

BAIL STILL DENIED MRS. SCHENK

Her Room in Tower of County Jail Furnished from Her Own Home

ALLEGED POISONER OF HUSBAND

Held Awaiting Developments in the Illness of West Virginia Millionaire Pork Packer—Mrs. Schenk Declares Innocence of Any Attempt Upon Her Husband's Life—Her Children Kept in Ignorance of Charges Against their Mother.

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 11.—In a room in the tower of the county jail, fitted up with a rocking chair and a cot, Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk remained today, detained without privilege of bail, awaiting developments in the illness of her husband, John Schenk, a millionaire pork packer.

Arraignment of Mrs. Schenk on charges that she attempted to poison her husband by putting arsenic into his food and drinking water while he was recovering from the effects of a stroke, was postponed pending the outcome of his sickness. At the North Wheeling hospital, where he was taken two weeks ago when suspicion was first aroused, he was reported today as slightly improved but still critically ill. He suffers a high fever and is unable to eat. Despite his weakened condition the authorities ventured to tell him of the arrest of Mrs. Schenk but he said to have only confirmed her name and later remarked:

"If all these things are true, she is where she ought to be."

Unnamed Suspects to Be Arrested. That further arrests are to be made in this case was admitted tonight by prosecuting Attorney Hamilton and Chief of Police Hastings. It is believed the unnamed suspects are expected to furnish light on the manner in which arsenic or other drugs might have found their way into the Schenk home. The unnamed suspects are the identification of them at the Johns Hopkins university and the West Virginia university, that arsenic was used in some of the mineral water alleged to have been taken from Mrs. Schenk's bed.

Schenk's Illness Dates Back a Year. As the jail today Mrs. Schenk was questioned anew but she repeatedly declared her innocence of any attempt upon her husband's life. Attorney Hamilton said today that Mrs. Schenk's illness might be said to date back nearly a year. In January he fell suddenly ill and took a trip abroad for his health, and on his return he returned much improved, he fell ill again and Dr. Gregory Ackerman, a German specialist, who was called in, diagnosed the case as poisoning. He was, however, soon afterward discharged from the case. Dr. Frank L. Hump, a local physician, was then summoned by Mrs. Schenk and he returned a similar diagnosis, but his opinion was kept from Mrs. Schenk until the expert analysis had been made at a domestic. Wind Bothered THE BALTIMORE AVIATORS Friday's Sport Spoiled by the Sharp, Snappy Gusts.

Winthrop and a pilot from Washington witnessed what little flying there was during the afternoon. At 2.45 p. m. a plane, which has been blowing 25 miles an hour, was seen to be skimming the water. It was a Wright passenger-carrying biplane made a try for altitude and duration.

He found much trouble with the wind in the upper air and descended at five minutes after three o'clock, after having reached a height of 1,650 feet.

Just before he landed, Latham, in his Antoinette, started on a duration flight. He kept very close to the ground and his monoplane rocked like a ship in a bad sea, but he handled it in a way to challenge the admiration of all in the vicinity. The plane was skinned closely. He made a series of flights against the gusts but came to earth after a five-minute flight. The audience waited for further flights, but the wind conditions grew worse rather than better and no further attempts were made.

GOVERNOR-ELECT DIX PLEDGES HIMSELF To an Honest Administration of His Office—Democratic Jubilee.

Boonville, N. Y., Nov. 11.—John A. Dix, the governor-elect, at his first public appearance at the Democratic jubilee of the polls, pledged himself here tonight to an honest administration, untouched by any influence, and to do his whole people. His first promise, he said, would be administrative reform and retrenchment in expenses. He took occasion to refer to the charges made by party fealty who had contributed to his election and to most conditions tending to undermine our government and our country, and to say, "I am here to do the best I can for the best of our government and our country."

A democratic jubilee meeting here tonight afforded the governor-elect an opportunity to explain his views. In part, he said: "I have taken upon myself a great responsibility, and if we are to bear well that responsibility and perform well the duties of state government, it can be only by the devotion, counsel and co-operation of all good citizens. It is a time when we all need to be united, and our courage to solve the problems that are presented today."

KENTUCKY BAD MAN ELUDES HIS PURSUERS. Jake Noble Still in Hiding—He is Fully Armed.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 11.—While more than two hundred armed men searched throughout Breathitt county today for Jake Noble, who killed Jailer Wesley Turner last Tuesday, the fugitive eluded his pursuers. Tonight he is still in hiding somewhere in the mountains.

Governor Wilson has been asked to aid in the chase and the reward for the arrest of Noble may be increased. The searchers have arrested a Corporal Radcliffe today and several hours later he killed himself to avoid capture.

There had been a long standing feud between the gunman and his superior non-commissioned officer.

After killing Radcliffe, Rowland took up a position in the mountains for a short time, from which he defied the whole garrison. Armed with a service rifle and a bandolier of ammunition and with the aid of a few soldiers at the camp, he worked in front of him, he held soldiers at bay for hours and fired on a detachment that went to pick up the corporal's body. Realizing that he could be starved out, ultimately, Rowland turned the rifle on himself and blew off his head.

Today's tragedy is similar to that of August 11 when Gunner Thomas killed Captain Prentiss for a fancied rivalry. Allen is to be hanged on December 22.

HIGH EXPLOSIVE TEST ON BATTLESHIP ARMOR To Be Made in Hampton Roads on Nov. 15th.

Washington, Nov. 11.—The details of the high explosive test which the armor of the monitor Puritan will be subjected in Hampton Roads on Nov. 15 were made public by Acting Secretary Winthrop of the navy department today. The experiment will determine the effect of explosive gelatine in an untried charge on the heavy turret armor of a battleship.

The test was provided for by congress in the naval appropriation bill for the current year, which stipulated that the high explosive test be made unless the navy department makes this experiment. Another condition attached to the appropriation refers to an attack on heavy turret and shell armor by armor-piercing projectiles at a battle range of not less than 8,000 yards. The test will be made later.

The test of explosive gelatine will be made on the armor of the monitor Puritan which is being repaired at the navy yard in Hampton Roads. At least 200 pounds of the gelatine will be exploded.

There is much difference of opinion as to the probable effect on the vessel. Ordnance officers here think that the force of such an explosion would be sufficient to take the line of least resistance and consequently send its volume upward to burst the turret.
