EMPIRE VOTING MACHINE. Agent Hamilton Had One on Exhibit at Town Hall. Agent Arthur S. Hamilton of Rochester, N. Y., representing the E. S. Standard and the Empire voting machine, was here with the Empire voting machine on Monday for a demonstration of the machine in the main hall of the courthouse building. There he had many visitors who showed great interest in the machine and expressed admiration of its workings. To vote, the man who is in charge a ballot slips within the space between of the machine and has the keyboard in front of him upon which are arranged in vertical and horizontal rows the names of the candidates and the names of the candidates and the office for which each is running. Each horizontal row contains the names of one party. When the voter wishes to vote a straight party ticket, he turns down the voting pointer over the name of his party, and leaves it there. The turning down of a party pointer locks all the other party pointers and all the candidate pointers for the name of his party. If the voter wishes to vote a straight party ticket, he turns down the voting pointer over the name of his party, and leaves it there. The turning down of a party pointer locks all the other party pointers and all the candidate pointers for the name of his party.

Hitting Folly as It Flies. There is an impression that Teddy Roosevelt will not be re-elected President. The New York World says it is ridiculous for Teddy to say so little as "a vote for Taft is a vote for the house." It is a vote for the house, for Roosevelt, for Gallagher and for all the rest of the boys who are in the race. The World says that saying that "a vote for Taft is a vote for Roosevelt" is a vote for the house, for Gallagher and for all the rest of the boys who are in the race.

And in all that tangled there should be some sense. It is a vote for the house, for Gallagher and for all the rest of the boys who are in the race.
