

"Prof." Moulton's Wife Got Divorce

Secured it Last March in Denver and has Resumed Her Maiden Name, Mary Baker.

In the first division of the district court of the city and county of Denver, state of Colorado, on March 3, 1911, before Hon. Hubert L. Shattuck, judge of the Second judicial district of that state, Mary Baker Moulton secured a decree of divorce from John Philip Moulton, and she was also allowed to resume her maiden name, Mary Baker.

Miss Baker is well known here and in Stonington, having lived here previous to and during part of her married life and at Stonington for a time following her marriage.

That she has secured a divorce from "Prof." Moulton will be learned with interest by her many friends. The one-time husband is now serving a five years' sentence in the Wisconsin state prison for passing worthless checks.

Their marriage took place here January 21, 1908, and came as a great surprise to the townspeople, inasmuch as Miss Baker at that time had fallen heir to a considerable sum from a New Haven relative, amounting to about $20,000. The husband was known about town as "Prof." Moulton from the fact that he possessed some slight of hand ability and came into the limelight one night at the Auditorium when he endeavored to play a trick on the magician playing there at the time, and expose his game.

Moulton was employed as a grocer's clerk here and in that capacity delivered groceries to Miss Baker at her home in Broadway. He was a smooth talker, good looking and had attractive ways which won the good graces of his customer, and they were married. They had a short and stormy married life. Moulton claimed to be versed quite deeply in law and had many peculiar ideas along that line, and he was involved not a little as the defendant in criminal proceedings here and served time in the local jail. His last escapade in Kenosha, Wis., as previously told about ten days ago, landed him in state prison.

Some time after their marriage Mrs. Moulton left her husband because of his actions and later went to live with him. Finally they came to the parting of the ways and separated. Moulton tried in many ways to get possession of his wife's money and tried to have checks on her account honored, without result. After having several lawsuits over a boat which he purchased and used on the river quite a little, he went to New Haven and claimed to be studying law at the university. He was arrested there for passing worthless checks, but was allowed to settle his cases by paying costs. Claiming his home as Stonington at that time, he was soon in trouble here, securing $200 from G. W. Carroll, on the representation that he would turn over a certain amount of stocks to him which Mrs. Moulton had. He did five months in jail for that after being brought back from Boston.

This jail term completed his living herculeans, and he had not been heard about until his recent western escapade.

This romantic courtship and marriage and the afterlife brought them into wide notoriety here, which was revived by late announcement that he had been committed to prison, and again now by the announcement of her divorce from him last March.

PROBABLE THAT BONOFF WILL PLEAD GUILTY.

Case Set for Tuesday in the Criminal Court May Not Be Tried.

It is very probable that the case of the state vs. Dr. A. Bonoff, the man with many names, charged with bigamy, may not be tried here today, which is the day set for the trial. Counsel for the accused, Judge J. H. Barnes, has had a conference with the state attorney regarding the case and it is probable that the accused will enter a plea of guilty when presented in court today for the disposition of his case. His counsel says that the case will be disposed of today without trial and this will end the business of the session.

SENATOR AND MRS. PARK ABROAD

Had Fine Trip Across on Their European Visit.

Letters have been received from Senator Angus Park of Hanover which were mailed on board the Olympic just before landing at Plymouth Sept. 15th, and he tells of the pleasant voyage that they have had on the mammoth palace of the sea. The passage over was fine and he tells of the many exercises and sports that are daily had by the passengers on board.

Mr. Park's favorite sport is a horse-back ride every morning and a five-mile walk every day and though he says he has lost five pounds he never felt better in his life. At times the sea was very rough, but made very little impression on the boat, so the trip was enjoyable.

Mr. and Mrs. Park intend to visit several countries while abroad and return in about six weeks.
