CLUES FOUND IN THE BOB MURDER

Letters Disclose a Quarrel Between Mrs. Taylor and Charles M. Dickinson.

MAN BEGGED "TO BE TAKEN BACK"

Woman's Reply was a Warning that He Keep Away from Her Flat—Dickinson Present at Time of Explosion—Suspected Man Declares His Innocence to His Father—Dead Woman's Chum Expected to Clear Mystery.

New York, Feb. 5.—The investigation by the police into the mysterious murder of Mrs. Helen Taylor who was killed by the explosion of a bomb in her apartment in West Seventy-seventh street last Saturday night, produced some evidence today which they regard as significant as bearing upon the recent movements of Charles M. Dickinson, who was with her when she received the innocent-looking cigarette box and the explosion occurred.

Said She Feared Dickinson.

On the Monday or Tuesday afternoon preceding the murder, Dickinson and the police say, and the woman scratched Dickinson's face. On the Wednesday following Mrs. Taylor called on her sister, Mrs. Evans, and told her what had happened. She expressed her fear of Dickinson. On Friday Mrs. Taylor received a letter, dated by the police as Dickinson's, begging "to be taken back."

Pleaded for Another Chance.

"Give me another chance," the police say it read, "I know you call me a bum, and I have no money, but, honest, I will work for you and always love you."

Spent Entire Day in His Room.

On Friday, the day before the murder, Dickinson spent many hours, detectives learned, looking in his room in his boarding house and returned with a package in his hand. How he employed himself during that time the police are investigating on the theory that the bomb was manufactured in his room. All the contents of the room have been confiscated, but what was found there the police have not yet disclosed.

Comparison of Typewritings.

To complete this supposed circumstantial evidence against the prisoner, the police have engaged an expert to compare the typewritten letters on the wrapper of the package in which the fatal letter was sent with the typewritten letters which Dickinson used in the office of the United States Motor company, where he was employed as clerk and stenographer.

Tells Father He's Innocent.

With the scratches said to have been inflicted by Mrs. Taylor still showing on his face, and looking haggard from the impingement of the investigation, Dickinson was brought down to the coroner's office today for arraignment. Dickinson's father, who is a father, the postmaster at Champlain, N. Y.

Two Supposed Husbands of Woman.

Concerning the matrimonial history of the Taylor woman, much conflicting evidence has been obtained by the police, but according to Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty it was established today that one J. H. Taylor, supposed to have been a husband of the murdered woman, died in December, 1911, in a sanitarium at Flatburg, N. Y., that a man named Howard Taylor, a friend of the woman, died in the same sanitarium in December, 1911, and that a man named Howard Walker, also supposed to have been a husband, is alive and is being searched for by the police. Efforts to identify the man who delivered the bomb to Mrs. Taylor have proved futile.

Woman's Chum Detained.

Edna Lamarre, the slain woman's chum, was arrested today and was taken to the police station. She is expected to throw further light upon the relations between Mrs. Taylor and Dickinson when the latter is arraigned on Wednesday. She was taken to the coroner's office today as a material witness, but was immediately brought back to the house of detention. The police said tonight that her evidence will go a long way toward clearing up the mystery.

CONGRESSMAN HIGGINS AGAINST THIRD TERMS.

Voted for "Second" on Slayden Resolution in House Yesterday.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The house of representatives evaded going on record today on presidential third terms. Just at the moment when the Slayden resolution seemed to be about to pass, Theodore Roosevelt, seemed about to pass a shrewd parliamentary turn displaced the measure from further consideration. His position of vantage on the house calendar has been lost.

Mr. Slayden, a Texas democrat, introduced the resolution a week ago. It sought to make it "the opinion of the house" that the example of Washington in retiring after a second term has by uniform concurrence become the time honored custom of the country, a decision of which would be fraught with peril to free institutions. The resolution was called up today with but little warning, and thereupon there was a heated debate. The speaker suspended the rules was required to pass the measure, and to suspend from every corner of the chamber a second had to be considered as a matter of course. Mr. Slayden objected to the "second" and a vote by tellers on ordering this parliamentary action was necessary. The publishers in a hurried confab had determined not to vote on the resolution, thus putting the democrats in the position of having to vote against the measure. The measure was required to pass the measure, and to suspend from every corner of the chamber a second had to be considered as a matter of course. Mr. Slayden objected to the "second" and a vote by tellers on ordering this parliamentary action was necessary.
