

Bronze Tablet at Westery Bridge

D. A. R. Places the Old Indian Trail Marker There—Yacht Club Organizes For the Season—Albert Thompson in Precarious Condition—Town Building Corner Stone to be Laid April 22.

The bronze tablet placed by Phoebe Greene, ward chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, upon the front of a dilapidated story and a half wooden structure in Main street three years ago as a marker for the Old Indian Trail was taken down Wednesday. It is now in a more conspicuous and fully appropriate position. The tablet has been placed on the front of the Broad street bridge over the Pawtucket river near the terminal of the Groton-Stonington trolley road and diagonally opposite the tablet on the Connecticut and of the bridge and alongside the one on the Rhode island end that tells of the building of the bridge and given the names of the members of the Westery town union and a selection of Stonington who supervised the building of the bridge. The Daughters' tablet bears this inscription in raised letters: "Near This Spot was the Ford of Indian Trail Used Until the Building of the First Bridge over the Pawtucket River. About 1713. Erected by Phoebe Greene, Daughters of American Revolution, 1909. The tablet also bears the seal of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The local chapter received permission from the town to place the tablet on the bridge three years ago, but the chapter subsequently decided that the old building in Main street was more in keeping with the old Indian trail or ford. Although this may be fact, the tablet would be in practical obscurity at this place, hence the removal to more appropriate surroundings and still within keeping of the purpose of the tablet.

SPRINGTIME'S near, the time of year when the burden of office and household duties assumes discouraging proportions.

Somehow or other, you don't feel like taking hold of things with the same vim and energy you formerly had.

You're not really ill; you're just out of tune with things. You lack energy. You tire easily. You're irritable.

If you could only get away, go somewhere, you say to yourself, you think it would be just what you need.

But that's out of the question. And, really, it isn't necessary. Here's what you do:

Go to the drug store and get a bottle of KING'S PUREMALT. It's a splendid food- tonic, just what you need.

Take a wineglass at a dose. See what an appetite it gives you. Take it at bed time and you'll sleep like a top.

It will do you a world of good. Send for a bottle now—right now—while you think of it. Just say to the druggist: "KING'S PUREMALT, please."

Collier's Weekly in its issue of September 3, 1911, published an article entitled "Here Are Foods That Are Pure," by Margaret Wagner. There was printed in this article "A List From Which Housewives May Choose Without Doubt or Hesitation." This list was the result of several years' analytical work by the pupils of the State Normal School at Westfield, Massachusetts, under the direction of Professor Lewis' R. Allen. KING'S PUREMALT is mentioned among the food products of absolute pure quality. The endorsement of this preparation and the publication of the article by Collier's Weekly was unsolicited by the manufacturers.

KING'S PUREMALT with the addition of hypophosphites of iron and lime is a medicinal tonic recognized for many years as a most dependable strength-giving, body-building liquid food. Only the choicest materials are used in its manufacture. It is without an equal, and is recommended generally by physicians. KING'S PUREMALT is sold at all drug stores and in strict conformity with the Pure Food and Drugs Act of June 30, 1906. Send for prices to your druggist or to us.

For Freckled, Rough or Spotty Complexions. (From The Dermatologist) The freckling, discoloring or roughening to which delicate skins are subject after exposure to wind or sun, often appearing in spring, may readily be gotten rid of, Mercolized wax, spread lightly over the face before retiring and removed in the morning with soap and water, completely peels off the disfigured skin. Get an ounce of the wax at any druggist's. There's no more effective way of banishing freckles or other cutaneous defects. Little skin particles come off each day, so the process doesn't even temporarily mar the complexion, and one soon acquires a brand new, spotless, girlishly beautiful face.

Wrinkles caused by weather, worry or illness are best treated by a simple solution of powdered six-sixty, one ounce dissolved in a half pint witch hazel. Rubbing the face in this produces a truly marvelous transformation.
