$30,000 FIRE LOSS AT NORTH WINDHAM PLANT.

Cotton Yarn Mill of E. H. Hall & Son Burned Saturday—Storehouse and Sheds Alone Saved.

A fire which started shortly after noon Saturday in the plant of E. H. Hall & Son at North Windham destroyed the entire plant, with the exception of a storehouse which was located on the other side of the street from the mill proper, and two sheds. The loss is estimated at from $30,000 to $40,000.

The fire originated in the top of the mill, a three-story wooden building, and spread rapidly. As soon as possible after the discovery of the fire an effort was made to fight it by using the pump in the basement of the street on the other side of the street from the mill proper, and two sheds. The loss is estimated at from $30,000 to $40,000.

the meantime, the residents of North Windham were doing all that was possible, and when it was seen that the mill could not be saved, their attention was turned toward saving the storehouse and sheds and the boiler house. Fifty Bales of Cotton Saved.

About fifty bales of cotton were removed from the storehouse to a place of safety, as it looked as if that building would go. G. J. Kirby of the Mansfield Hollow mills brought over a gang of his men, who turned in and helped the fire fighters and volunteers. The boiler house could not be saved, however, but the sheds and storehouse were, although of fire at one time.

Totally Destroyed.
The mill fell in shortly after 2 o'clock, and an hour later there was nothing left of it and the boiler house but a bed of coals.

During the strenuous work of the fire fighters, coffee was served to them by the families of E. H. Hall and his son, J. H. Hall.

Mill Site for a Century.
The mill was the oldest manufacturing plant in North Windham and stood on land which had been used as a mill site for the last century. For about 20 years a paper mill stood there, which was destroyed by fire in 1881 and destroyed by fire in 1881.

The present mill was erected soon thereafter and in 1882 was leased to Messrs. Brooks, for the manufacture of thread. It was bought by the late E. H. Hall and his son, J. H. Hall, in 1871, both father and son having been connected with the Merrick interests in Holyoke. Since the death of the elder Mr. Hall in 1884 the mill has been run by E. H. Hall, his son, J. H. Hall, going into the company a few years ago.

The wheel of the mill produced about 30,000 spindles of cotton yarn. The yarn produced at the mill was taken by the G. J. Kirby of the Mansfield Hollow and made into thread. The product to South Willimantic Plant.

latter concern had an interest in the plant and carried the insurance, so that the exact amount of insurance in the event of a fire was known. The property is in the Windham tax list for $13,290, of which $8,900 was on the machinery and the balance on the building.

Origin of Fire a Mystery.
Mr. Hall stated Sunday that he had no idea how the fire originated, as no one had been on the top floor, the door to which was kept locked, since Thursday, so far as he could ascertain, except the watchman, on his regular rounds.

Second Bad Fire in Five Months.
This is the second severe loss by fire in North Windham in five months, the other being the loss of the Hartson plant in September. Whether or not the Hall mill will be rebuilt has not been decided as yet, and the 40 or more hands employed there are no doubt anxiously awaiting the result.

Valentine Auction of Nine Tables.
Nine tables of auction players were delightfully entertained by Mrs. Charles R. Danielson at her home on North street Saturday afternoon. The audience were large in spite of the storm, and the impression left by this popular company and favors carrying out the idea of St. Valentine's day, while hearts were displayed everywhere. Prizes were taken by Mrs. E. A. Winter, Miss Fannie Healy, Mrs. William Broadway and Mrs. Henry T. Burr. A delicious lunch was served at the conclusion of play.

Brief Mention.
W. A. Weeks spent Saturday and Sunday in Hampton.

W. A. Congdon left Saturday for a short visit in Boston.

J. F. Ahearn went to Rockville on Saturday.

Doris Long is in Hartford spending a few days with friends.

John Fitzgerald spent the week end in the home of his Legion held at W. C. T. U. hall on Valley street at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, under the direction of Mrs. J. F. Fields of Norwich, which was attended by the young people, and there was a good number of adults present to hear the exercises, which were very interesting.

At the conclusion of the regular program Mrs. Fields distributed souvenirs of St. Valentine's day in the shape of red hearts tied with a white ribbon and upon which were written mottoes taken from the writings of Frances B. Willard. On the reverse of the cards was an American flag. These mottoes were read by the members of the legion individually and the favors were taken home by the children.

By vote of the members, the sum of $1 was contributed to the Frances B. Willard fund for work in other states, a really splendid contribution, as Mrs. Nellie A. Gager, president of the local W. C. T. U., told the children in the course of her remarks delivered toward the close of the meeting. A rising vote of thanks to Mrs. Fields for the valentine favors concluded the meeting.

The programme was as follows: Song of Welcome; prayer; song, "Home Guard"; reports; questions of Lincoln; Life; Lincoln's Pledge; reading, "Lincoln"; and the "Blattie Hall" song; Hurray for the Flag; recitation, John Smith; questions about Washington; reading, "Too Big for His Boots"; Pradrick Blank; reading, "Patriotic Mittens"; Ruth Anthony; recitation on the Flag; Carrie Powell; White Ribbon Rally Song; sixteenth anniversary of Mrs. Evangeline Jones; reading, "The Pledge"; Mabel Sweet, America.

OBITUARY.
Mrs. John A. Brown.
Sarah B. widow of John Albert Brown, died at her home in Ashford early Saturday morning at the age of 81. She was the daughter of Benjamin and Martha Eyles Simons and was born in the house in Ashford in which she died.

