ALL READY FOR FALL OF THE GAVEL

Between 1,100 and 1,200 Delegates Will Officially Launch Progressive Party Today

THE WOMEN DELEGATES ARRANGE FOR PARADE

Colonel Roosevelt Speeding Towards Chicago—Gov. Johnson of California Still Most Likely Name For Second Place on Ticket—Two Contests Over Negro Delegates Pending—South Carolina Has No Official Representative

Chicago, Aug. 4.—The national progressive party will be formally launched tomorrow at noon in the Coliseum where a little more than a month ago President William Howard Taft was renominated for the presidency on the republican ticket, over the protest of many of those now leading the third party movement.

Head of a Bull Moose. The big convention hall, ready for the new party, shows but few chances in the arrangements provided for the republican national convention. Over the main entrance door, however, has been hung the head of a bull moose, in token of the nickname attached to the new party.

Between 1,100 and 1,200 delegates are expected to gather in the Coliseum tomorrow. On Wednesday, when all the necessary preliminaries have been disposed of, they will ratify the nomination of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt for president. Colonel Roosevelt was tentatively placed in nomination at a gathering here on the last night of the republican convention, when his followers assembled in Orchestra Hall and laid the foundation of which this convention was guided.

Democrat for Permanent Chairman. So far only the temporary officers of the convention have been given out. It was quite generally reported tonight, however, that Colonel John M. Parker of New Orleans, a democrat, would be the permanent chairman of the convention. For a time it appeared to be the plan to retain former Senator Albert B. Beveridge of Indiana as the permanent presiding officer, but it was said tonight that Mr. Beveridge had expressed a desire that this be not done.

Many of the leaders in the new party movement, anxious to avoid any semblance of alliance with the old parties, are urging the democrats who have joined in the movement, particularly from the south, should have special recognition in the convention.

Who For Teddy's Running Mate? There has been much talk of nominating a southern democrat for second place on the ticket, but this plan did not gain much headway today. Governor Hiram W. Johnson of California is mentioned as the most likely candidate for vice-president, and while he is not a candidate for the office, it is felt that the nomination of the delegates desire it. Governor Johnson is regarded as one of the leaders anxious to attract as many democrats as possible to the party standard as possible.

The proposed selection of Colonel Parker of New Orleans as permanent chairman, however, is being attacked by the national committee made up of former republicans. Much depends, however, upon the attitude of Colonel Roosevelt himself, who tonight is speeding toward Chicago on an 15-hour train from New York and who will arrive tomorrow morning. In all his recent public utterances, Colonel Roosevelt has urged the young men into the progressive party of former republicans and democrats on an equal footing.

Awaiting Arrival of the Colonel. In anticipation of the arrival of Colonel Roosevelt, convention plans practically were set at a standstill today. A sub-committee of the provisional national committee of the new party met tonight to discuss the same, and reports in the Ohio delegation, which were not regarded as especially important. Tomorrow morning the national committee will meet to finally dispose of the contacts from Mississippi and Florida, where the contestants are negroes. The committee already had heard practically all the evidence in these cases, and it is believed will follow the principle laid down in the Alabama cases, where the contestants of the negroes were declared without merit.

Senator Dixon of Montana, who as chairman of the provisional national committee of the new party, will call the convention to order tomorrow and introduce Mr. Beveridge as the temporary presiding officer, was at headquarters only a part of today. The arrangements for the opening reception had progressed so far that there was little to do but wait for the arrival of Colonel Roosevelt and the fall of the parade. It was reported that tonight neither Colonel Roosevelt nor Mr. Beveridge had opened sessions of the convention. He is not himself a delegate.

Welcomes for the Candidates. No formal plans had been made tonight for the welcoming of Colonel Roosevelt to the city tomorrow, but several delegations expressed a purpose of being at the railway station with brass bands and banners to make the arrival of their leader an impressive one when he came to Chicago during the republican convention and was greeted by thousands.

Several state delegations came in today, but many have deferred their arrival until tomorrow. Suffragists' Delegates Will Parade. More women delegates are expected to attend the convention than any other national political gathering in the history of the country. Colonel Roosevelt openly has espoused the cause of universal suffrage. The women delegates plan to assemble tomorrow before the Art Institute in Michigan avenue and march to the convention hall with banners and bands. Notices regarding the parade were posted in all the downtown hotels tonight.

State Delegations Arriving. Among the delegations arriving today were those of West Virginia, headed by former Governor Dawson; Montana, the home of National Chairman Dixon; Idaho and Nebraska. The West Virginians came in in strong numbers, each delegate having one-fourth a vote. Nearly all the states are to have delegations in excess of their allotted quota, which ordinarily would be just one-half of the number of delegates allowed by the republican and democratic conventions. Washington, Aug. 4.—The national progressive party must accept Colonel Roosevelt's political doctrines if he is to be its permanent chairman. He said today that he would insist upon making his "confession of faith" to the delegates at Chicago before the party would accept his nomination on a platform which did not meet with his approval.

Colonel Roosevelt's speech was originally scheduled for Monday night. Colonel Roosevelt said that in his speech he had dealt fully with all the great political questions of the day. He spoke frankly and fearlessly, he said, and believed that the convention ought to be fully apprised of his views before ratifying the tentative nomination which he accepted when the party was formed at Chicago last month. He contends that it was upon a question of principle that he left the republican party and now that he has done so he cannot make a compromise of principle in accepting the leadership of a new movement.

His declaration of political faith, he says, is one which will be termed either socialism or anarchism and probably will represent his convictions. He goes to Chicago to make these views known and to receive the presidential nomination only if they are acceptable in their substantial provisions to the new party.

Colonel Roosevelt said it was for this reason that he had taken his determined stand and he sent word to his managers in Chicago to this effect. Rather than accept a platform which did not meet with his views, he would prefer to retire in favor of another arrangement, Colonel Roosevelt will deliver his speech Tuesday morning. This arrangement, he said, would be announced to him, as at that time the platform committee will not have completed its work.

My only desire is that the investigation which has been made shall be thoroughly investigated and that everyone who is guilty of any wrongdoing shall be dismissed from the police force.
