SCATTERED CHICKENS IN THE ROAD

Trolley Tipped Two Crates of Fowl Out of Samuel Coit's Team—Hit Horse and Wagon Near Taftville Station—Driver Bruised and Horse Knocked Down.

Sam Coit of No. 79 Summit street, with his peddlers' wagon, on which he had two crates of live chickens, was hit by a trolley car Tuesday night near the Taftville junction, throwing the horse down, and tipping Mr. Coit out into the road, along with the crates of chickens, which broken open as they landed in the road, scattering the chickens on all sides.

Mr. Coit, as was shown when he was later examined in Dr. Rush W. Kimball's office, was bruised about the neck and ankle, but fortunately escaped without more serious injuries. The horse was helped to its feet, taken to the car barn and stabled for the night, and Mr. Coit subsequently revisited the scene of the accident, where he recovered some of his scattered fowl, returning to Franklin square one of the late trips with several of the chickens prisoners under his coat.

The accident happened when the S.45 car from Norwich, with Motorman H. Copeland and Conductor N. Abel in charge, was at a point on the Taftville road near the blacksmith shop below the Taftville junction. As Motorman Copeland threw on his arc light the express wagon driven by Mr. Coit was shown ahead, square in middle of the track, the car hitting the horse and one wheel, which threw Mr. Coit out.

The car was helped up by the car crew and brought to Franklin square, where Night Starter John Kinney took him for examination to Dr. Kimball's office. His injuries were found not to be serious, and he went to his home after he had gone back to Taftville to look up the chickens that had escaped.

EXTRA ELECTRIC POWER FROM WESTERY LINE.

Local Trolley Service Bolsters Up Its Crippled System to Needed Strength.

Reinforcement of the electric power for the local trolley lines of the Connecticut company has been arranged for by an agreement with the Norwich Western company to furnish high power from their station at Halfville and on Tuesday a force of men was at work in Preston, where the line of the Western company and the line of the Western company meet. It is the point where a connection can be made to get the current from the Western line into the system here.

With the electric power from the Western line's station to fall back on the local company will have nothing to fear for race day, which offered a big crowd if they could not have power enough.

BOTH HARVARD EIGHTS TRIED TIME ROWS.

Varsity Did Half Distance in 10m. 30s.—Crimson Camp Full of Confidence.

The Harvard varsity eight went over the two mile course on the Thames river at Taftville on Tuesday afternoon in 10 minutes and 30 seconds. The wind and tide both favored the crew. The stroke never went higher than 20. The freshmen went over the two miles under the watchful eye of the coach, but no time was given out. The other crews had only light practice.

The Harvard squad is now reaping the benefit of the varsity policy, with the coaches inaugurated early in the season. Their make-up is well adapted to time rows established the speed of the varsity eight and their English skill is awaiting their advent for the big races of Friday. There is no possible hitch to the programme, and every oarsman in the Crimson camp is perfectly confident of the season Coach Harman of Yale has been able to get speed from his men only in limited quantities, and although his eight has improved since its arrival at Giles Ferry, the Harvard 1912 crew, since Captain Trumbull's return again in condition, has shown unexpected speed.

In the argument the question of the captaincy is now becoming ripe. At Harvard, Goodale, No. 4, is regarded as the logical candidate. He is the only member of the class of '12 in the school who has two years' experience in the regular shell.

NEW FARE REGULATION ON JEWETT CITY LINE

Change Made in 10-Cent Zone Affecting Round Hill and Bishop.

The public utilities commission received word Tuesday from Jewett City that the contract company also had made a change in the fare regulation in the matter of the fares between Jewett City and Bishop and between the latter place and Plainfield. This made necessary the holding of a public hearing on the matter set for Tuesday.

The change referred to went into effect on Monday, and is for the accommodation of local traffic only between Jewett City and Bishop, and between Jewett City and Plainfield. The new regulation makes it a five-cent fare for passengers for Round Hill or Bishop.

MONUMENT TO FRENCH.

Ansonia Celtic Literary Association Planning to Attend Dedication in Southington June 30th.

The Celtic Literary association of this city is to go to Southington last Sunday of this month, the Ansonia Sentinel, to attend the dedication of a monument on the site of the encampment of the French army there, when it was during the American cause in the revolution. Captain Lawrence O'Brien, a wealthy Southington man, who served in the civil war, has interested himself in the project and is paying for the monument. Captain O'Brien is a member of an Irish society in New Haven, and all the Clan Na Gael in the state are to attend the dedication as well as members of other Irish societies. The Sons and Daughters of the Revolution all over the state are also to participate in the ceremonies.

At the meeting of the Celtic Literary association next Sunday a committee is to report on transportation, as there was some talk of making the trip in automobiles.

According to Captain O'Brien the French army encamped in Southington, June 28, 1781. The encampment was at French Hill, Marion district, in Southington, where this army of about 5,000, known as the French auxiliary, stayed for two days. This was a portion of the main French army, and they were marching from Newport to Yorktown. Captain O'Brien said that he thought it eminently proper that some memorial should be erected to mark the site of the Southington encampment. Consequently he purchased a lot there and ordered a monument. There was an Irish Strawberry Charlotte Buns, Tutti-Frutti Cream on Surprise, Assorted Cakes, Demi-Tasse.

KNOCKED OVERBOARD.

Man on Launch Had to Swim Ashore in Shetucket River.

A man went overboard from a launch in the Shetucket river Tuesday afternoon and had to swim ashore when he was knocked off the launch by one of the ropes that fastens the stone lighter to the bank. A small boy on the front of the launch saw the man and ducked in time, but the rope swept the man into the water.

He came up all right and grabbed the rope which he had tried to return to him to take him aboard the steering gear broke, so that he let go the rope and swam ashore unaided.

DEFENSE IN CHETTY CASE.

Town of Montville Presents its Side Before Superior Court.

When the superior court resumed at Norwich Tuesday after the usual recess from Friday to Tuesday, the cases of Amede Chetty and George Hamilton Chetty vs. town of Montville were continued. Mrs. Morrell, who was Georgiana Chetty at the time the suit was brought, has since married, and was the first witness.

The attorneys for the plaintiff, D. G. Perkins and William H. Shields, read their case on Friday afternoon, and Attorney C. W. Comstock for the town called four witnesses during the afternoon, and had Loren A. Daboll on the stand who testified at 10 o'clock. Daboll is a civil engineer who has drawn plans of the location, which he explained before the jury.

Judge Holscomb asked the attorneys if the cases were going through to the end, and they replied that they were, whereupon the judge dismissed the cases until Thursday morning. The suit of Dr. Douglas is scheduled to follow the Chetty case.

The witnesses put on for the defense Tuesday were John J. Shea, Edward R. Glasbeener, Maurice E. Geary and William Geer.

The average married man doesn't feel sorry for a bachelor.
