Former Killingly Man Reappointed.
Police Court Judge Frederick G. Ober of Hartford has reappointed Probation Officer Frank A. Arnold to serve until the expiration of the term for which the judge was appointed, the third Wednesday in January, 1915. Mr. Arnold was engineer and master mechanic at the Blackstone and Norton Cotton mills in Killingly. Later he engaged in the bicycle business in Hartford, when this trade was at its height, and was then appointed day watchman at the state capitol when this office was created.

WESTERL PASSENGERS SCARED

Through Mistake, Blast is Set Off at Wequetequock as Groton Car Nears—Passengers Cut by Flying Glass—Old Barn Obstructs Pleasant View Roadway—Michael Flanagan Found Dead.

Judge John W. Sweeney of the superior court, and a resident of Westerville, was the speaker at a meeting of the Catholic Club of Providence, of which he is a member. His subject was "The Development of the Law." Judge Sweeney, after a brief reference on the origin and purposes of law, declared that in the days of Roger Williams it was not necessary to have complex laws, and added that the more cautious the state becomes the more necessary are the laws. He told of the charter for the colonies being obtained by Roger Williams and stated that this charter was in force until the adoption of the present state constitution. Judge Sweeney declared that there was a law to punish witchcraft on the statutes, as in Massachusetts, but he added, he could find no record of any conviction or punishment under the law. He mentioned several laws which were changed with the adoption of the Constitution in 1842, citing in particular the law whereby the eldest son inherited the property of his father to the exclusion of the other children. "As the business of the city began to develop," said Judge Sweeney, "there was need of new laws, such as the banking laws, the corporation laws and others. As the laws are needed, and as there is a need for them, it is necessary to meet the needs." He then explained the various branches of the government and the duties of each, and that the judiciary came closest to the people through the medium of the judges. In speaking of judges he urged that when any man is called for jury duty he should respond willingly, as it is one of his greatest duties to the state and that it gives one an idea of how justice is administered. He then explained the relation between the jury and the bench and related several amusing incidents that have come to his attention.

Railroad avenue, a thoroughfare at Pleasant View, extending from Atlantic avenue, is actually blocked by an old barn that formerly stood near the beach front and is to be moved to a prominent location, evidently at the pleasure of the owner, regardless of the inconvenience of cottage owners in Railroad avenue. This barn was left standing in Atlantic avenue and in order to permit the rebuilding of the avenue it was moved out of the way by direction of the highway committee and into Railroad avenue. When the matter was taken up by the committee, information was given that Railroad avenue had not been accepted by the town and that the committee representing the town had no interest in the removal of the obstruction although the committee exercised the power to obstruct if the barn is not removed in the very near future there is probability that steps will be taken to remove the lines and brought against the town of Westerville for placing an obstruction in a public thoroughfare. The owner of the old barn does not seem disposed to relieve the situation, claiming that the structure was placed there by his order or with his consent. On the other hand the representatives of the town claim that no permit was ever given the owner of the barn to move it to a new location, as is required by local law, and is therefore liable to prosecution. In the meantime the cottagers on Railroad avenue are seriously inconvenienced and demand redress. Whether Pasquale Salomene, of Westerville, is guilty as charged in the indictment of assaulting with intent to kill a juror while sitting in court, was determined today by the jury in the superior court for Washington county in session at Kingston. The verdict was returned in favor of the state, and the defendant was committed to the county jail for 30 days. The case was made up on Friday afternoon, when court adjourned on Monday. Upon the opening of court Judge Doran will deliver his charge to the jury.

Local Laconics.
The Cottrells defeated the Mystics at Pleasant View Saturday, and Saturday afternoon, to the tune of 10 to 1. Arthur L. Perry was successfully operated upon for appendicitis Saturday afternoon at the Westerville hospital. The petition of the Westerville No-Licenses league, favoring national prohibition, has been presented to congress. The juvenile department of the Westerville public library, closed two weeks ago on account of cases of scarlet fever, will reopen today. George Gavitt of Westerville, who was tried out for a place with the Woonsocket team of the Colonial Baseball league, has been released. Mrs. James E. Brown has gone to Selinsgrove, Pa., to spend several weeks with her daughter, Ethel Irene Brown. Miss Brown is teacher of vocal music in Susquehanna university at that place. Miss Medora Loreita Duval has returned to Providence from New York city, where she completed her studies in grand opera under Mme. Clara de Risand. The two Louis Duval will sing next Thursday in Loomis hall, next Willimantic.

ANAEMIC SINCE CHILDHOOD
How Miss Holmes Regained Her Health.
If you are anemic, you need more iron in your blood and the tell-tale symptoms are a pale face—colorless lips, astringent, poor circulation, and short breath, and more serious diseases are easily contracted when in this condition. What Vinol did for Miss Yvonne Holmes of Fall River, Mass., it will do for every anemic run-down person. She says: "I have been weak and anemic since childhood, always had that tired feeling. Tonic after tonic was tried with little or no result until Vinol was recommended, and after taking three bottles my appetite and digestion have been improved. I do not suffer any more from insomnia, nor do I have distressing headaches and formerly, and I am stronger than I have been for years." We ask every anemic or run-down, weak person in this vicinity to try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim. Broadway Pharmacy, G. G. Engley, Norwich, Conn. Vinol is for sale in Baltic by J. W. Lavallee & Co., and in Taftville by the Taftville Pharmacy.
