

HARWARD MAN LEADS REBEL BAND

Marches His Followers 100 Miles, Leaving Trail of Burning Bridges Behind

PROTECTS AMERICAN PROSPECTORS

Several Citizens of the United States Leading Insurrecto Bands and Many Americans Enlisting with Rebels—Fifteen Americans, Captured by Federals, Believed to Have Been Shot—Federals Spurn American Aid.

El Paso, Tex., March 13.—Capt. Oscar G. Creighton, a Harvard graduate, with a band of insurgents, many of whom are also Americans, camped to-night fifteen miles south of Juarez. No fear is felt that the insurgents are planning an attack on Juarez, where business continues as usual.

The presence of the revolutionists is looked on as an effort to induce General Navarro's two thousand men to take the field.

Wrecked Bridges, Released Americans.
Creighton reached the vicinity of Juarez after a march of about one hundred miles from the south along the Mexican National railroad, leaving in his wake a trail of burning bridges. His arrival near Juarez was sensational, for after releasing twenty-five other Americans who had gone into Mexico to investigate a mine, and who had sought his protection, he waited until dark to announce his presence by a terrific explosion which wrecked a bridge at Mesa, ten miles south of Juarez.

Cut Off Relief for Chihuahua.
The destruction of the bridge tied up the railroad, for a time has been open as far as Candelaria. It also put an end to the hope of sending relief by train to Chihuahua.

Coming upon the American mine prospectors at Chihuahua, one hundred miles south on the Mexican National railroad, he informed them that he intended to destroy what remained of the railroad. If they refused to accompany him, he would allow them to precede him on two handcars.

Tore Out Telegraph Instruments.
The handcars were put in action, but the Americans, fearing a possible attack, preferred to remain under Creighton's protection. At one town Creighton entered a station and tore out the telegraph instruments, which long had been in disuse because of the cutting of the wires.

"Here," Creighton said, throwing the telegraph keys to the miners, "take these along for souvenirs."

Protected American Prospectors.
When the party reached a point near Juarez, Creighton told the mining men to proceed on foot. In case they were mistaken by the Mexican federal troops for insurgents and fired on, he would return the fire.

D. B. Smith, W. T. Skoyler and Marshall Cassidy, who led the mining party, reached El Paso tonight and described their trip. Creighton came from New York city, they said.

Several Americans Leading Rebels.
Citizens of the United States are rapidly becoming leaders of small bands of insurgents, according to reports from the interior. Where they are not experienced enough to take command, they are grouped under command of their own countrymen.

Americans Seek to Enlist.
Scores of Americans are applying for enlistment in the insurrecto junta, despite the threat of the Diaz government to punish with death anyone participating in even a slight degree with the revolutionary movement. What disposition is made of the applicants is not given out by the junta, but it is known that the men do not remain long in El Paso.

Americans May Have Been Shot.
Much fear is expressed as to the fate of fifteen Americans who were taken prisoners by the Mexican federal troops at Casas Grandes a week ago. It is the opinion of some that the men were shot.

Month's Supplies at Chihuahua.
Direct word from the city of Chihuahua, Mexico, was received here this afternoon. It was learned that the American merchant who traveled the 275 miles in an automobile, having left there two days ago. He said while conditions were severe and much suffering is being endured, the supplies would hold out for another month if necessary.

Before leaving he issued a manifesto in which he accepted the Diaz government's suspension of the constitutional guarantee and in reply declared that he would shoot every Mexican, private or officer, captured.

A Case of Tit for Tat.
"To slaughter prisoners of war is against all civilized laws," he said, "but that is what Diaz's declaration means. We have blown up bridges and cut wires when war exigencies warranted. If we are to be killed for that, if captured, then on our part it is to be tooth for tooth and eye for eye."

Albany, N. Y., March 13.—Plans for a conference on the senatorial question at the executive mansion tonight between Governor Dix, Mayor Gaynor of New York and Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, were upset by the failure of Mr. Murphy to reach Albany today, as he had planned, and as a result the three will not meet until tomorrow.

Dix and Gaynor Talk It Over.
The absence of the Tammany leader, however, did not prevent a thorough discussion of the situation by Governor Dix and Mayor Gaynor. The conclusion of the matter tonight and it is not impossible that they may have some solution of the vexed problem to present to Mr. Murphy at tomorrow's conference.

Chairman Mack Unable to Attend.
Determined to bring about a settlement of the deadlock, if possible, Governor Dix on Saturday invited Mayor Gaynor, Mr. Murphy and Norman E. Advices to the war office tonight say that the expedition is within a hundred miles of the frontier and steadily advancing in order to reach the frontier about the time of the presentation of the ultimatum. The Russian force is considered entirely sufficient to reoccupy the city, which has a Chinese number, although nominally 10,000, number, actually number a bare couple of thousand. They are undisciplined and of diverse equipment and are without artillery.

MORE PARDON NOT YET CONSIDERED BY TAFT.
Has Not Yet Glanced at Papers in the Case.

Augusta, Ga., March 13.—Starting in the third day of his brief vacation with an early attack on Col. Egeve, President Taft played the full eighteen hole course this morning. He was followed by Charles D. Norton, the president's secretary, who had as guests three friends from Chicago.

Shortly after Mr. Taft came in from the course, it was said that he had not so much as glanced at the papers in the proposed Morse pardon case. Reports reaching Augusta from New York that the president will sign a pardon for the convicted banker now serving a term in the Atlanta federal penitentiary are entirely erroneous.

Papers presented as a basis for the Morse pardon are extremely voluminous. The president has not examined these documents yet, and he insists on sifting every detail of evidence in the pardon application or appeals for sentence commutation.

