POETRY

MORTALITY. Ye dainty mosses, hehens gray, Pressed each to each in tender fold, As peacefully thus, day by day, Returning to their mold.

Brown leaves, that with aerial grace Slip from your branch like seeds to fall, Each leaving in the appointed place Its bud of future spring.

If we, God's conscious creatures, know But half your faith in our decay, We would not tread the way you do, When summoned clay so lay.

But with an equal patience sweet We should not see of this mortal gear; In which it is also our fate to meet Content to reap, as we sow.

Knowing each germ of life He gives Must have in Him its source and rise, Being that of His being lives. May change, but never dies.

Ye dead leaves, dropping soft and slow, Ye mosses green and when fast, Go to your graves, as I will do, For God is also our last.

—Dinah Mallock Craik.

INMEMORIAM

O friend of mine, whom I shall see no more, How little have the white sails borne to sea.

All that love wrought with fingers here with me; Still will we stand together by the shore.

Men say of travelers: "They are far away," And "The dead they say: "Their souls are gone."

Yet now I know we keep the same bodies; may travel, die—the spirits stay.

Now hath God blessed me as the blind Who, losing sight, have lost one sense alone; For all the powers of my soul are grown.

The vision vanished, memory keeps the rest, And I have but to hark to hear the song: Be still to feel thy presence, cheer and grace.

And in my dreams I see thy shining face, Angel of God, to bid me still "Be strong!" —Charles E. Cleaves, in Youth's Companion.

VIEW AND VARIETIES

Clover Savings. "What caused Plunjer's downfall?" "His lost his balance." "His balance?" "Yes—at the bank."—Chicago Tribune.

"It must cost a great deal to run an automobile." "It costs more to keep it standing still if it smokes."—Detroit Free Press.

Mrs. Wellman—Are you married? Tramp (indignantly)—Wot! Do you think I'd be relyin' on wife strangers? He says I had or total?—Boston Transcript.

Prospective Boarder—Do you set a good table here? Rural Landlord—Good table! Great Scott, man! Look at the size of those bones!

"So you live in the suburbs, too? How do you get to the city?" "I have an automobile. How do you?" "I go by a sinner way; I take the trolley."—C. V. FENDELTON, JR., 10 Broadway.

MUCH IN LITTLE

In times of peace there are nearly 1,200 deaths in the British army annually, the rate per thousand abroad being two and a half times that at home.

The Women's Co-operative guild held its annual congress at Brighton June 15-16. According to the report for the year, the guild has now 340 members in England, with about 27,000 members.

The present population of Singapore is estimated at 225,000, as against 225,000 in 1907. In 1907 the population of the Straits Settlements was 572,240; of the Federated Malay States, 673,995.

George Clinton Felton of Elmira, N. Y., who was 100 years old July 5, says that to being the oldest book about the life of the late President was a 1,000 books of fiction in the last two months.

The area of Borgos is nearly ten times greater than Iowa, but contains little more than half the population. The native inhabitants are wholly unacquainted with the use of money, and there are only 25 or 30 whites.

Short postage on letters and advertising matter sent from this country to Colombia is so common that a Washington man in Bogota declares he has been obliged in a single year to pay nearly $50 in fines on such underpaid missives.

Corporal punishment has been introduced into the schools of Mount Vernon, O., and the Chief of Police of the News and Courier learns that some of the boys of Mount Vernon have formed standing committees since the new order began.

There is practically no trade in American knit goods in Halifax. This is accounted for by the fact that the Canadian tariff on such articles is high and the dealers consequently find it cheaper to buy from Canadian and English manufacturers.

The Hong Kong Golf club is being turned into a limited liability company. The club has been in existence for a long time and a pavilion erected at Fan Ling, the cost to be $40,000. About 20 or 40 Cantonese citizens have expressed their willingness to join the new company.
