a similar movement has succeeded in Norway.

In Stavanger there has been established what is known as the Bolig bank, or Dwelling bank, the purpose of which is to enable the people to own their own homes and to cease paying rent, which has been recognized as one of the greatest economic evils. The Bolig bank was organized in 1904, with a small capital stock of $20,000, guaranteed by the Stavanger city council. Its purpose was to loan money to the poorer people of the city for the building of homes.

Of this capital there is loaned in the city of Stavanger $115,776, and so practical and so productive of results was the system shown to be that in 1910 the Stavanger city council granted the bank an additional loan of $538,090, which could be used without restriction for the applications for loans that were then pending. This entire amount has already been loaned out to the people, and there are applications on file for as much more; so that the Stavanger has been asked for an additional loan.
