WAR DEPARTMENT FINDS THAT THE CITY IS PROCEEDING UNDER RIGHTS GRANTED BY LEGISLATURE AND THERE IS NOT CAUSE FOR INTERFERENCE—DOES NOT AFFECT NAVIGATION.

A report has been received from the war department concerning the spilling in Yantic cove by the city, which was referred to the war department as the result of a letter to Congressman Higgins by Henry E. Ulmer.

Authorized by Legislature. By acts of the state legislature approved July 24, 1872, and July 11, 1873, the city of Norwich was authorized and empowered to enter upon and take possession of Yantic cove, so-called, and to extend the same to the water, stake out and define proper and sufficient channels for the waters of the Yantic river, and to fill in, use, and dispose of the remaining area

Chief Engineer's Statement. W. H. Bixby, chief of engineers of the U. S. army, makes the following report to Congress: Sir: In your correspondence, particularly to your letter dated November 9, 1911, inclosing a copy of the report of the district officer, Capt. A. E. Waldron, corps of engineers.

Not Desirable to Exercise Jurisdiction. On account of the peculiar conditions existing in the Yantic river above West Main street, and the fact that these bridges have been considered as defining the limit of navigation, also the account of the authority vested in the city of Norwich by state legislative enactments, it is not thought necessary nor desirable for the United States to attempt the exercise of any jurisdiction over the Yantic river above the West Main street bridges.

CALLYHAN-ROBINSON TOMBS. Last Resting Place of Prof. William C. Robinson Next to Oldest Tomb in Yantic Cemetery—Ten Bodies There.

Next to the Chapman tomb, the Callyhan-Robinson tomb, in which Prof. William Callyhan Robinson was laid Nov. 8 is the oldest in Yantic cemetery.
