INTERESTS OF WESTERLY

Mrs. Betsey Slocum Reaches 91st Birthday—Attempt to Deprive Horace Vose of Turkey Honors—Successor to Col. Charles H. Ledward to be Elected—Wedding Anniversary Observed.

A New York weekly had a fine picture of James E. Vose of Stonington at a Saturday evening.

Dr. E. Benjamin Andrews is seriously sick in a sanatorium in Lincoln, Neb. He was a former president of Brown university and in the civil war served in the First Connecticut Heavy artillery.

Charles H. Wilcox, for twenty-one years tender at the Canal street crossing, has been relieved of that duty at his own request and will hereafter be in charge of the lamps in the vicinity of the Westerly station.

There is evidently some serious mistake or a deliberate freak of nature in the picture of the president and his family known that the turkey served at the presidential feast was the bird raised in Rhode Island and dressed and sent to the president as a gift from Horace Vose of Westerly, the turkey king.

Last Monday, while the dressed bird was speeding by express to the White House, the Washington representative of the Associated Press became interested in this important annual event, and the untrusting informant sent all over the world that Horace Vose had sent no turkey to President Taft, although every other president would be better favored from the days of General Grant.

Traditions and customs of early days in Westerly college were vividly and interestingly recalled by graduates who addressed the first "tradition meeting" held at the town hall, under the auspices of the student government association last Friday afternoon.

Dean Ellen E. Pendleton of Westerly, acting president of the college and one of its early graduates, opened the meeting by describing the great changes that have marked the place since the days when a graduating class of twenty-five was considered large.

Dean Pendleton was followed by several of the alumnae, who told of the inception of various prominent college institutions and activities.

An election for lieutenant colonel of the First Artillery district, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Lieut. Col. Charles H. Ledward of Westerly, will be held in the headquarters of the district at Westerly, Dec. 6, Maj. Archibald C. Matteson is prominently mentioned for promotion, and in this event there will be a contest between the labors of the late Henry Fowle Durant, the founder, and to the work of the early undergraduates.

The trapper made his appearance in a short time, and it was from him that Mr. McIntyre learned that he was not headed in the direction of his camp, but for a settlement nine miles away.

The pair were talking over the major's experience when the guide put in an appearance. From his own knowledge learned that he had been cutting circles through the woods and over the mountains in his search for camp, but the guide had by persistence been able to follow the trail and effect their meeting. The return to camp was uneventful.

Mr. and Mrs. George Newell and daughter, Barbara, of Washington, D. C., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Burr in King street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thayer and their son, Allen, of Providence, R. I., have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Thayer in King street.

Miss Rita Smith of Southbridge, Mass., has been visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Dora Smith, in Fremont street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bennett of New York are guests of the former's parents in Church street.

Miss Nona Leary has returned from a visit with her sister, Mrs. Tobin, in Providence.

Roy Smith of Boston has been the guest of his mother, Mrs. Dutee Smith, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Ryher and daughters, Misses Clarice and Ruth Ryher, returned to Providence on Saturday.

Mrs. Ruth's mother, Mrs. Lewis Williams, accompanied them to Providence, where she is to spend the winter.

Misses Bertha and Florence Sargent have been recent Worcester visitors.

Earl Morse of Worcester has been entertained recently by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Morse of South Main street.

Mrs. Minnie Newport has been visiting friends in Central Village.

Mrs. Mabel Gould has been the guest of Boston friends.

Invitations have been issued to the marriage of Miss Deborah Russell, daughter of Mrs. Charles Addison Russell, of Dayville, and Clinton William Whitford Atwood of Williamsville, to take place in the Congregational church in Dayville at 12 o'clock Wednesday, Dec. 14th.

To Entertain Baptist Society. Mrs. Horace Whitney of Center street is to entertain the members of the Baptist church Wednesday afternoon.

Christmas Committees. The following committees have been appointed by the ladies of the Congregational December entertainment in charge: Mrs. F. D. Sargent and Mrs. Thayer, Mrs. Lewis Williams, ice cream; Mrs. Marlon Warren, frappe; Mrs. F. W. Seward, entertainment; Mrs. S. Medbury, wreaths and winter foods.

Eustis, Walter Jacobs of the battleship Salton, whose home is in Danielson, called upon local friends recently.

A Threat. We desire to serve notice on turkeys that if they are not plucked, young roasts are quite edible. We hope they don't know that the pig is more, but it might serve as a threat.—Philadelphia Inquirer.
