DEVELOP EASTERN CONNECTICUT

Plan For Four Mayors to Speak Upon This Topic at Business Men's Picnic—Norwich, New London, Willimantic and Putnam Associations to Have Dinner and Outing at Kiteaug.

A picnic with a purpose was outlined at the meeting here Friday evening of delegates from the New London Business Men's association and the directors of the Norwich Business Men's association, the purpose being to promulgate ideas for the development of eastern Connecticut. This opportunity to the plan, the mayors of four cities in the territory are to present before the business men the different points of view as to what can and ought to be done to stimulate the growth of this section, so that along with the pleasure of the picnic, which will be held at Kiteaug, it will also be productive of much practical value.

President R. B. Gardner and Secretary John Humphrey of the New London Business Men's association were in attendance at the meeting, which was held in the dining rooms in the Shannon building, having been called at the suggestion of the Norwich association. Delegates from Willimantic were expected, but did not arrive. Efforts to get into communication with the Putnam association failed, so that they will be notified with the Willimantic association of what was done at the meeting.

At their meeting, a fair amount of the Norwich association presided and explained the purpose of the meeting. The meeting was held at Kiteaug with enthusiasm, and after a discussion of various points and a conference with John H. Kiteaug, president of the Norwich association, it was decided to select Tuesday, June 23d, as the day for the picnic and Kiteaug as the place. It was also determined that it would be held on the grounds of the Kiteaug, which provides plenty of shelter in case of poor weather.

Each association, it was determined, was to invite and prevail upon the mayor of its respective city to attend the picnic and dinner, which is to be a feature, and each mayor is to come primed to speak upon the general topic of the development of eastern Connecticut. This opportunity for Mayor T. C. Murphy of Norwich, Mayor Bryan P. Mahan of New London, Mayor Daniel E. Dunn of Willimantic and Mayor Archibald Macdonald will be afforded to place before the assembled business men ways in which co-operation will achieve results here for the common good.

There is to be a Get-Together tag of some kind which will be worn during the day, and the dinner is not intended to be only for members of the associations, but any business man interested in attending will be welcome as the committee have the tickets for general sale, and want to make the picnic a big affair.

An intercity baseball game was also talked of. Secretary Charles W. Peterson being one of the enthusiastic promoters of this line of entertainment. President Fairbairn of the Norwich association will be the president of each association will be the executive committee for the day.

After the New London delegates had departed, the Norwich directors considered several other matters of business, among which was the decision to send a man to Hartford next Tuesday to appear at the hearing being held by the public utility commission upon the removal of the Central Vermont morning boat train. Frank H. Smith was the delegate selected to represent the association.
