During one spasm of cheering when all were standing, waving hats and arms, Mr. Hill received an elbow, in the midst of his wind with such violence that it came near putting him on the hospital list. ELIENSKY DIVORCE SUIT BEFORE SUPERIOR COURT.

Husband Alleges Cruelty—Wife Also Asks Divorce With Alimony.

Iman I. Eliensky, a New London shoe merchant, in the superior court at New London Wednesday asked a decree of divorce from Rebecca Corran Eliensky. The divorce was asked on the ground of intolerable cruelty. Eliensky was his principal witness. He said that he had been subjected to maltreatment practically all his married life and finally had brought divorce proceedings, being unable to longer stand it. He said Mrs. Eliensky had frequently gone away from him, being absent from two and three weeks a year or more, not saying where she was going or why. In Providence, Denver, Saratoga Springs and other places, he said she had been long staying, coming and going as she liked, and that she had agreed twice to separation and had paid his wife $10 a week during the separation.

Joseph Stanislaw, Bernard Grimbalt and Getzel Lebowitch corroborated Eliensky's statements.

Mrs. Eliensky in her testimony claimed that Eliensky is at fault. The Elienskys were married in Russia, coming to this country three weeks after the marriage, first residing in Westerly, then in Boston, then in Elm Street, and then in New London. They have four children, three sons, aged 20, 18 and 16, and a daughter, aged 14.

Mrs. Eliensky also brought suit against Mr. Eliensky asking a divorce and seeking alimony.

In the afternoon the court was occupied with the trial of the case of Merchants' National bank of New Haven vs. Henry Walton and Warren S. Randall. The case was on the bond of the Eldredge Construction company, which did work at Fisher's Island and failed to pay the Eureka Trap Rock company for material. The trap rock company claimed its claim to the New Haven bank.

AT DAVIS' BROADWAY

Madam Butterfly by Aborn English Opera Company.

A performance of grand opera that went to the hearts of a good sized Norwich audience at the Davis Broadway theater was given on Wednesday evening by the Aborn English Opera company, which presented a most high dramatic ability and musical charm and quality in its principals, and lost nothing from this high standard as it went down through the supporting members.

From almost the rise of the curtain on the first act was this true, as the opening lines of the opera served to introduce the rich contralto voice of Elaine De Selen in the role of Suzuki, the Japanese maid of Madam Butterfly. The fine tenor of Henry Taylor, one of the best heard in theatrical companies in this city, who was cast as the hero, was also heard in this act, and early received enthusiastic recognition and applause when joined in duet with the basso of Louis D'Angelo.

In the title role Aida Hemmi sustained the heavy and exacting musical requirements called for in a voice of adequate power, splendidly handled and always responsive and expressive of the dramatic demands made upon it. Her duet at the end of the first act with Mr. Taylor, after a prolonged applause and curtain call.

Other gems that received the conspicuous favor of the house were the star's solo as she enters in the first act, and the wonderfully effective close of the second scene, when the tribute of applause is alike for the magnificent orchestral effect achieved under Arturo Papalardo. A tenor solo again in the last act by Mr. Taylor is generously applauded, and the opera closes with an enthusiastic curtain call for the principals.

Representative Nominations.

Westport, Conn., Oct. 9.—At the republican caucus tonight William E. Albin was nominated for representative.

Fairfield, Conn., Oct. 9.—Dwight Banks and Titus H. King were nominated by the republicans tonight for representatives.

Stratford, Conn., Oct. 9.—J. H. Blakeman and Alexander H. St. John were tonight nominated for representatives by the republicans.

Newly received enthusiastic recognition and applause when joined in duet with the basso of Louis D'Angelo.

NEW CHANNEL IN THE THAMES.

Local Committee Were Ready to Meet Harbor Survey Commission.

Business pressure kept Mayor Murphy and several others who had planned to do so from meeting the harbor, river and bridge commissioners on their visit to the local harbor Wednesday morning. Mayor Bryan F. Mahan of New London, Thomas F. Noone of Hartford, the commissioners, were accompanied by Harbor Master Thomas A. Scott, Jr., of New London, J. Arthur Allen and several others. Local Harbor Master Herman J. Ackel, Jr., met the party at Hall's dock at 11 o'clock. The matter of straightening and widening the Thames river channel was taken up. It is considered desirable to have the old channel at Long each, near Walden's Island, dredged so as to be once more serviceable. A short time ago a new channel was opened here and makes the course to New London about three-quarters of a mile longer. The breakwaters in the river also need attention.

The city authorities, the Norwich Business Men's association and the Board of Trade have all taken up the matter. The commissioners were also in this city Tuesday afternoon, when a delegation from these organizations was at the dock, but owing to the late arrival of the yacht the Norwich men did not meet the commissioners but in an appearance.
