WEAVERS' STRIKE ENDS.

After Conference Friday, Company's Offer of Seven and One-Half Per Cent Increase is Accepted.

Friday, the directors, the full board—nine in number—met in conference at the office of the Windham Silk company with President John Golden of the United Textile Workers of America. President Golden came to Willimantic as a result of an urgent telephone message following a meeting of the silk people held Wednesday evening and attended the conference at their request to see if a settlement of the strike could not be reached. The conference lasted from 10 a. m. until noon. Nothing definite was done except to get the strikers' committee and President Golden to attend another conference at the company's office in the afternoon at 2 o'clock, which lasted until after 4:30.

The directors would not meet the demand of the strikers for 10 per cent flat increase, but offered a flat increase of 7 1/2 per cent. This figure was final as far as the directors of the company were concerned. It is said to be their ultimatum. The strikers are at liberty to take it or leave it. Some time ago the company offered an increase of 5 per cent, but this was refused by the strikers, who held out for 10 per cent.

After the conference the strikers' committee, with President Golden, went to A. R. S. hall and met the body of strikers and reported the result of the conference. In the event of the flat increase of 7 1/2 per cent, being accepted, the mill will start up immediately or just as soon as a few details can be arranged. The sentiment of those attending the conference appeared to be favorable for an acceptance of the offer of the company's directors. The conference Friday was the first one at which every member of the strikers' committee and a board of directors has been present since the strike started, about 12 weeks ago, and it was also the first real opportunity for the strikers' representatives had a fair opportunity to talk the matter over with the managing board of the Windham Silk company.

WILLIMANTIC PRISONER

Has Leg Broken When Water Main Trench Caves In.

Charles Barry, oldest member of the number of prisoners from the Brooklyn jail on the contract of putting in water mains through Potter street, had his right leg broken between the knee and ankle Friday morning when the side of the trench in which he was working caved in and let a mass of dirt and rock down upon him. Fellow workers and a neighbor, who was working on the trench, saw the accident and rushed him to the hospital, where he was summoned by Dr. George S. Brown, superintendent of the water company, who was much agitated by the mishap and said that it was the first that had occurred on the company's work during the many years that he had been with them here. Barry was committed to jail from the police court of Willimantic to work out the summer, but he held on Aug. 13 this year. Rev. P. L. Cosman, pastor at both East Killingly and North Foster, is to deliver the address of welcome. Rev. W. B. Greene of Providence, formerly pastor of the church, is to make an address, and the musical and literary programme is to be of a high standard.

Greene of Providence, formerly pastor of the church, is to make an address, and the musical and literary programme is to be of a high standard.

There was no great rush to register under the banner of Bill Bigess when the registrars of Killingly got together Friday to allow the voters their preference in the election of caucus lists. The changes in the lists will be principally on account of removal of names for various causes, and through additions. Very few, if any, indicated, contemplate changing from any one list to another.

He says that he left Boston Wednesday and that he is going to follow Secretary Shreve's trail across the country to San Francisco as a sign of respect, not only more than 21 years of age. He expects to get sufficient revenue to support himself through the sale of newspapers and picture postals of himself.

PUTNAM

Three Norwich Runaways Held by Capt. Murray—Accompanied Home by Stepfather of One of Them—Death of Joseph Minton—Motor Party Returns from Maine.

Putnam had three visitors from Norwich Friday—visitors that came away from their home town without telling their parents or those responsible for them where they were going or when or where they were coming back; briefly, they were runaways.

The trio was boys—George Stone, John Cincuchowski, Henry Carter, each of them about 15 years of age. The first attracted attention when they went into Seider's clothing store and started to outfit themselves with long trousers, to replace the knee pants they had on. They had each other wear the apparel as they wanted—shirts, ties and the like. Each boy tendered a $10 bill in payment for his purchase. The police were what at first aroused suspicion.

The police were informed that the youngsters were in town and were spending money freely. Captain Murray, who had been looking for them, and make an investigation, he found them at the railroad station about 10 o'clock. By that time they had gotten into their new looks, having discarded the old rigs in a secluded spot near what is known as the sand pit, south of the city.

The captain engaged them in conversation. Two of them, Stone and Cincuchowski, gave their place of residence as Providence, the former claiming to live at 104 North Main street, the latter at 257, the same street in Providence. Carter gave his residence as 49 Seventh street, Norwich.

Captain Murray had not talked with them many days before he discovered that they were telling him false yarns. Probation Officer Allen Bowen happened to come along and he also listened to their stories. "Hold the boys," Amos Aubrey, of Providence, going home, by the way, on the train due for that city at 10:30.

Captain Murray decided that they had not better go on that train. He took them to the police station and got into communication with the Norwich police, who after he felt convinced that the youngsters belonged in that city. The Norwich officer with whom Captain Murray talked over the wire, when he heard the story, said: "Hold the boys." Amos Aubrey, the Carter boy's stepfather, had just left the Norwich police office after reporting their earnings in the Norwich factories, where they were employed.

After they decided that their game was plugged they told more of the truth than had previously been the case. It was gathered from them that they left Norwich Thursday and came up to Plainfield and attended the circus and made their way to Putnam Friday morning. It was evident that they had some money, they were in a legitimate way. It was understood from what they said that the money in their possession, amounting to about $11 in each case, represented their earnings in the Norwich factories, where they were employed.

When Mr. Aubrey arrived here about 3 o'clock in the afternoon he found the lads in their new rigs, waiting and willing to get back to Norwich, where it is presumed they are again located by this time, for the train and trolley service was regular Friday evening.
