Newspapermen Testify Regarding Advice to Lawrence Strikers by Eitor

COMPEL COUNTY TO FEED STRIKERS

Letter Addressed to Haywood Suggested That Strikers "Break Into Jail" and Force County to Support Them During Strike—Testimony That Bullet Which Killed Italian Woman was Intended for Policeman—The Case Unfinished.

Lawrence, Mass., Feb. 9.—Three letters, which were finally admitted as evidence on the objection of the defense, figured prominently in the hearing in the local police court today of Joseph J. Eitor, until his arrest the leader of the striking textile workers here, and Arturo Giovannitti, his lieutenant, both of New York. They were charged with being accessories before the fact to the murder of Ann Lopizzo, an Italian woman who was shot during a riot on January 29.

One Letter to Haywood.

Two of the letters were from Vincent St. John, general secretary-treasurer of the Industrial Workers of the World, at Chicago. One was addressed to Eitor and the other to William D. Haywood, the western labor man who is now in Lawrence assisting the strikers. One was addressed to Eitor and the other to William D. Haywood, the western labor man who is now in Lawrence assisting the strikers and indicated the fact to the murder of Ann Lopizzo, an Italian woman who was shot during a riot on January 29.

Downfall of Wage System.

"A win at Lawrence means a start that will only end with the downfall of the wage system," said the letter to Haywood.

Letter from Rhode Island Man.

The third letter was written to Eitor by Thomas Miller of Lymanville, R. I., whose identity or business was not further disclosed, but who is supposed to have been an island textile worker. In this letter Mr. Miller indicated his belief that it would not be difficult to organize a general strike in the mills of Rhode Island. The prosecution had only fairly started its case when court adjourned until 10 a. m. Monday next.

Bullet Intended for Officer.

District Attorney Atwill in outlining the case said the prosecution proposed to show that Eitor, as a leader in the Industrial Workers of the World, an organization which desired a general revolution, and the destruction of the wage system, made speeches and gave advice to the strikers which inspired them to use violence. This, the district attorney declared, resulted in the riot in which the Lopizzo woman was killed. Giovannitti, he held, had assisted Eitor in his efforts. He said it would be shown that the bullet which struck the woman had been intended for a police officer and that when the person who fired the shot, whom he described as a tall Italian, saw that he had missed his mark, he stabbed the officer.

Get Strikers to Break Into Jail.

All the letters which figured in the state's case were taken from Eitor when he was arrested according to the testimony of William H. Brown, the prosecutor of the state police. In the letter to Haywood, Mr. St. John said: "I want to suggest that if the strike is to be of any length the practice of closing down the mills by paying strike benefits and opening a commissary must be cut out. There is no chance to win anything that way. There are not of date more than 100,000 strikers or 25,000 organized to break into the jail and make the county feed them while they are on strike. Organize them to go back into the mills and fight there. Get them back as an organization with the understanding that they are to continue to fight."

Haywood Declines to Answer.

At the witness stand Eitor was sworn for the government. C. D. Haywood was the first witness called. He gave his home as Denver, Colo. Asked if he knew anything about an organization known as the Industrial Workers of the World, he refused to answer on the ground that he might incriminate himself. He said that he had been associated with the strike leaders who were defendants in the case and did not wish to say anything that might tend to prejudice their cases in the minds of a judge or jury.

High School Student Hostile.

Angelo Rocca, a high school student who said he was financial secretary of the local branch of the Industrial Workers, proved to be a hostile witness. In the opinion of the prosecution, attempts to have him say that Eitor was sent for, or that Eitor had ever said that he was an officer of the union resulted in negative answers at first. When recalled to the stand later he admitted that a committee of the local union requested Eitor to come here and assume control of the situation. Rocca said that Eitor came to Lawrence to keep the strikers peaceful and to do organization work.

Police Captain Testifies.

The riots on January 29, the most serious day of the strike, were described by Capt. John J. Sullivan of the local police. Through questions of the district attorney, the captain told of seeing Eitor during the early morning at the head of a crowd of strikers, near where the trouble occurred.

Picketing to Be Resumed.

While the hearing was in progress at the courthouse the strikers' committee met at their headquarters and after a long talk by Chairman Yates voted to resume picketing. In order to keep within the law the pickets will form an endless chain, walking in single file and keep constantly on the move.

Awaiting Developments.

DRAMATIC TOUCH AT TRIAL OF MITCHELL

Labor Leader Makes Statement and Court Makes Another.

Washington, Feb. 9.—John Mitchell's trial for contempt of court, in which he was involved with Samuel Gompers and Frank Morrison, officials of the American Federation of Labor, in connection with the Bucks Stove & Range boycott case, took on a dramatic hearing today.

