FELONY LEADS FIRMS' SPOUSERS

Philadelphia Man Has Three Straight Victories to His Credit—Van Winkle Play Between Clark and Webb Stopped by Rain—Prof. Jacobus Defeated J. C. Kirk—Wet Weather Interfered.

Rain, that by some strange chance seems persistently to accompany the yearly tournaments of the National Rague association, was again in evidence on Wednesday and the intermittent showers held up a number of the Webbs has a record of playing on many more. The showers affected the courts and the rubber players to some degree and made the play slow. At 11 o'clock the stars were out and the moon was shining, but half an hour later the rain descended in a down-pour, and the contestants for the hand-cup Van Winkle medal, Champion Clark of Springfield, and the defender, H. T. Webb of the Philadelphia club, took refuge in the club houses. Dr. J. C. Kirk, who was to play Van Winkle, stayed out in the rain and ran out his game with Loue Stockwell in the second Van Winkle play. At 11 o'clock the stars were out again and today and the rest of the week should produce the right kind of weather for rague.

Rain Stopped Van Winkle Play. In the play for the first Van Winkle medal, Eddie Clark, the challenger, started out with the balls at 7:45 o'clock. The champion ran them a careful steady game and had his one ball to the last arch and the second as far as the eleventh wicket. When Webb got up to bat, he showed a steady game and had his first ball in hand at all stages. The wet condition of the borders and the heavy rain made it difficult to play, and the game was interrupted by a number of Clark's corner shots. The balls changed hands frequently and when the 2:30 three o'clock whistle blew the contestants decided to mark the game up and have it go over until this evening. Webb has one ball with two corners to go and the game is in the basket going out, and while Clark is ahead of him, he has the advantage of having the balls in his possession. Webb has a nice set up for continuing the play.

Thomson Won in Downpour. The second Van Winkle medalist, Loue Stockwell, the challenger, and Dr. Thomson, who was to play Van Winkle, started out with the balls at 7:45 o'clock. The champion ran them a careful steady game and had his one ball to the last arch and the second as far as the eleventh wicket. When Webb got up to bat, he showed a steady game and had his first ball in hand at all stages. Proposed Abolishing Jump Shot. This proposal precipitated an animated discussion. Prof. Jacobus opposed the proposal of the jump shot, preferring leaving it to local clubs. He said he could use the jump ball 600 times on a court without interfering the ground, and that he would be glad to see the jump shot abolished, and then Prof. Jacobus stated that the reason why there was opposition to the jump shot was that it was not used in the game. A vote was taken as to how many would use the shot, and then as to how many would not use it and then it was tabled until Friday.

Prof. Jacobus Spoke of Finances. For the finance committee Professor Jacobus stated that every year there is a deficit and in the way of a review of the financial statement of the club touched upon the days 377 ago, when he filed the matter on CH street, and when $115 was raised to meet the expenses of the club. After the club fee of $2 and the member's fee of $3 he said he would be able to state more exactly the condition of this year's financial statement.

Notes. Owing to the threatening weather there was a small attendance of visitors at the Rague grounds on Wednesday evening. Lane's orchestra gave an excellent program, and on account of it will give the following numbers: March Militaire, Imperial, Anthony Selection, Prince of Pilsen.

Obituary. Mrs. James Fitch Mason. At her home in Franklin on Wednesday morning at 11:45 o'clock the long and useful life of Fannie H. Fitch, wife of James Fitch Mason, came to a peaceful close. Mrs. Mason had been seriously ill about two weeks and a heart ailment was the cause of her death due to a paralytic shock.

SPENCER HAD WRITTEN FAREWELL LETTERS

Said He Was Going to Take Poison—Tried to Cut Throat with Piece of Glass.

Wednesday's Springfield Republican said: Mrs. Kate E. Spencer of Lebanon, mother of Bertram G. Spencer, the convicted murderer of Miss Martha B. Blackstone, has been in Springfield since last Saturday. Tuesday she told in a statement to newspaper reporters that she had written her husband's farewell letters to her relatives, and in one instance he had frightened every one by stating that he had taken poison and writing farewell letters to his relatives, and in another he had tried to cut his throat with a piece of glass before he was restrained by the guards. Spencer came with Bertram H. Spencer, the prisoner's young son, who was brought to the city for a slight operation. The operation was performed at the Hospital by Dr. O. M. Deane and was not of a serious nature. During her stay here Mrs. Spencer visited her son several times, talking with her grandson with her. She stayed at the home of M.
