FINISHING HASSAN PAVEMENT

Franklin Street Work Will End This Morning—Laid From Bath Street to Near Boswell Avenue—Used $5,000 Appropriation—New Rails For Trolley and Cement Curbs For Sidewalks Improve the Street.

This morning the hassan pavement in Franklin street, for which the appropriation was $5,000, will be finished, when the last few feet near the foot of Boswell avenue will be graded under the direction of General Manager Magill, who came here Wednesday to see to finishing up these works.

Supt. Fleck, who began it, has gone to Poughkeeps to take charge of a job there. When the present stretch of hassan in Franklin street is finished—the first that has been laid in this city—it will provide for the street paved its entire width with hassan from Bath street to the north line of Harvey lane, and paved from there northerly on the west side of the street in the trolley track to the north-erly line of the Devito property. This was as far as the appropriation of $5,000 would go.

While the hassan work has been underway the opportunity has been taken to make a number of other improvements in the street. A street-lighting company has laid about 1,100 feet of 30 pound rails instead of the old light 60 pound rails. This carried the 90 pound rail to a point opposite the lower end of Boswell avenue park. The location of the tracks in the street has also been shifted under the direction of City Engineer George E. Pitcher so that now there is a uniform width on both sides of the track to the curb, where formerly there were places on the street where a wide team could not squeeze by a car.

Common curbs have been laid all along the east side of Franklin street, and also on the west side of the street, except at a place on the Bath street street, where the street is to be widened at some future date.

Needed repairs to the pipe lines have been made, and at the Hodge street a culvert has been moved a short distance northerly, so that a rolling gutter without any curb could be laid in from the Hodge street to the Boswell avenue crosswalk, the crosswalk is to be eliminated, as was also one at Wil-son street, where the street is laid flat, which has recently, it is said, become the established custom of street construction.

THROUGH THE SCHOOLHOUSE OF THE WORLD

Norwich Audience Taken on Trip in Illustrated Lecture.

A Trip Through the World's School-house was the subject of the interesting lecture delivered before an audience of about 100 in the Y. M. C. A. hall, Thursday evening, by W. L. J. Raeder of Somerton, Pa., in the interests of the International Correspondence Schools. An effort is being made to interest the heads of manufacturing concerns in the work of the schools, and the speaker made invitations a number of local factory officials were present at the lecture. The talk was illustrated by excellent stereoscopic slides of the various buildings connected with the schools and of the officials.

The school was founded 26 years ago, and is taught by Thomas J. Foster, who still heads the organization. In the early 80's he was editor of the Mining and Metallurgical Review, a magazine interested in the cause of the numerous serious accidents about the mines. His conclusion was that the great majority of accidents were due to the ignorance of the employees. His first move towards reducing the number of these accidents was to issue a column of instructions in his paper and shortly afterwards he edited a miner's pocket guide. He then started to teach mining by mail, and since that time the school has grown until 224 courses of instruction are now offered. Students are now being sent to this country with over a thousand more in England. The pupils of the school number at present 140,000 and the number is steadily growing.

Mr. Raeder went on to explain in detail the work of the school and in his closing remarks he said that the present emperor of Japan learned the English language through the school. He also cited instances of the great success of some of the graduates.

BABY WAS SAID TO BE IN THE FIRE

But None Was Found Among Burning Bedding at 28 High Street.

Rumors that there was a baby hidden away in the smoke of a fire in the basement at 28 High street, Thursday evening added excitement to an otherwise minor matter to which the department was called by telephone about 4:5 o'clock on Thursday.

The auto chemical responded, reaching the place in a few minutes. The flames had burned away the bedding and searched for the baby, which it was afterwards discovered had been taken out.

The fire was in a feather bed among bedclothes in a tenement occupied by a family by the name of Kutzman. The house is owned by Elias Hinderman. The damage was small.

HOW CURRIE GILMOUR VIEWS SENATORSHIP.

Republican Candidate from the Nineteenth District Has No Strings to His Candidacy.

"If I am elected, I shall fully represent the people of the towns comprising the 19th senatorial district, and I shall act in the same way that a jurymen should in hearing and weighing evidence," declared Currie Gilmour, the republican nominee for senator from the 19th senatorial district, in an interview with a Bulletin reporter on Thursday. "I consider," he continued, "that a senator is a public servant, to whom the people have entrusted their power to act at Hartford, and the object and aim of being there should be to promote the interests and welfare of the people who are represented, and also the welfare of the state."

Mr. Gilmour has twice represented Norwich in the legislature, having served as chairman of the committee on sale of land in 1907, and on the committee on cities and boroughs in 1909. During his term the important legislation on the trolley road was secured through the combined efforts of Representatives Gilmour, Higgins and Senator Harris. It was also during his term that the choice of Senators Hawley and Platt came before the legislature.

"For the twelve years since then I have been out of politics, being in the postoffice, where politics are tabooed, with my nomination or in the event of election there is no string attached. I am not the representative of any machine and I am not a member of any assembly entirely free to give my best judgment and efforts for this district," declared Mr. Gilmour. "As to being a conservative, I am," he declared, "an all republican, but I believe that the best results are to be obtained by remaining in the party. Legislation is the work of the workingman and the farming interests, as well as those of importance to the municipality will get my sincere attention. The compensation act I heartily favor."

And His Stomach Is All Right

Thousands with Poor Teeth Have Good Digestion by Using Sturt's Dyspepsia Tablets After Meals.

Whether or not we eat too much, is a matter for individual judgment. Benjamin Franklin tried the experiment of living on a handful of raisins. But he discovered that the question wasn't what he ate, nor the quantity thereof, but one of digestion and assimilation. The normal person eats heartily, and with great enjoyment. That is because his mind doesn't anticipate stomach trouble. And if he does have a bit of sour stomach, a little Sturt's Dyspepsia Tablets give quick relief.

"For the twelve years since then I have been out of politics, being in the postoffice, where politics are tabooed, with my nomination or in the event of election there is no string attached. I am not the representative of any machine and I am not a member of any assembly entirely free to give my best judgment and efforts for this district," declared Mr. Gilmour. "As to being a conservative, I am," he declared, "an all republican, but I believe that the best results are to be obtained by remaining in