Mr. Mitchell had seemed to be retreating before Justice Wright, before whom he is on trial, and the justice had displayed some impatience with his criticism. "Let me explain this," said Mr. Mitchell. "I have much in my heart which I have never said which has, perhaps, not destroyed these proceedings. At the time I was summoned to Washington to appear before this court for judgment, I faced a long term in prison. It was on the day before Christmas eve, I was living in New York. I had not seen my family and children, who were in Illinois, for two months. I had not seen my friends, my grip, toys and gifts for my children. I was summoned to Washington to receive my sentence. I asked that the decision be postponed. It was not. I was brought here and sentenced."

"I had merely done what I believed was my right under the government which I had sought to uphold. So when I appeared and was sentenced, and discussed it afterward, I could not attempt to disguise and did not disguise my feeling on being sentenced. What reason have you for believing that the court knew of your request for a postponement?"

"I was the president of the American Federation of Labor and asked it," replied Mr. Mitchell. "I supposed that my request had been conveyed to the court."

CAST-OFF NEPHEW MAY GET $2,000,000

Failure of Edwin Hawley to Leave a Will May Benefit Him.

New York, Feb. 9.—After her release today from the workhouse, where she was sent a month ago on a charge of conspiracy, Mrs. Agnes Crandell, widow of Frederick Crandell, the cast-off nephew of the late Edwin Hawley, was unable to find her husband, who comes into a $2,000,000 inheritance, owing to his uncle's failure to make a will. In his unexplained absence, she sought a lawyer to secure protection of her inheritance, but she was unable to find the interest of her five children, now in Chatham, N. Y. She said she had heard or seen nothing of her husband since the night she became involved in an altercation in her rooming place, which subsequently resulted in her arrest.

Crandell obtained leave of absence three days ago from the stenographer's office where he was employed, and he was not returned since, it was said today, although the lawyers for the Hawley estate have been from him by telephone. It was said today that in the recent thorough search for a will, Miss Margaret Cameron, Mr. Hawley's ward, who had conducted his household affairs since his death, ransacked the millionaire's country estate at Bayton, L. I.

Attorneys for the estate denied reports that Miss Cameron had made a claim for a share in the estate, but it was intimated she would be provided for.

THREE DEATHS DUE TO ESCAPING GAS

Three Other Members of Family in Precarious Condition.

New York, Feb. 9.—Three persons are dead and three others, all members of the same family, are in a precarious condition in Lodi, N. J., near here, as the result of gas poisoning. Gas escaping from a central heating system spread through the house during the night. Neighbors broke into the dwelling today and found Alfred Dabney, a contractor, his wife, foreman, and his sons, Wilfred, six, and Alfred, Jr., two months old, dead in bed. Mrs. Chatelaine and two other children, both two years of age, and Lillian, four years of age, were unconscious. The woman is in a critical condition but the children may possibly recover.

MEXICO CANT MOVE HER TROOPS THROUGH TEXAS.

Secretary Knox Assures Governor That Permission Will Not Be Given Until the Matter Has Been Studied.

Washington, Feb. 9.—Diplomatic complications arose today between the state of Texas and the United States government on the one hand and the Mexican government on the other, which, temporarily at least, will not allow Mexico to move troops over American territory to quell her revolutionary disturbances.

Secretary Knox Makes Inquiry. Secretary of State Knox made further inquiry tonight of Mexico through the American ambassador at Mexico City, asking the specific purpose of the military expedition for which permission is sought to travel from Eagle Pass to El Paso, Texas, in order that points in northern Mexico may be reached to which the rebels have cut international railroad communication.

El Paso Residents Apprehensive. Governor Colquhoun of Texas pointed out to the state senators in his message today that residents of El Paso were apprehensive that rebels at Juarez, Mexico, might resist the entry of Mexican troops from American territory and precipitate a battle endangering American lives and property.

Texas Governor Assured. Secretary Knox assured Governor Colquhoun that no permission would be granted until the matter had been carefully studied, and indications tonight were that it would be adjusted entirely in a diplomatic manner. Information reached here that no troops had started on the proposed expedition and none would do so until the question had been decided.

DANGER IN UNCOOKED FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Likely to Be Carrying Agents of Typhoid Fever, Says Surgeon.

Washington, Feb. 9.—Uncooked fruit and vegetables, served in restaurants and the homes of millions, are likely to be carrying agents of typhoid fever, according to Fessenden Surgeon, U. S. Creel, of the public health and marine hospital service today as the result of experiments with lettuce and radishes. In a report to Surgeon General Wood, he declared that even under conditions most unfavorable to the bacillus the infection lasted at least 31 days, a period sufficiently long for some varieties of lettuce and radishes to mature.