FATHER OF GARIBALDI DOUBTS DEATH REPORT.
News of His Death in Mexican Engagement Causes Grief in Rome.

Rome, March 13.—The report of the death of Giuseppe Garibaldi, grandson of the Italian patriot, which is said to have occurred in an engagement between Mexican troops and insurgents, has been received here with regret. His father, however, Ricciotti Garibaldi, puts no credence in the report.

He has just received a letter from his son, dated about three weeks ago, in which Giuseppe said he was a staff officer with the insurgents in Mexico and expressed confidence in the final success of the revolutionary movement.

Lieut.-Col. Giuseppe Garibaldi, according to early reports received from Mexico, was among those killed in the battle at Casas Grandes. Later advices, however, said that Garibaldi was known to have escaped after the engagement.

Trine Funeral

MURDERER AND HER VICTIMS TO BE BURIED TODAY.

ADMITS MURDER OF SON.
But Mrs. Wood Persisted That She Did Not Kill Husband—Son Walter Refused to Go to Her Deathbed.

Branford, Conn., March 13.—With the funerals tomorrow afternoon of Christopher G. Wood, his 11 year old son, Vardemore, and of the mother, Mrs. Cora Wood, who shot them and then herself, and the filing by Coroner Mix of his findings in the case, the last acts of the tragedy which has so shocked this community will have been enacted and it will have become a thing of the past.

Admitted Murder of Son.
Denying up to the very last that she had shot her husband, but admitting taking the life of her son, and shooting herself, Mrs. Wood died early today, keeping whatever secrets she may have had to herself with no change of her ever being known, as her death precludes all possibility of the matter being taken into court, and a greater portion of what happened between Wednesday morning and the discovery of the bodies by the older son, Walter, Thursday afternoon, will probably never be known.

Maintained She Did Not Shoot Husband.
Although the self-inflicted wound in her side was not of itself necessarily fatal, gangrene developed and yesterday afternoon it was ascertained that the attending physician told Mrs. Wood that she could not live and that he would not see her again, and asked her to tell him the truth; but she persisted in her statement that she did not shoot her husband.

Son Would Not See Her.
Several times during periods of consciousness she asked that her son, Walter, be brought to her, but he did not express any desire to see his mother and this morning when she died only the two nurses who had been attending her were present.

Suicide Theory Not Accepted.
Since the revelation of the autopsy, that the elder Wood was shot in the back of the head and that the bullet came out through the mouth, the suicide theory has been given little credence. It is now thought that he met his death on Wednesday morning soon after the son, Alfred, left the house for his place of employment. At that time Wood was trying to get her to go to New Haven with him and he had gone upstairs to find out why she was not ready. It is thought that he never came down after that.

Triple Funeral Today.
The triple funeral will be held at the Wood home tomorrow afternoon, probably at 2.30 and will be presided over by Rev. S. K. Tompkins, pastor of the First Congregational church, of which Mrs. Wood was a member, and which was attended by her husband and sons. The interment will be in Center cemetery, where the family plot is located. The pall bearers, if the method, will be students of Mr. Wood.

Boy's Schoolmates Send Flowers.
There were many floral offerings received tonight, among them an offering from schoolmates of Vardemore.

NUMEROUS "HIKES" ALONG THE MEXICAN BORDER.
Plan of Patrol to Be Adopted by United States Soldiers.

Augusta, Ga., March 13.—Huntington Wilson, acting secretary of state, slipped unexpectedly into Augusta today and had an hour's talk with President Taft. He brought a heavy portfolio of official papers with him. Mr. Wilson returned to Washington tonight. On his way to Augusta, Mr. Wilson stopped over at Aiken, S. C., where his son, who accompanied him from Washington, will spend a week or two. It was afterward stated officially that the acting secretary's trip to the south was due entirely to his wish to accompany his wife to Aiken.

Coincident with the arrival of Mr. Wilson, President Taft received despatches from General Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army, which announced the mobilization of troops in Texas is practically complete.

The patrolling of the Mexican border, it is said, will undoubtedly be accomplished largely by a series of practice marches or "hikes," as they are known in the army.

It can be said positively that there is no present, nor is there any intention of increasing the number of troops now in Texas.

REWARD OFFERED FOR EMPLOYEES ASSAILANTS.
Railroad Forced to Act to Protect Strike-Breakers.

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 13.—H. Baker, general manager of the Cincinnati and New Orleans and Texas Pacific railway, offered a reward today of $500 for the arrest and conviction of any person interfering with the traffic or assaulting any of the employees of the road.

This order is the result of the shooting of two negro firemen at King's Mountain Saturday night and the holding up of three trains at Kings Mountain last morning by white men who are thought to be mountaineer friends of the strikers.

The local Brotherhood of Railway Firemen here long wanted to be taken into consideration and that a statement will be issued declining it.

ESCAPED FROM PRISON, MADE TRACKS FOR CANADA.
Maine Convict Quietly Turnkey with a Heavy Iron Bar.

Houlton, Me., March 13.—Overpowering Turnkey Henry D. Smart with a blow over the head from an iron bar and evading Sheriff Elmer Bryson, a board-over prisoner named Johnson escaped from the county jail here late today and started for the Canadian line, about four miles away.

Johnson was awaiting the action of the grand jury at the April term of court on the charge of larceny. With an iron bar used as a handle on a cell door he felled the turnkey, rushed through the office where Sheriff Bryson was busy with his duties, throwing the iron bar at the officer before rushing from the jail. Sheriff Bryson dodged the bar and started in pursuit.
