ANTY DRUDGE

Eleanor (in tears)—"Here's my prettiest shirtwaist torn and ruined by that nasty laundry. I haven't a clean one to wear to the party to-night."

Anty Drudge—"Well, that one is past helping and crying for, but if you will get a cake of Fels-Naptha soap I'll show you how to get another one clean in a hurry, in cold water, with very little work. We'll iron it, too, in a jiffy and it will be far cleaner and fresher than any laundry can make it."

How long your light summer clothes last depends not on how much they are worn, but on how often they are washed. That is, if they are washed in the old-fashioned way.

If they are washed with Fels-Naptha in cold or lukewarm water, the washing won't harm them a bit.

Boiling hurts any clothes, but it is particularly hard on light stuffs, such as sheer linens, lawns, laces and muslins—rots the fabric so they will wear easily. And hard rubbing on the washboard wears them out and frays them.

You avoid this by washing the Fels-Naptha way in cold or lukewarm water. Boiling and hard-rubbing are unnecessary, because Fels-Naptha dissolves the dirt into tiny particles which are sent flying by light rubbing and thorough rinsing.

Then, too, the clothes are cleaner, whiter and sweeter, as well as longer-wearing.

Be sure to follow the easy directions on the red and green wrapper.

PUTNAM

Funeral of Joseph Emmons, Jr.—Flowers Forwarded to Boston—Richard Olson Doing Well at Hospital—Recent Marriages.

Funeral services for Joseph Emmons, Jr., 34, were held at St. Mary's church, Sunday afternoon. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. Court City of Putnam, Foresters of America, attended the funeral in bed and members of General Putnam Hook and Ladder company, with which the deceased was identified, attended. The bearers were from the two organizations.

Following is the committee appointed to arrange for the picnic of the Bible school of the Congregational church to be held at Wildwood park on Wednesday of this week: Picnic committee, E. W. Sewall, C. E. Child, Miss Ruth Murfey, Miss Esmeralda Macdonald, Miss Bertha L. Sargent; games committee, Harold S. Corbin, J. A. C. Warner, Miss Gertrude Warner, Miss E. Macdonald, Miss M. Burgess; lunch, the Misses Sargent and Miss Ruth Murfey.

Members of the Relief corps of Putnam and Webster will attend this (Monday) afternoon the funeral services for Mrs. Ellen French, Mrs. French was a resident of Putnam some years ago and an attendant at the Congregational church. Her home during late years has been in Minneapolis.

Rev. A. H. Withee, pastor of the Methodist church at Eastford, formerly captain in charge of the Salvation Army work in this city, has been saying some pertinent things to his congregation relative to civic righteousness. The observance of Sunday has become a subject of much interest in Windham county. Rev. Mr. Withee deems desirable, and with that fact existing he has talked in the interest of improved conditions.

Ninety bouquets were prepared by Mrs. F. D. Sargent's Congregational Bible class during the past week and forwarded to the hospital of Boston, this work having been done in response to a request from the Sunday school of the church.

Richard Olson, who was stabbed by John Alberto, now in Brooklyn jail, at Grovesend last Thursday, is resting comfortably at the Day Kimball hospital. Physicians are of the opinion that he will recover from the effects of the wounds inflicted upon him.

At Northfield Conference. Miss F. J. Daniels and Miss Mary Daniels are at the Sunday school conference at Northfield this week as representatives of the local Congregational church. The sessions opened Saturday and will continue for one week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Cordier are to leave today (Monday) for a stay with relatives in Montreal and other places in the city. They will also make a pilgrimage to St. Anne de Beaupre before returning to Putnam.

Many at Quadio Outing. The annual outing and clam bake of Putnam local, B. I. L., was held Sunday at Greene's grove, Quadio. A large number from this city, Daniesman and other places were present to share in the list of good things that were supplied. The trip was made by teams and automobiles.

MISTRESS SAVES HER MAID FROM DROWNING

Plunged into Surf and Brought Colder Woman to Shore.

Fairfield, Conn., July 23—Miss Delphine Armstrong of New York made a thrilling rescue of her colored maid, Miss Louise Bunce, here at the beach last week.

The maid had gone in bathing and was about 150 feet from the shore when she called for help. Miss Armstrong started to her assistance and caught the maid as she was going down for the second time, and supported her to shore, where she recovered soon afterwards from her experience.

Armstrong is the daughter of C. D. Armstrong of New York. The Armstrongs have a summer cottage at the beach.

MORE COUNTRY CHILDREN THAN CITY CHILDREN

Are Attendants of the High Schools in Connecticut.

(Special to The Bulletin.) Danbury, Conn., July 23.—In Secretary Hine's lecture before the school supervisors yesterday at the state normal school, he emphasized the importance of the primary school, and dwelt at some length on the retardation of bright pupils because of the prevailing systems of promotion.

Among other things he said that the plan of basing the promotions of school authorities should avoid organization which sacrifices the interests of primary education to what is known as advanced education. Mr. Hine said that we should build our educational systems from the bottom up and not allow the higher institutions of learning to shape the work of the primary grades.

He stated that not more than 60 per cent of the children go beyond the sixth grade. In the first year of the high school there are 10 per cent. Between one and three per cent finish high school work. By investigation Mr. Hine has discovered that a larger percentage of the country children are attending high schools than the percentage of city children.

The speaker said that the primary schools might do more work than they are now accomplishing. He deplored the plan of basing the promotions of children on the time spent in the schools instead of by subjects or work actually accomplished. Mr. Hine said that even in the elementary schools it would be well to train children in practical subjects and the useful arts as soon as they finish the usual subjects in the curriculum. He said in planning the work of a school the supervisor should consider the needs of the community in which the children are living.

Mr. Hine said that science ought to be taught in schools, not only for the knowledge which it illustrates, but for the practice in thinking which it involves.

Among other school questions, Mr. Hine believes that the following are worth consideration by supervisors: How much should schools do in technical education? Should agriculture as an art be taught in the public schools of rural communities? Shall we teach arts which contribute towards gaining a livelihood or shall we teach handicrafts which may affect social levels? Shall we teach domestic science?

At a special session of the superintendent there was a conference on school attendance and how to improve it. State Attendance Agents C. N. Hall, W. S. Simmons, Henry J. Foster, M. D. Marks, and S. F. Willard were present at this session. The attendance agents told the supervisors how they were carrying on their campaigns to improve the attendance in schools. Mr. Simmons, who has worked in some of the towns in eastern Connecticut, said that in 1905 he discovered that twenty-seven per cent of the employed children between fourteen and sixteen years old were illiterate. This is a matter of record and the figures are based on children who had left school to go to work. Last year he found only two children of this age who were illiterate and under employment. Another interesting statement of Mr. Simmons was that the records show that in 1895 the average attendance in our public schools was only seventy-nine per cent of the pupils registered, and during the school year which has just passed the attendance has been ninety-one per cent.
