BISHOP BREWSTER AT 100TH MEET OF CLERICUS

Archdeacon Brown Gave Historical Sketch—To Give History of Rev. C. S. M. Stewart, Secretary for a Decade.

The one hundredth meeting of the Clericus of the New London Archdeaconry was held at the Wauregan house Monday afternoon and in observance of the day Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown of this city gave a brief but interesting historical sketch of the organization.

For this meeting the Clericus had Bishop Chauncey B. Brewster of Hartford as its guest. In his historical sketch, Archdeacon Brown spoke in part as follows:

The inception of the Clericus of the New London Archdeaconry was due to the need felt on the writer's part of a permanent organization for the promotion of the spiritual and social life of the clergy of this archdeaconry.

It is of vital importance that we have a large representative gathering of the clergy of this archdeaconry at the meeting of the Clericus of the New London Archdeaconry to be held at the Wauregan house on Monday, March 16th, at 2 p. m.

PHOSPHO-PEPSIN HELPS DIGEST WHAT YOU EAT

You cannot enjoy good health if the food you eat does not digest properly, and when symptoms like indigestion, flatulence, biliousness, palpitation of the heart, impaired appetite or sick headache, and general depression, indigestion or chronic dyspepsia with all its suffering and misery is certain to follow.

Phospho-Pepsin will give you the relief you seek because it absorbs the gases, neutralizes the excess acid and routes the feeding of distress. No matter what your stomach trouble is called, Phospho-Pepsin will relieve it and the very first dose will prove its worth, because it goes right to the source of your trouble and acts solely and only on the digestive tract. It gently stimulates and tones the muscular structures and excites a normal flow of gastric juices, so that the stomach can do its work easily and naturally. Furthermore, Phospho-Pepsin is a powerful digestive itself, and aside from the genuine tonic effect, contains the necessary elements for the care of the stomach. It robs the stomach of the harmful course of treatment will banish your stomach trouble for all time—it will cure you well and gently—no matter how severe your case may be.

Phospho-Pepsin is put up in tablet form for easy taking and convenient to carry in the pocket, and is sold by all class druggists, such as The Lee & Osgood Co.
