Probable Appointment of Supervisor of Highways by Town Council Monday Next—Canal Street Workers Strike a Snag—Owners of Woolen Mill Keeping Dark—Visitors Who Are Half Sisters Yet First Cousins.

It is probable a supervisor of highways will be appointed at a meeting of the town council next Monday, and it is said, the Wardman A. Saunders, the Bradford representative in the council, will be a candidate for the place. Another candidate is Eugene Knight, who is widely known as the promoter of the Eastern pond where dinner place, and who has decided to retire from the position of high chief of the famous Rhode Island clam banks. Adam Archie, who gave such efficient service to the town during the rebuilding of the Pawtucket Valley street railroad, was among the first to apply for the place and he is still desirous of becoming supervisor of the highways for the town of Westerly.

It is said that this trio are the leading candidates and each has a friend or two at court. The town council is composed of seven men, including Mr. Saunders, who probably will not participate in the election of a supervisor of highways, though there is no rule that prohibits a member from voting on all matters considered by the town council. Therefore there will be but six votes cast with four necessary for a choice. As each of the candidates expects to receive four votes on the first ballot, it is evident that at least two of the three will realize that political promises are not always dependable. It is barely possible that the selection will be decided for a month in the hope that the councilmen can be induced to reach a unanimous choice for highway commissioner.

That section of Canal street in the close vicinity of the railroad crossing was closed Thursday to vehicular traffic, with the consent of the highway committee, and the direct preliminary work of changing the grade was commenced on the west side of the railroad tracks. The work was started with a big plough drawn by four horses and had not progressed much when it proved to be pretty rough ploughing, especially when the nose of the plough struck railroad ties embedded in macadam.

These ties were laid about ten years ago for the proposed Westerly and Hopkinton trolley road, which was abandoned. The roadbed was completed as far as the Arnold mill property, and for a distance beyond, but not through the section claimed by the Arnolds. This layout was subsequently covered over, rails and all, and became a part of the highway. About three years ago the owners were granted permission to remove the steel rails, but the ties were not considered worth the removal. And there they remained ever since, to be removed to make way for progress.

There is still secrecy as to the actual purchasers or the nature of the company that is to operate the plant of the former Westerly Woolen Mill company, but it is not denied that the sisters are interested. Active preparations are being made for the operation of the buildings on the Connecticut side of the Pawtucket river, but these in charge are extremely reticent. A prominent Westerly business man with whom the mill men have dealings, had the courage to inquire into the nature of the business and asked: "What are you going to make in the mill?" As he inquired the other eye, one of the mill men replied: "We expect to make money!"

Miss Alice W. Vose of Moosau and Miss Sarah W. Vose of Providence, former residents of Westerly, are here on a visit to relatives. These ladies are half-sisters and first cousins. They are of the same mother and after the death of her father, her uncle, married her mother, and the other sister, Miss Vose was born. They formerly resided in what is now the Westerly town farm. Mrs. Vose, mother of the ladies, sold the place to the town of Westerly for that purpose.

The old mansion in High street, latterly known as the Brown homestead, is being fitted up for the occupancy by the new Colonial club, which will probably start with one hundred charter members. The club house will be of modern interior when the work is completed and the equipment will be up to date for the purposes intended. The new social organization will be conducted on a more elaborate scale than any other now in the town, which is made possible by the high dues in comparison with those required from the members of other clubs, of which there are quite a number and all in a flourishing condition in the village of Westerly.

The social clubs in Westerly and Pawtucket, with two exceptions, are not in the class termed as drinking clubs or places where gaming is a feature, but are purely social in principle, and in proportion to the size of the place, there is a full quota of these social organizations. In addition to the new Colonial club there is the Cycle, T. B. Westerly, British, Westerly Yacht, Workmen's, and the Catholic club, and also an abundance of fraternal organizations affiliated with state and national bodies.

GOT RHEUMATISM TRY URIC-O FREE SAMPLES SENT EVERYWHERE Don't Suffer Another Day When You Can for a Few Cents Find Out What this Remedy will do

If there are still any sufferers from rheumatism in this country or whether this paper reaches them, we have not yet tried the wonderful Rheumatic Remedy, Uric-O. We want them to try it now at our expense. We firmly believe that there is not a case of Rheumatism in the world that will not yield to the wonderful effects of Uric-O, and we want to prove this to every sufferer beyond all possibility. The best way to do this is to give a large bottle of the remedy to a severe sufferer and continue to treat him with rheumatism for four long years, and after spending over $400 with doctors and for treatments at Sanatoriums, I have become entirely cured with Uric-O. I was at times as helpless as a child and could not even dress myself. I am now as active in my limbs as ever and again an able bodied man. Two bottles of Uric-O done me more good than all the medicines, doctors and baths combined.

