WELL GIVE YALE GREAT RACE Penn. Eight One of the Best Ever From Quaker University—Almost the Same as Rowed Cornell a Desperate Four Miles Last Season—Reath a Great Stroke Oar.

Yale's eight-oared crew which is now in training on the Connecticut river at Springfield, for its coming race against the University of Pennsylvania varsity eight, will meet one of the fastest boats that Coach Ellis Ward has ever sent out from the banks of the Schuylkill. Except for one man it is the identical boat which rowed Cornell over the Poughkeepsie course last June, fighting every inch of the way and finishing within an arm's length of the Itasca champion. It is the boat that Pennsylvania men are going to travel to Poughkeepsie with this year and they expect to see it burn up the historic course. At any rate the reason for the boat's success is expected to see it give Yale a race worth going to see next Saturday.

Candidates for Pennsylvania crews reported in February and they have been at it ever since. In the last week of the training the Penn. crew and under Coach Ward the same men who rowed last year have been again rounded into a perfect machine. The stroke is Tommy Reath, a 20 year old Philadelphia. Men who have rowed behind him and experts who have seen him in action say Reath is one of the steadiest men who ever set the pace for a college crew. It is his job to lead the crew in the new coaching launch, the Franklin, to put the stroke at 26, it will be the veteran who has seen him in action say Reath is one of the steadiest men who ever set the pace for a college crew.

Behind Reath sits Alexander, a big limber jumper, who can pull a strong oar. Shoemaker at 6 is the third member of the family that has furnished three varsity oarsmen for Pennsylvania. Behind him sits a strong man, he rowed in his freshman boat and is filling the place of Walton nicely. The rest of the crew consists of Capt. Hoagland, Bennett, bow, Williams, Cox, Alton Bennett, bow, is a Springfield boy. Last year he captained the Pennsylvania eight. This was a great honor for a junior. This year he stepped down in order to follow a classmate, Hoagland, to take the position and thus keep the honors distributed.

CLEAN BILL FOR PROMOTER M'CAREY Took All Precautions Legally Required for Wolgast-Memisc Boat.

Los Angeles, May 8.—Boxing bouts as staged at the Vernon arena are not "prize fights" within the meaning of the law prohibiting such events, according to Superior Judge Willis, who dismissed charges today against those concerned in the Wolgast-Memisc contest of March 17. Judge Willis held that T. J. McCaray, promoter, took all the precautions demanded by law.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

LIFELESS DAY IN WALL STREET. More interest in the Crop Report and Copper Statements Than in Market.

New York, May 8.—The monthly statement of the copper producers and the government crop report received more attention in the financial community today than did the stock market, where trading was so lifeless as to be almost without significance. Expectations of a good crop report were general, and acted as a sustaining influence in a stock market which was inclined to be listless. The appearance of the report shortly before the close of the market, with its contradictory character, of a crop which wheat coupled with betterment of condition, was followed by some selling of stocks which had been bought presumably in the expectation that the crop figures would stimulate the market. Prices declined moderately, and the close showed many small net losses among the active issues.

The copper producers' statement was not as favorable as had been expected in many quarters on account of the reports of unusually large sales in the last fortnight. Publication of the report had little effect on stocks, however, Amalgamated Copper yielding only a fraction.

Bonds were steady. New York city new 4 1/2-4s established another record figure at 104 3/8. Total sales, par value, $2,546,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Both Star in Waterbury's Ten Inning Victory Over Bridgeport.

Two ball players well known to eastern Connecticut diamonds—Tom Tuckey and Art Nichols—did feature work for Waterbury on Sunday, when Waterbury beat Bridgeport, 2 to 1. The Waterbury Republican says of the game:

With the bases full and two men down, Tobacco Tom Tuckey, who had held the Mechanics to three scattered hits, stepped to the plate in the tenth inning at Reidsville yesterday afternoon and connected for a scratch hit that sent Coach Miller scurrying across the park with the winning run while over three thousand spectators stood up and cheered wildly.

Tuckey was in grand form. Two singles and a double were the extent of Bridgeport's batting progress in the extra inning contest. He never wavered in the pinches and would have scored any number of runs had it not been for an error by Nichols, who had an unusually busy afternoon in center. Inning after inning Tom was applauded for his play, but he did not score when he fanned HI Ladd with men on second and third the crowd threatened to take the roof off the grandstand.

Art Nichols was another hero. He has taken on a new lease of life since he had the unusual number of nine putouts in center field. His one misplay allowed the Mechanics to score, but he has been up for a long time, mauling Litch's bid for a triple in the tenth. Nick made several other good catches and was always playing the ball for his men up for a long time, connected with the pill and sent it on a line to center.

WATCHING THE START. How Catchers Attempt to Outguess the Base Stealers.

The Cleveland catchers have different ways of telling when a runner will try to steal. Some rely on any one sign, but look for several clues, and none can tell for a certainty if the runner is really going down or is bluffing to get the pitcher to waste a ball on the batter.

"Every runner, with three or four exceptions, has some little habit that tips off his catcher," said Syd Smith, "Cobb and Collins don't telegraph when they are going. A catcher's only chance is to outguess them. I generally watch a runner's face, and tell by his expression if he is going down. Most players shoot a glance toward second when they think no one is watching. Some take a bigger lead off first when they are going to steal than when they are not."

"I pay a lot of attention to the batter when a runner is on first," said Grover Land. "If the batter goes through a lot of funny motions, it's pretty sure one of them is a sign for the runner to go on the next ball. I watch the pitcher's face. If he hits and runs is on, the pitcher out breaks up."

"A catcher can tell a lot, too, by watching a runner's feet. Runners themselves differently when they prepare for a quick start when they are going to steal."

"I watch the way a runner fixes his body," said Gus Fisher. "Some face around a little more toward second when they are going to run and face the plate when they are not. Some runners get up on their toes, and sometimes you can catch a runner pressing his toe spikes into the dirt to be sure of a good footing."

Notes. Jimmie Collins is doing fine work with his Providence team. Fred Clarke is doing the best hitting for his Pittsburg team.
