BROWN-TAIL IN NORWICH TOWN

State Hotel Scouts See Many Nests There While Passing in Trolley Cars—Locate a Few in Montville, Bozrah, Franklin and Along Salem Turnpike—John H. Osgood and E. R. Sherman Doing Work Here.
The brown-tail moth scouts who have been here a day or two under orders from the state entomologist have already found that they will be ready to report the results of their work on the trolley cars.
Although the menace of the brown-tail has been sounded so frequently, Mr. Osgood, a well experienced tree-man, says that there are many people they find yet who ought to know about them but do not.

Because the trees are denuded of their leaves now, this is a favorable time to conduct the search for the brown-tail, for they can be more easily seen. These winter nests are formed of leaves, sometimes only one leaf and at other times several leaves together, drawn together by the silk which the caterpillar spins and lashed firmly to the twig. They are impervious to water.
The equipment of the brown-tail moth scouts consists of a pruner with an extension handle, by which they can reach to a height of 20 feet, which is enough to cut off any twigs on which they see the nest. They keep a record of all they find, destroying all that they cut from the trees.

Nests With 50 to 300 Caterpillars.
A small nest would contain about 50 caterpillars and a large nest from 200 to 300. While dormant in the nests now the caterpillars are very quickly become lively if taken into a heated room, and as soon as it is warm enough for foliage to sprout, they also become lively. They are very voracious and eat a good square meal on the tender leaves. They keep on eating ravenously until they mature about the 15th of 15th of June, when they are ready to emerge from them as moths about the middle of July. Then they lay their eggs and a new crop of caterpillars is hatched about the latter part of August.
Gypsy Moth Around Putnam.
The brown-tail scouts who are working of the state are not also on the lookout for the gypsy moth. That work is being done by the United States government, who have men at work in Putnam, Woodstock and Thompsonville. They are finding masses of the gypsy moth have been found.

MINISTER JUMPS INTO AN ASHBARREL
Leaped from Window Believing Library Was Afire.
Boston, March 13.—An audience of six hundred persons at a girls club concert at Boston university was thrown into a state of great excitement tonight when cries for help were heard from the adjoining public library. Thinking the library was afire Rev. Kendall S. McLean of Maiden leaped from a second story window and into a ash barrel and came out dirty, but uninjured. Several women fainted. When order was restored the crowd in the library came from a student who had become so occupied with his reading at the library that he did not hear the closing bell and became alarmed when the lights went out.

BELGIAN KING OBJECTED TO A WOMAN'S SLIT SKIRT
Had Her Conducted from Ballroom by Court Marshal.
Brussels, March 13.—At the court ball tonight the observant eye of King Albert espied a woman entering the ballroom with an extreme slit skirt. The king whispered something to the court marshal, who immediately ordered the woman his arm and led her out of the room. At the door of the ballroom the marshal, bowing to the woman, said: "Madame, you are not permitted to wear such a costume." "His Majesty noticed that you had torn your dress up one side and requested me to conduct you to the carriage so that you may return home and have the damage repaired."

Mexico City, March 13.—General Florencio Alarista, commanding a thousand men at Jolista state of Morelos, was killed today by his own men. The mutiny broke out at 10 o'clock and lasted for four hours.
Most of the higher officers of General Alarista's command escaped massacre and went to neighboring villages, where they mobilized a punitive force and returned to Alarista. Meanwhile followers of the rebel General Zapata, who had been ordered to reinforce the mutineers were whipped by the loyal forces. The war department says that a majority of the mutineers captured were immediately executed.

In State of Siege.
"In these days of labor unrest the word 'siege' is in a state of siege," writes a correspondent of the London Chronicle. "I am writing from a flat that had a dread of a coal famine. We carefully got in wood blocks, coke and all the coal that could be stored in the mysterious basement. And the organizer of the household said we should be all right for a month or more. They couldn't freeze us out. The bathroom was full of things that could be used for fuel. I couldn't take a step without tumbling over possible fuel. And then, after all our efforts the coal strike is over. Now that coal has been purchased and bottom prices—large consignment of candles, which few but our grandmothers remember. If electric light falls candles will rise in price. We have enough candles, coke and wood blocks and tinned food there is hardly room in our flat for my elbow to protest."
But so long as there are matches in London no electrician shall put out our light. We have enough candles, coke and wood blocks and tinned food there is hardly room in our flat for my elbow to protest.
