

VOTING MACHINE INSTRUCTIONS

Triumph Company Representative Gave Lessons to Registrars and Assistants—Trial Plan For Polling Places Set Up in Town Hall—Stamford Voters Showed Speed With Which Ballots Can be Cast.

In two weeks' time the electors of Norwich will cast their ballots in the national election, using for the first time the new voting machines which have been purchased by the town, and on Tuesday evening Edward M. Hall, a representative from the Triumph Voting Machine company, was here for the purpose of giving instructions to the persons designated by the selectmen to give instructions in the use of the machines in the several districts. These are the registrars of voters, Tyler D. Guy and Cornelius J. Downes, with the assistant registrars. They met Mr. Hall Tuesday evening in the town hall, where Town Clerk Charles S. Holbrook and Mr. Hall had had a machine set up and railed off in such a form as they can be used on election day.

It is a provision of the state law that no one, except the two men in charge of the machine, can be within four feet of it when the voter is inside the curtain registering his ballot, and the wooden railing set up around the machine keeps outsiders that distance off.

Three Machines in Town Hall. In the town hall it is planned that the three machines to be used there for the first district can be set up in a row near the wall, occupying the space between the left hand door to the hall and the door to the small committee room at the left of the platform. Each machine can be approached only through a narrow railed off passage just wide enough for one man to pass at a time and provided with a shut-off bar which one of the men at the machine will operate. When the voter has registered his ballot he will pass out through a lane along the side of the wall and leave the town hall by the west door.

All voters will enter the town hall from the east door and pass around in front of the checkers at the desk before they reach the machine.

Fast Voting.
As an example of the speed and facility with which voting can be carried on, the Triumph company representative told the Norwich men that in Stamford, where these machines were used recently for the first time, 125 men voted in 125 minutes during one of the rush hours.

On the machines for the Norwich election will appear six tickets this year in the following order: Democratic, republican, socialist, prohibition, socialist labor and progressive.

Regarding the returns it has been decided to allow the newspaper men to take the returns from the machines immediately following the close of the polls, then the candidates will be allowed to look over the returns and then the officials will take the vote, thus verifying the figures of the newspapers.
