Albert Gurley Claims That Amount for Recovering $82,000 from Judge L. J. Storrs.

The claim of Albert Gurley, father of George H. Gurley, this city, who a few weeks ago was appointed conservator over the property of his uncle, Andrew Gurley, for the sum of five thousand dollars in remuneration for his services in obtaining eighty-two thousand dollars belonging to Andrew Gurley's estate, was before the probate court for consideration Friday, and occupied the major part of the day.

Albert Gurley pleaded his own case. He called several witnesses to testify to the facts of the transaction, and claimed in his argument that he should be entitled to the five thousand, as it was but six per cent. of the sum recovered, or much less than many lawyers would charge for the like service. He said he had spent many sleepless nights on account of the case and had been unable to find any other means of recovery of the money.

E. A. Gore of Worcester, Mass., and his wife, Andrew Gurley, George H. Gurley, Mrs. Albert H. Gurley and Attorney S. B. Harvey were examined by Albert Gurley during the course of the day and the question was submitted by many titles between Mr. Gurley and other members of the family.

Andrew J. Gurley had at various times in the past conveyed property to Judge Storrs, some of the witnesses testified, and the late Ralph W. Sigbee had at one time $23,000 or $25,000 which later came into the possession of Judge Storrs. Attorney Harvey testified to the recovery of about $82,000. Other members of the family testified that the lawyers had been hired to get the money back and they did not think Albert Gurley was entitled to anything more than his actual expenses. Mr. Gurley, however, had no account to show what he had expended, and said all he could say about the case was that the money was recovered, that he worked day and night to get it back for his brother and that he thought he ought to have six per cent.

Judge Shea announced that he would reserve his decision until next Tuesday at ten o'clock.

Andrew Gurley is 50 years of age and Albert is 76. The whole matter seems to have been a family squabble over who should have the possession of the estate.

DIPHTHERIA, NOT MEASLES.

Said to Have Caused Death of Two Children and Illness of a Third.

The attention of City Health Officer Dr. W. P. S. Keating was called to the death of two members of the family of Peter Demarco of Temple Street, this city, who died of serious illness of so third child. Measles was ascribed as the cause of death of the first, but another physician called to attend the second child to die, diagnosed the disease as diphtheria. As a result the house has been quarantined.

Friday morning there were people going in and out of the house, and the attention of the police was called to that fact. The police officers and the neighbors were not familiar with the process of quarantining and possibly could not read the notice, a writ was issued to the house and the family warned that no one was to be allowed to enter.

The funerals of the two children who died Thursday were held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with burial in St. Joseph's cemetery. There are still two children in the home ill with the disease.

W. C. T. U. Holds Mothers' Meetings.

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held at their Valley street rooms Friday afternoon, and was characterized as a mothers' meeting. After a short business session the president, Mrs. Nellie A. Gager, introduced Mrs. Patterson, the speaker of the occasion, who spoke in a most interesting manner on the home and home influences, illustrating with personal experiences in such a way as to convince all who heard her that she was right in her opinion on the subject. There are many things we must do, and that is one thing we must do, and that is influence those in the home. Formation is better than reformation, and children will do many more things and with a better grace if we say "come to them instead of go." We should teach them to do things with us, that is a great part of the battle.
