WANTED NORWICH MAN FOR MAYOR OF TACOMA

William B. Coffee Declines to Run for Head of Western City's Government.

William B. Coffee of Tacoma, a native of Norwich, who is president of the Wilson-Marshall club in that city, has been urged to run for mayor of Tacoma.

In his letter of declination to the Tacoma Progressive Democrat Mr. Coffee says:

"A man to be mayor must and should give his whole time to the work. He should study municipal questions and above all find some way to lower the present taxes. If we do not get a lower tax we will not be able to invite our friends to come to this city to live. Tacoma seems to have too much steam and too little fuel. We are trying to run at a break neck speed in all of our city affairs. It is a few years that took hundreds of years to build back where I came from. No one likes all those streets, good roads and all modern improvements any better than I do, but I think we have been going too fast in all of our work. We should get a grip on ourselves and reduce expenses. We seem to elect officers with no other ambition than to spend the people's money. I believe that the people of Tacoma a good mayor. I have a business experience that I believe I could have used to the taxpayer's advantage. At this time I do not feel like shouldering the burden necessary to put Tacoma back on a paying basis where the people could pay the taxes without a hardship. In this day of a commission for everything that comes up, it would place an old fashioned business man in a position to do against the reformer's wishes in such matters and if he should do the bidding of every faddist that comes along, the taxes would be paid by the people from now than they are at present. I do not care to be placed in a position where I would have to shoulder the blame."

The Democrat declares that Mr. Coffee's refusal will be a disappointment to his friends, and that at least six other official investigations are under way as a result of the Koehler case.

It was understood in New London Wednesday evening that the ban against cameras was to be removed and that the newspaper men would be allowed to use them on Thursday.

NO PIE CRUST PROMISES

Wise advertisers never make "pie-crust promises."

They know that to break faith with the public would be fatal—worse than throwing their money away.

That is the reason why advertised goods are more in demand.

People know that there is something behind them.

They look on them as standard. Any dealer knows that there are more calls for advertised goods than for goods not advertised.

This is especially true if they happen to have been advertised in the newspapers which directly reach the people.

The standard of advertising is more exacting today than ever before. Advertisers are more careful of their promises and more interesting in their text and illustrations.

The world grows better.

90 LISTED FOR MERCHANTS' WEEK

Organization Committee Reports Names of Norwich Merchants Who Will Cooperate—Others May Be Secured—Men at the Head of the Movement See Great Prospects For the City in Week From April 18 to April 25th.

Since the holding of merchants' week here from April 18th to April 25th was decided upon at a recent meeting of the merchants, the committee on organization has been actively at work canvassing the business houses of the town to secure the list of those who will cooperate in the movement.

The committee have not long been reflecting creditably upon the public spirit of the Norwich merchants who are willing to cooperate towards a plan which is believed to be for the general welfare of Norwich as a business community.

While the organization committee has been at work, the other committees have not been idle and there are plans on foot that promise to provide numerous attractive features, while the Executive Council of United Commercial Travelers is pushing along the preliminary work towards the Industrial and Good Home Exposition which they are to hold in the armory.

KAROLI SUPPORT CASE REACHED A SETTLEMENT.

Was to Have Been Tried in Superior Court on Wednesday.

The case of Ginevra R. Karoli against her husband, which was settled Wednesday morning in the superior court at New London by agreement between counsel. The case was to have been tried before Judge Reed.

The suit was for a divorce action brought by Mr. Karoli against his wife some time ago. The petition, which was heard before Judge Case, was denied at that time. Mr. and Mrs. Karoli have been living apart ever since, and Mrs. Karoli brought the action to compel her husband to support her.

The divorce suit of Giuseppe Pascucci against Diletta Nasta Pascucci, assigned for a preliminary hearing, went off the list, and the court adjourned to Thursday, when the case of Maynard L. Bray vs. Adelia Bray is down for trial.

Late Tuesday afternoon counsel in the case of Stephen N. Bond et al. vs. Samuel F. Littlefield et al., which was assigned for trial in the superior court Tuesday, reached an agreement by which the case was settled and withdrawn from the court.

The agreement was reached after a conference which lasted six hours.

The suit was for the specific performance of a contract alleged to have been entered into between the plaintiff and the defendants for the purchase of a tract of land in Easton, the claim being made that Mr. Littlefield, after making the contract, declined to consummate the deal.

By the agreement the land in question is conveyed to the plaintiffs, who in turn convey to the defendants that portion of the land which is the tracks of the New Haven road, known as cleared land, containing a house, barn and well, from which the plaintiffs concluded an agreement to receive a supply of water. The defendant secures the right of way over the property for the highway, so that that no fertilizing or rendering plant shall be established on the portion of the land conveyed to them. The land which is to be retained by the plaintiffs is situated south of the railroad tracks and consists of a stretch of beach and some wooded land.

PACKER MILL DAM STILL HOLDS FAST.

Is Bent into Semi-Circular Shape With Water Coming Through.

Up to late Wednesday evening the big dam at the Cutler cotton mill at the village of Packer was holding fast, although through the day the stone structure had assumed a semi-circular form, and it was understood that some stones had been dislodged and that water seemed to be working underneath the dam.

It was believed this had been one of the means that had been effective to prevent a break through the dam. It was believed that the village that the dam would hold unless there should be a further rising of the water.

The dam is in large masses is still behind the dam, which is from 60 to 75 feet in length.

The threatening conditions have not yet driven the people from the dozen or so houses just below the dam, although it is stated that there is a possibility that they might have water up into their second stories should the dam give way.

The houses are structures about 100 yards old and are in a very poor state of repair. The second story of the houses along the stream is about on a level with the mill pond.

CASTOR OIL IS TASTELESS NOW

A Remarkable Step Forward in Oil Refining.

Pure, clear castor oil, without taste or smell, is a recent discovery of the house of Spencer Kellogg & Sons, refiners of vegetable oils.

The Kellogg Mills take away the nauseating taste, remove none of the good properties of castor oil.

As Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil is merely a purified castor oil, it works better than the evil-tasting, evil-smelling dose of the past and does not upset the stomach. Children take it easily.

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil has been supplied to all druggists, not in bulk, but in neat 25c and 50c bottles. It is necessary to ask for Kellogg's name, to distinguish it from disguised castor oil, flavored with peppermint and other strong essences. The trademark label bears a green castor leaf with the signature of Kellogg's.

Made only by Spencer Kellogg & Sons, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., oil refiners.