MONTVILLE GRANGE Confers Degrees on Class of Eight.

Montville grange held its regular meeting Wednesday evening. Worthy Master Walter W. Woodward presiding. The third and fourth degrees were conferred upon a class of eight, followed by the regular harvest supper.

At the close of the supper the worthy master called upon Brother Orville C. Walden for a few remarks. He responded in form of a cleverly written paper giving each member a paper with a newspaper clipping applicable to each person. It afforded much amusement, as some of the clippings were all but personal. Forty were seated at the table, the largest number since the grange was organized a year ago.

A class of six will be worked in the first and second degrees at the next meeting. Deputy I. E. Crouch is expected to be present.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS. Delegates to State Convention Instructed to Work for Nomination of President Taft.

Putnam, March 28.—The republicans in town caucus Thursday evening elected delegates to the state convention at New Haven, instructed to work for the election of delegates favorable to the nomination of President Taft for re-election. Those chosen were Mayor Archibald Macdonald, Representative Hector Dyer, Elias M. Waseleek and Isaac Champeau. A new republican town committee was elected as follows: Mayor Macdonald, Henry J.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR. The Old Grist Mill. Mr. Editor: I learn by this morning's Bulletin from the old man that the old grist mill is still running, although you said yesterday in one of your editorial notes that "The old grist mill is a thing of the past and is the fine flavored meal it used to turn out. Good country meal is becoming scarcer every day."

Perhaps the old mill is now used for a bone mill; for the old man says that "the individual who first started a publication space by a fictitious signature should have been drawn and quartered and the plans for his iniquitous, invidious invention buried with him according to an old Indian custom." And he continues by saying: "A signature to excite the sympathy of the dear people, above all other things, should be meant for the public. Not one—so to speak—constructed from some cast-off Mother Hubbard seemingly cut off from the chin to the armpits and the extra cloth sewed on to the tail."

Why, why! The old man, dear Bulletin, hasn't learned yet all the fruits of the day! How shocking! He does not seem to know that a Mother Hubbard never had a tail, nor does he recognize the difference between a tail and a train. Probably he never rode on such a train in all his long and eventful life.

Perhaps he was thinking about the tale of Old Mother Hubbard who went to her cupboard to get her poor dog a bone. Although she never wore her gowns decollete, nor La Pollette, there was not even so much as a whalebone there for her poor Teddy. And the bone of contention had doubtless been carried to a newspaper office, or a primary, or to the old grist mill, to be kept as a club.

Stiek to Us Like a Burr, Brother Miller.

Dear Bulletin: It was rather unkind of you this morning to, with serious mien, emit a flash from your little air-gun that would not scorch these papers, in the attempt to disunite the venerable from the Old Man's anatomy, in words and figures as follows: "He Talks and Talks, and Talks." Still there was absolutely no violation of the Taft political food law, and if it meets the eye of Representative Higgins he will undoubtedly introduce a bill, owing to the strain on the system, to present The Bulletin an eight-foot cast-iron medal, double jointed, in sections, to fold up convenient to carry in the vest pocket. In the meantime

The Bulletin six times during the week and between services on Sunday can Shirk and Shirk and Shirk the important issue, while its eloquence, like music, does charm our weary hours, while it has our kindly greeting, also a bunch of flowers.

The Old Man never stoops to strike a man that's down; was never known to moan, like some lost spirit in despair, or wander off alone, to paw the ground and tear his hair. He sleeps the sleep of the just in peace, with fullest trust in heaven, till earthly trials cease. Until that time, that's sure to come, for glory and renown, the Old Man "sticks" to you till he wears the martyr's crown.

Jewett City. NEW SENATORS WILL HAVE TO DRAW LOTS To Determine Who Shall Have Long and Who Short Terms.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 28.—A situation which is believed to be without precedent will confront the United States senate upon the arrival in Washington next Monday of the four newly elected United States senators from Arizona and New Mexico. It is believed here the parliamentarians of the United States senate will be called upon to decide which of the two sets of senators is to be given precedence in the distribution of long and short terms.

The first two senators sworn in will draw lots for a four year term and a six year term, the next two will draw for a two year and a four year term. It is said to be the first time in the history of the United States that two senators from each of two new states were elected on the same day. The credentials of the two sets of senators are dated March 27.
