Clubs Active.
At the forenoon session Thursday the reports of officers showed that the federation was in excellent condition and each of the clubs was doing its utmost to promote the objects for which the federation was organized. That much good has been accomplished is evident from the reports of various departments, which include arts and crafts, household economics, health, industrial conditions, civics, education, legislation, literature, recreation, civil service and conservation.

Loyal Ideals.
Mrs. T. H. MacDonald of New Haven, president of the Sunshine club, reported for the arts and crafts committee. She said that sufficient compensation was not given for works of art. Many cannot receive even the value of the material used. She hoped the matter would some day be taken up by the state.

Mrs. E. H. Street of New Haven spoke of household economics and advocated the very great importance of the work.

Of Especial Interest.
A particularly interesting address was that of Miss Georgia Bacon of Westport, president of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's clubs. She said in part: Connecticut and each of the clubs was doing its utmost to promote the objects for which the federation was organized. That much good has been accomplished is evident from the reports of various departments, which include arts and crafts, household economics, health, industrial conditions, civics, education, legislation, literature, recreation, civil service and conservation.

well directed public spirit has been aroused, so great that the work has been noticed and taken up by the state. Mrs. Valeski, who spoke on practical prison reform Wednesday evening, gave a short talk on the use of the professional match, and the legislation relating to it.

Noon recess.
At noon the delegates and guests, numbering about 100, went to the Congregational church in West Stafford, where lunch was served. Most of them went on the extra trolley, and others went by automobile and bus. Mrs. William H. Phelps, the president of the federation, greeted the pastor, Rev. John Whitthrop Ballentine, with especial cordiality as being the youngest brother of an esteemed teacher in the college, Mr. Charles Harding, whose death recently occurred in India.

Afternoon Session.
The afternoon session was called to order at 1:45, following which there was an announcement of the election of officers and the presentation of the reports of the various departments. Mrs. Phelps in restoring the gavel to her successor, Mrs. Bolton, laid particular stress upon the importance of the work and what had been accomplished during the last four years. Good results have been accomplished in all lines and as a result of the hearty cooperation of the women are prepared for the duties of the year. She congratulated the federation on the increase of state work. She thinks "conscientious has some excellent laws. They should be avoided and public opinion toned up. She asked for the hearty cooperation of the heads of all departments.

The Women's College.
Mrs. S. H. Williams, president of the Hartford College club, spoke on the Connecticut college for women. She told of the beautiful site in New London which had been selected for the college and urged all women to do what they could to foster an interest in the college soon to be erected. She gave unstinted praise to Mayor Mahan, Morgan Huel and Mr. Chapel for their efforts in getting the college to locate in New London and spoke of the philanthropy of Morton P. Plant in giving $1,000,000 to the institution. It has a larger endowment than any other New England college and all of the money with the exception of $1,000 has been contributed by New London people. She believed that the spirit in which the college was founded had much to do with its success in after years.

Mrs. G. P. Ford, who is one of the county vice presidents, was glad to have the state federation meet in Stafford Springs and considered it the greatest honor that could come to the local club.

Prize Papers.
The prize papers of literary contests were as follows: Best poem, Mrs. W. B. Van Vliet of Milford. Best story, America as a Peacemaker, S. H. Kenyon, South Manchester. Story, The Fire Atone, Mrs. J. W. Bennett of New London. Club paper, Wooding and Chopping Bee, Miss Helen E. Smith of Sharon. The meetings were full of interest and the guests feel at home, and when the convention closed Thursday afternoon there was a smile of satisfaction on the members of the local club, and it is gratifying to know that their efforts met with complete success.

WESTERY BOY INJURED.

Willie Caraccio Lost Three Fingers Which Were Caught in Gearing—New Home for Edgar H. Cottrell—Death of Thomas F. McCormick.

While progressive Westery is seeking for advertising material, it brings the town into prominence, excepting its taken to an announcement of an attraction that is to appear in a magazine for Westery in South county and within the limits are the fashionable Watch Hill, Pleasant View and Wookaping summer resorts, and within the limits of South county are included the famous Narragansett Pier, Charlestown Beach, Quonsetpoint and other popular resorts. Here is the magazine advance notice:
"An artist and a writer who can work together in perfect understanding and sympathy and understanding, make a rare combination. This happens once in a lifetime. When it does happen the result is a fortunate one for editors and readers of magazines. * * * We shall present the result under the title of Old South County in an early number of an obscure section of Rhode Island that summer visitors never see, and of which outsiders rarely hear. The picture and text present an excellent portrayal of this out of the world corner so near the vacationist's highway."

Willie Caraccio, aged 19, suffered a serious accident while at work at the tool sharpening machine at the New England Granite Works Thursday afternoon. His left hand got caught in the gearing and three of the fingers were so badly crushed that they were amputated at the palm, and the little finger was taken off at the first joint from the palm. The boy's father was sick with stomachic consumption and left for Italy last June in the hope of bettering his health, but he died soon after landing and was buried in his native land. His family was not in comfortable circumstances, and Willie was anxious to aid in the support of the family. He had worked in a store at small wages up to last Saturday and had worked for the granite company only a few days.

The boy was alone when the accident occurred, and was found unconscious on the floor of the shed in which he was at work by one of the stonecutters. Dr. Barber was called and gave the boy the needed attention.

Local Laconics.

New Bible for Collinsville.

The old King James version of the Bible that had been doing service in the Congregational church at Collinsville for the past seventy-seven years, gave up its place last week to a new revised American version of the book, the latter coming as a gift from Mrs. Walter J. Soudant in memory of his father, Albert W. Williams, who was a prominent church worker during his life. The old Bible was printed in 1835 and went into service in 1857. When the edifice was burned in 1857, the Bible was rescued.

Mrs. Martha Erickson and Mrs. Bertha Fofelstad, the oldest twins in Chicago, celebrated their 91st birthday.

extended to you thro Cottolene

THE hospitality of the South is proverbial; a great factor in the success of Southern hospitality is Southern cooking, for good cooks make or mar the meal. Cottolene is a Southern product, made from pure, refined cotton oil, and Southerners know of its purity and healthfulness better than Northerners. It stands to reason that a cooking fat which is of vegetable origin, free from hog fat and indigestion, will make purer, richer, more healthful food than the product of the pig.
