Yellow Palm Warbler Early Bird Arrivals—Express Wagon Wrecked When Struck by Automobile.

The yellow palm warbler, in restless motion, was seen from the upstairs window on Wauwexis street Wednesday morning. These birds come north in the April, the earliest of any of the family. They can be known by the continual flitting of the tail which habit none of the other warblers have except the yellow warbler. The summer yellow bird or yellow warbler is here this week. This bird is seen about gardens, shrubbery, woodlands, and is one of the most vicious of the warblers. Its song, a strong cheery che-wee, che-wee, che-wee. There are a great many of these birds. They nest in garden or orchard trees and are always welcome tenants. The spotted sandpiper is seen along the banks of the Yantic river. Its whistle is so like the whistling of a person as to startle one, especially in the night. The wood thrush, due May 1 to 10, was heard on Monday on Huntington lane, and last Friday in another locality. The brown thrasher was heard April 28 on the New London turnpike. It is one of the most useful birds; its song is very pleasing; the carol often long continued and always sweet and clear. Its color is reddish brown above, below white with black spots. The goldfinches were out doing themselves, singing in the rain, Wednesday.

Drinking Men Not Wanted

There is no place in the business world for the man who drinks. He is not wanted because he is not dependable. The Governor of one State declares he will not appoint to office any man who becomes intoxicated, and all large business concerns are adopting the same policy. Do not be handicapped by this habit. You can be freed from all craving for drink in three days—without the use of hypodermic injections. Call and let us explain to you how you can be treated at the New Institute—and be restored to sobriety. Write or phone for full particulars and free book. The Neal Institute, 1802 Chapel St., New Haven, Ct.; tel. 5540 (day or night).

WESTERLY MAN PARDONED

Francis E. Lynch Has Served Nine Years in Prison—One Hundred Boxes of Chocolates Sold by Norwich Men Attached to Alleged Unpaid Bills—Judge Gardner Green to Sit for Stonington Probate Hearing—Funeral of Mrs. Frederick J. Ortman.

Right here in Westerly from the level of Wilcox park can be seen, without a turn of the body, six buildings of a public nature, all of the same type of construction, that probably cannot be equalled as a whole, in such a limited space, in any place else. There is the Westery public school building, the old-style brick building with granite trimmings, and next thereto is the Memorial and Library building, terra cotta trimmings and red tiled roof. Christ Episcopal church is built of native blue granite, rock faced, and in the whole exterior there is not the sign of a tool mark. Next is the new town hall and around it is the Westery granite, rock faced with cut margin lines, and front of finely dressed granite, with columns of Ionic design, and a large wreath of carnations, a cross of white roses, and a heart of red carnations and roses, an anchor of roses and carnations, a crest of carnations and roses, a star of roses and stocks, a Maltese cross of roses and carnations, a wreath of carnations and roses, four sprays of carnations, pillows and other designs. Burial was in Stonington.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Ortman, widow of Frederic J. Ortman, formerly of Stonington, was held from her residence in George street, Wednesday afternoon. There were beautiful floral tributes, including a massive garland of choice flowers, a large wreath of carnations, a cross of white roses, a heart of red carnations and roses, an anchor of roses and carnations, a crest of carnations and roses, a star of roses and stocks, a Maltese cross of roses and carnations, a wreath of carnations and roses, four sprays of carnations, pillows and other designs. Burial was in Stonington.

Francis E. Lynch, of Westerly, who was convicted of the charge of rape, Provisional, in the case where Lynch was employed, and sentenced to state prison for a period of not less than eight or more than four years, has been paroled after serving a term of nine years. The woman in the case was a new arrival in the country, and it was claimed, she had been in the place since the crime was committed under pretext that she was to be protected and cared for until relatives were located. Since the trial effort has been made to show that the character of the woman was not all that was represented when she was on trial for the serious crime.

Governor Poehler recently recommended the pardon of Lynch and the pardon has been granted. Lynch was on pardons. Wednesday afternoon the committee made a favorable report upon the petition of Lynch for a pardon, and the pardon was granted.

Senator Arnold, of Westerly, said he had an interest in the case as he had a personal acquaintance with Lynch, who had worked in his mill as bobbin boy years ago. The senator said he had made visits to the state prison and learned that Lynch was a model prisoner and he believed that much interest in the case as he had a personal acquaintance with Lynch, who had worked in his mill as bobbin boy years ago. The senator said he had made visits to the state prison and learned that Lynch was a model prisoner and he believed that much interest in the case as he had a personal acquaintance with Lynch, who had worked in his mill as bobbin boy years ago.

The Rhode Island Society for the Prevention of Animal Cruelty held its forty-fourth annual meeting, held in Providence, elected Albert Babcock of Providence, son of the late Edwin Babcock of Westerly, president to succeed Samuel S. Durfee, who retired at his own request. John H. Wells was elected treasurer. James N. Smith secretary and Herbert C. Caley, junior, Secretary. Notice of intention to file was filed with the town clerk of Stonington and upon expiration of the period of ten days, the time specified by law, the Browns paid the purchase price and took over the business. It now develops that Tractenberg and Vendetta owe several unpaid bills. Attorney George R. McKenna, representing creditors issued warrant of attachment for $100 of the goods claimed by the Browns, claiming that the law concerning the transfer of personal property was not fully complied with. The writ of attachment was served by Deputy Sheriff Casey, who took possession of 122 boxes of chocolates.

The Browns consulted Attorney Herbert W. Rathbun and an issue of writ of replevin resulted. This writ was served upon Deputy Sheriff Casey by Constable Shelby Nicholas and the good restored to the Browns, under the usual bonds. The writ is returnable the first Tuesday in June to the court of common pleas for New London county.

This will be a test case to decide whether the transfer was regular and legal and whether the Browns will be required to pay the bills of Tractenberg and Vendetta.

Judge Herbert W. Rathbun, as counsel for Henry Schall, was in Stonington borough Wednesday and passed upon the deed from Elias B. Hinkley and the good restored to the Browns, under the usual bonds. The deed carried with it the payment of $5,225 to Mr. Schall. The payments were required to close the business of the Stonington Veterinary Mill company. The society will probably be reorganized and be a social adjunct to the mill for the comfort and pleasure of officers and employes.

Under the privileges granted by law and owing to the legal complications that may arise, and from the fact of personal connection with the parties in interest, Judge Elias B. Hinkley of the Stonington probate court, has called Judge Gardner Green, of the superior court to sit at a probate hearing in the Stonington court, May 9. The hearing will be on the petition of Enoch N. Pendleton and Nelson A. Pendleton, on the removal of Moses A. Pendleton and Oscar F. Pendleton as executors of the estate of Moses Pendleton. Claim is made that the late Mrs. Pendleton, who was the wife of the late Nelson Pendleton, died in the inventory of the estate. The sum involved is about $15,000 and the counsel in the case are Hadad A. Hull and William A. Breed for Oscar F. Pendleton, John C. Gentry for Moses A. Pendleton and Arthur B. Calkins and Herbert W. Rathbun for the estate of Nelson Pendleton.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Ortman, widow of Frederic J. Ortman, formerly of Stonington, was held from her residence in George street, Wednesday afternoon. There were beautiful floral tributes, including a massive garland of choice flowers, a large wreath of carnations, a cross of white roses, a heart of red carnations and roses, an anchor of roses and carnations, a crest of carnations and roses, a star of roses and stocks, a Maltese cross of roses and carnations, a wreath of carnations and roses, four sprays of carnations, pillows and other designs.