To demonstrate how easily the disease might be transmitted through the soil, Dr. Creel said, "If you eat lettuce or celery free from dirt, and even in well-managed households and public eating places scrupulous care in preparing articles for the table is exceptional."

AMERICAN GIRL BREAKS AN AUSTRIAN'S HEART.

Young Lieutenant Loses Opportunity for Promotion to Woe Her.

New York, Feb. 9.—An international courtship reached an official end today when Justice Gerard in the supreme court signed an order discontinuing the breach of promise suit which led Edward Stara, formerly of the Austrian army, brought against Miss Helen McMurray of Troy for $25,000 damages. The Austrian, who had abandoned his suit on the advice of his lawyer.

"The lieutenant was not necessary," said the latter. "His only hope of bringing the suit was to see Miss McMurray and win her again. When he found he could not even see her he was broken hearted. It is a very sad experience for a young man of his type, and he is going away to try to forget her."

The young officer met Miss McMurray in Vienna in August, 1910, following her trip from Macau. He was in and in order to continue his attention obtained a year's leave of absence from his regiment and thereby abandoned an opportunity for promotion.

Window Cleaner Drops 23 Stories.

New York, Feb. 9.—Crowded Nassau street was startled and shocked late today when a human form came hurtling through the air and struck the sidewalk in the midst of a hurrying pedestrian. It was the body of a window cleaner who missed his footing on a window ledge of a towering office building and fell 23 stories to his death. The body narrowly escaped striking a group of young women who were passing. The victim of the fall, John Roskin, had unhooked his belt to step around a pillar, a fellow workman said.

Public Hearing on the Lorimer Case.

Washington, Feb. 9.—Public hearings in the second senatorial investigation into the election of Senator Lorimer were declared closed today by Chairman Dillingham of the senate Lorimer committee. Attorney Hanes, representing Senator Lorimer, was given permission to file a brief to the effect that the senator's election was adjudicated before the present investigation began and it therefore could not be the subject of a second investigation.

The inquiry has proved to be one of the most exhaustive ever made by a congressional committee. In the eight months hearing about 19,000 pages of printed testimony were taken and constituting about 5,000,000 words. It is estimated that the stenographers fees alone reach $15,000.

The closing hour of the hearing was a veritable love feast. The attorneys explained they had never intended really to display temper and the committee added that it did not entertain ill intentions. A. W. Blumenburg, who was in charge of the stenographers, charged for his conduct before the committee Saturday night, wrote a letter of protest apology, which was read into the record.

Edward Hines was the last witness called. He denied that he attempted to bribe Miss Helen Seavers, a local telegraph operator, to see a message which a private detective in the case had just sent.

The early hours of today's session were marked by tests of the ability of J. E. Sheridan of a detective agency to make a shorthand report of a conversation, such as he swore when Charles McGowan is alleged to have admitted receiving money for "perjuring" himself before the committee.

Dickinson Sends New York Police Chasing Another Clue.

New York, Feb. 9.—A woman suspect believed to have recently returned here from Chicago is being sought by the police in their thus far fruitless effort to solve the mystery of the murder of Mrs. Helen Taylor, killed by a bomb last Saturday. The woman's name and the information that there was trouble between her and Mrs. Taylor at Elizabeth, N. J. last June, brought suit yesterday against the Pennsylvania railroad for $100,000 damages.

A man acquaintance, over whom he also being sought, Edna La Marro, who has been held by the coroner as a material witness in the case, was released on bail today. She gave her occupation as a show girl and said she would appear at any time the police or coroner desired.

A Few Sensible Because.

The intelligent buyer always reads the advertisements in his paper and has good reason for trading at home. A Hartford firm furnishes the following "because" for trading at home:

Because my interests are here.
Because the community that is good enough for me to live in is good enough for me to buy in.
Because I want to see the goods.
Because I want to get what I buy when I pay for it.
Because my home dealer "carries" me when I run short.
Because every dollar I spend at home stays at home and works for the welfare of this town.
Because I sell what I produce here at home.
Because the man I buy from pays his part of the town, county and state taxes.
Because the man I buy from gives value received always.
Because the man I buy from helps support my school, my church, my lodge, my home.
Because when ill luck, misfortune or bereavement comes, the man I buy from is here with his kindly greeting, his words of cheer and his pocketbook, if need be.
These are pretty good reasons for trading at home and they are worth bearing in mind.
The business man should advertise in his home paper because the most desirable customer is the permanent resident of his town. Send for The Bulletin rate card and become familiar with space rates.