There survive her three sons and one daughter, Frederick of Bridgeport, son of New York, Herbert of Ashford and Anna B., also of Ashford.

FUNERALS.
Gladys Swyden.
The funeral of Gladys, the seven year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David J. Swyden, who died Friday night, was held from the home of her parents at 36 Quarry street at 2:30 Sunday afternoon. Rev. W. E. Nixon officiated. The body was placed in the receiving vault of the Willimantic cemetery. The services were in charge of Funeral Director Jay N. Shepard.

Philo Burgess.
The funeral of Philo Burgess was held from his home, Kick Hill, Lebanon, at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Rev. M. Campbell of the Congregational church in that town officiated. Burial was in the Windham cemetery in charge of Funeral Director Jay N. Shepard. The bearers were John Brodick and Frank Burgess and H. LaRue Biven of Norwich.

Mrs. Vanderbilt Fails to Come.
On account of the severe storm and consequent delaying of traffic Mrs. Mary S. Vanderbilt was unable to come to this city from her home in Brooklyn Sunday, and the two services which were to have been conducted by the First Spiritualist society at the Gem theatre were postponed. Word was received from Mrs. Vanderbilt Saturday forenoon that she thought it unsafe to risk the journey.

Attended Music Supervisors' Meeting.
Charles H. Caswell, president of the Connecticut Music Supervisors' association, was in Hartford Saturday attending a meeting of the association held at Bond's. Prof. W. S. Pratt of the Hartford Theological seminary delivered an address on Folk Songs, and Supervisor R. L. Baldwin of Hartford spoke on Music in the High School. Following the meeting dinner was enjoyed by those present.

City Maintaining Good Record.
There was no session of the police court Saturday morning.

FIVE SNOW PLOWS USED.
Street Department Sets Them to Work Clearing Away Snow—Effects of Saturday's Storm.

After weather suggesting the balmy days of spring, Willimantic for the past week has experienced something of a genuine winter. The cold snap was worst on Friday night and Saturday morning, when the heaviest snowfalls of the past two or three years, and traditionally the heaviest snowfalls of the year, were dumped on the city. Incidentally, this marks the fourth stormy Saturday in succession for the municipality.

The street department was on the job early Saturday morning with five snow plows, clearing the streets, and later in the day the men were busy digging the snow from the gutters. When the householders arose there was work cut out for them, and snow shovels were at a premium.

The New Haven trains were anywhere from one hour to four hours late but the storm did not seem to bother the Central Vermont train.

Sixteen wagons and ten automobiles were seen on the streets, but the garage men were getting double prices for their rigs. The country going was very bad. The large truck which took the firemen to North Windham was nearly two hours on the way, and it was reported that it was stuck for an auto to make it.

Work was stopped at the ice plant, although but a couple of days more would have filled the houses. The men will probably be set to work clearing off the snow, so that the balance of the week may be housed.

Injured by Fall on Ice.
Adelbert T. Trumbull of No. 58 Spring street will probably be confined to his house for a few days as a result of an accident sustained while on his way to work Saturday morning. On account of the bad going Mr. Trumbull slipped and fell on North street, spraining his left knee, and was helped to his home by a passerby.

Stock Company Closes Successful Week.
The Young-Adams Stock company closed a week's engagement at Loomer house Saturday with two performances. The Cowboy Preacher in the afternoon, and The Banker, the chief attraction of the evening. The audiences were large in spite of the storm, and the impression left by this popular company and favors carrying out the idea of St. Valentine's day, while hearts were displayed everywhere. Prizes were taken by Mrs. E. A. Winter, Miss Fannie Healy, Mrs. William Broadway and Mrs. Henry T. Burr. A delicious lunch was served at the conclusion of play.

As the first real snowstorm of the winter, there was a welcome for the heavy blanket Saturday morning—for a few minutes. Then trains and trolleys began to lose time, the milkman failed to put in an appearance with the breakfast cream, the grocers were late, and everything matched up at sixes and sevens. After 9 o'clock the trolley had a hard time of it. Shortly after 10 o'clock a northbound car slid off the rails near the Central hotel, but was not back on the track until after the crew in charge. A half hour later an electric plow, buffeting a way for a southbound car, was stuck on the tracks, and it took some time to get it attached, poked its nose over to one side and before it was stopped had sprung around to its position at right angles with the line, all its wheels off the track. This incident occurred at the same place where the other car went off the iron. The plow was hauled back on the rails by the passenger car. An investigation showed that the ice on the side of one of the rails was causing the trouble. It was chipped off.

On the steam roads, the trains after 10 o'clock were from 45 minutes to an hour late.

While business in town was practically paralyzed for another Saturday, as has been the case for weeks, there was a rush of traffic for the operators at the central telephone office. About everyone headed the company's admission, "the talk of the town" and as a result it was necessary to put on extra operators. The telephone lines remained "on time," suffering little from the storm.

Tramps Few This Winter—Storm Left City Nearly Snowbound—Valentine Tea for Benefit of Day Kimball Hospital.

there was no electric car through Putnam, the trolley people's right of way suffering not only from the storm, but from the fact that vehicular traffic kept piling snow in upon and covering up the rails. Two electric plows kept plugging at the job of opening the line any way, so the absence of cars occasionally was gotten through.

The rural carriers and the milk and grocery men had an awful day of it, and had great difficulty in doing the tasks assigned to them.

There was no telling who is getting them or where they are at, but the ho-hoes are not appearing in this section of the city, and it is the church of the past week set in. As a matter of fact, fewer tramps have pestered this city, this winter than is usually the case.
