THE LEADERS IN RICHESON'S ROOM Government Abandons Effort to Obtain Them From Detective Burns

"IT LOOKS AS IF THEY HAD NO CASE" Assertion of One of Counsel for Defense—More Witnesses Appear Before Grand Jury—Investigation to be Continued Monday—Father of Clergyman Convicted of Son's Innocence—Richeson's Letter Read at Church

Boston, Oct. 27.—Counsel for Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, the Baptist minister, who was arrested last week on charges of kidnaping the Rev. Dr. A. J. Linnell, succeeded today in defeating the plan of the prosecution to compel the production before the Suffolk County grand jury of a list of letters, photographs and other papers taken from the rooms of Mr. Richeson after his arrest.

Detective Not Questioned. Robert Burns, a private detective in the employ of the defense, who secured the articles from Mr. Richeson's apartments, was surprised yesterday by a summons to appear before the grand jury and to witness the trial of the district attorney intended to question this detective further today, but after a conference with Judge George A. Sanderson of the superior criminal court, at which both sides were present, the intention was apparently abandoned.

Congressman Harris Protests. At the conclusion of the conference, Congressman Robert C. Harris, former attorney of the defense, who made his first public appearance today as one of the counsel for the defense, protested against the plan of the government to produce the articles before the grand jury, and an effort was made to make him divulge what he had seen. It was stated that this was done without consulting the district attorney, and it was stated that the district attorney had no right to produce the articles without consulting the district attorney.

District Attorney's Statement. District Attorney J. C. Bellinger said in reference to the government plan to produce the articles before the grand jury that he had no personal knowledge of it until after it was made public. He said that he had no objection to the articles being produced before the grand jury, but that he had no objection to the articles being produced before the grand jury.

Photos and Letters Included. It is understood that the articles which the government wishes to produce include a number of letters written to Mr. Richeson by various persons, and a number of photographs. It is also understood that the articles include a number of letters written to Mr. Richeson by various persons, and a number of photographs.

Investigation Not Yet Finished. A special session of the grand jury which was held yesterday for the purpose of the last two days failed to complete the list of witnesses summoned for the trial of the case. It is probable, however, according to the district attorney, that the investigation will be completed by Monday evening. This would indicate that the case will be tried on Tuesday.

Yesterday's Witnesses. Today's witnesses before the grand jury included the following: Moses K. Linnell, a former associate of Richeson; Miss Juliet C. Patterson, superintendent, and Misses Inez Hanscomb, Lucille Seiger and Miss Mary Austin. It is understood that the grand jury will continue its work today.

A Duplicate of Cyanide Bottle. In connection with the killing of the late Dr. A. J. Linnell, it was learned today that the local police secured from Hann's drug store at Newton Center last night a bottle containing cyanide of potassium similar to that which Dr. Linnell used to kill his wife. It is understood that the bottle was found in the possession of a man who was arrested on the day of the killing.

Mr. Boy is going to be acquitted, said Thomas Varland, Richeson's father-in-law, who is in the hospital at the Cambridge hospital. He said that he was sure that his son was innocent and that he would be acquitted.

Sister Returns to Philadelphia. Miss Lillie V. Richeson, one of the daughters of the late Dr. A. J. Linnell, who was arrested last week on charges of kidnaping her father, returned today to Philadelphia, where she is employed as a nurse. It is understood that she will remain in Philadelphia for some time.
