TEACHERS' PENSION BILL PASSED

No Opposition Develops in the Senate—Trade Schools Bill Also Adopted by Senate

CHARGE OF RELIGIOUS PROSCRIPTION MADE

Crops Out During Debate Over Confirmation of Member of State Board of Education—Senate Passes $500,000 Army Bill After Much Backing and Filling—Likely to be Vetoed—$5,000,000 Bond Issue Also Doomed.

Hartford, May 28.—The senate adopted the teachers' pension bill which the education committee reported in on Monday. The bill provides for the development of the trade school system founded upon the schools at Bridgeport and New Britain. Not all the members agreed upon the bill as its provisions were not clearly defined, but opinions coincided that the principle was one the state should adopt.

Bridges on Trunk Line Highways. The senate adopted the house bill that provides for construction by the state of bridges on trunk line highways, the span of which do not exceed forty feet with the house amendment which will require trolley companies to pay a part of the expense of such bridges.

The senate lined up politically over four amendments to the New Haven city charter. Sumner Newman, Republican, moved to amend the charter as drafted by the citizens of that city under its new home rule law.

Like Merritt, but Prefer Democrat. Senator Merritt of Stamford, long a member of the state board of education, was confirmed by the senate after a debate which for a few minutes went somewhat off the subject. Democratic senators were authorized to praise his work but they strenuously objected to the policy of having only Republicans appointed to the board.

Religious Proscription Charged. Senator McCarthy said the board had great power. He believed that democrats should be appointed to the board and he knew of specific cases where leaders of a particular religion held belief which was not desired in such a position. He believed the board and its agents should work on broad lines; he would believe in liberality and would know no religious differences.

The Colonel Chuckles. Once Colonel Roosevelt gave vent to an audible chuckle, it was when Robert Bacon, former secretary of state, in telling of his acquaintance with members of the Roosevelt family, said the colonel was the father of five children, although he has six. Colonel Roosevelt's sense of humor was awakened at once by this lapse of Mr. Bacon's memory and the hearty chuckle which he vainly tried to smother in his hands caused a ripple of laughter about the courtroom.

Certain Hearby Evidence Excluded. The day's proceedings were marked by an important ruling by Judge Richard C. Flannigan, which in the introduction of evidence by the defense was the subject of excluding certain kinds of hearsay testimony. This ruling came after a prolonged argument during which the jurors were told that the testimony of a person not qualified by expertise in certain kinds of hearsay testimony. This ruling came after a prolonged argument during which the jurors were told that the testimony of a person not qualified by expertise in certain kinds of hearsay testimony.

Runs Not to be Admitted. The effect of the ruling was that Colonel Roosevelt's general reputation for integrity and honesty of character bearing upon his reputation as a witness should not be admitted. In the further progress of the hearing, it was explained that the defense had introduced extensively with the former president or who has been associated with him with any degree of constancy. A series of questions, ranging from the introduction of evidence by the defense to the exclusion of a certain kind of testimony which they claimed might be qualified by expertise in certain kinds of hearsay testimony.

The Sobriety Of Roosevelt

SEVERAL WITNESSES TESTIFY REGARDING IT. NOT ON HIS BREATH. All Declared That They Had Never Noticed Liquor—Certain of Hearsay Testimony to be Barred.

Marquette, Mich., May 28.—Men who have been associated with Colonel Roosevelt in public life, who met him on the night when he returned from his African hunting trip and who were present when he was in the company of newspapermen who accompanied him on his various political campaigns, testified today in Federal court that they had never noticed any liquor in the possession of Mr. Roosevelt.

Not Apparent in His Breath. It would have been impossible, the witnesses said for Colonel Roosevelt to have been under the influence of liquor without the fact becoming known to his associates. It would have been equally impossible, they testified, for him to have drunk liquor with any regularity without the smell of it on his breath being apparent to his friends who testified.

The Colonel Chuckles. Once Colonel Roosevelt gave vent to an audible chuckle, it was when Robert Bacon, former secretary of state, in telling of his acquaintance with members of the Roosevelt family, said the colonel was the father of five children, although he has six. Will Recede on The Tariff Bill

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS DECIDE TO BACK WATER. PROTESTS EFFECTIVE. Objections of Eight Nations Will Result in Removal of Discrimination in Favor of American-Owned Vessels.

Washington, May 28.—Congress in all probability will yield to the protests of foreign nations against the provision in the Underwood tariff bill which would permit a 10 per cent tariff discount on imports in American-owned or controlled vessels.

Wilson Won't Object. President Wilson is said to have indicated that he would not object to having the clause eliminated. This action, it was reported, would be recommended by the Senate Finance committee, headed by Senator John Sharp Williams, which is considering the administrative features of the tariff bill for the house ways and means committee.

Two Important Conferences were held today on the foreign protests. One was between Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee and Secretary Bryan and John Bassett Moore, counselor of the state department. The other was between Senators Williams and Shively of the finance committee and Representative Peters of Massachusetts, who have charge of the administrative section of the tariff bill for the house ways and means committee.

It was reported that the state department held it to be unquestionable that the five per cent debenture clause would be eliminated. During the conference protests against the clause from eight nations were read. A Big Job Ahead. It was generally expected tonight that the house would yield to a tentative amendment striking out the clause. As the senate sub-committee got down to work today and began consideration of proposed changes in the bill they found a long job ahead of them. Spurred on to finish the schedules within a week if possible, they agreed to hold day and night executive sessions, but some of them feared that even in this way they would be unable to complete the bill before Tuesday.

No Changes in Wool or Sugar. Several democratic leaders were emphatic in declaring that whatever was done by the committee there would be no changes in raw wool or sugar.
