

WESTERLY RECTOR TRANSFERRED

Rev. Peter McOscar, O. M. Sent to Atlanta by Superior of Missionary Order—Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Barber Take Joy Ride on 57th Wedding Anniversary—Amedie Scavaqua Arrested for Huntington, L. I., Robberies.

Rev. Peter McOscar, Order of the Immaculate Conception, who has been pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, in Westerly, for nearly nine years, announced to his parishioners Sunday that he had been transferred to Georgia, and would be succeeded by Rev. Thomas Keady, who comes from Salt Lake City, Utah. Father McOscar expressed his appreciation of the hearty cooperation he had received from the parishioners in all that had been done to improve the religious and physical condition of the parish, and urged equal and, if possible, more earnest support to his predecessor.

The announcement was a surprise to many of the parishioners, although it had been thought that the time had arrived when the zealous pastor would be transferred as he had been permitted to remain pastor of Westerly away beyond the ordinary limit allowed a parish pastor.

Father McOscar left Westerly Sunday evening, for the Marist church in Atlanta, Georgia, and head of the college there, which is considered to be the most important station of the order in the world. The appointment was received from the head of the order in Lyons, France, on Friday and he was directed to proceed to Atlanta as soon as possible.

During his pastorate in Westerly, Father McOscar has cleared a church indebtedness of over $11,000, in addition to the improvement and maintenance of the church property. He has purchased the lot at the corner of Dixon and High streets as a site for a parochial school building and leaves the parish absolutely free from debt or incumbrance. Father McOscar brought nothing with him, except his clothing, and he takes nothing away except the best wishes of the people of Westerly, his clothing and his traveling expenses to Atlanta, Georgia, in compliance with the rules of the Marist order. He even leaves with the parish the automobile given him by a relative, and the personal gifts he received from friends while in Westerly.

The Marist Father is not possessed of any worldly treasures. All monies received are devoted to the support of the parsons and curates and to meet all parish expenses, while the salaries allowed pastors and curates, of $800 and $400 respectively, and paid by the Catholic diocese of Providence, is forwarded to the home of the Marists for the support of the order and the education of novices preparing to become Marist fathers.

The departure of Father McOscar is regretted by the people of Westerly, regardless of religious denominations. The society of Fathers of Mary, was founded at Lyons, France, in 1816, by missionary work in the Pacific Islands and was introduced in Australia in 1846. The Marists do much for Christian education in the Pacific Islands and extended its work to England and her colonies. They entered the United States in 1849 and have now about a hundred members in this country. The total membership is about 6,000, scattered all over the world.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Barber, of Ashaway, each eighty years of age, celebrated their fifty-seventh wedding day anniversary Saturday by motoring to the home of their son, Howard M. Barber in West Broad street, where they had dinner and spent the day.

that prevail here exists. Should the law be enforced, it would mean that every owner of an automobile in Westerly and Pawcatuck would be required to pay double registration fees, while the residents of other sections of Rhode Island and Connecticut would only be required to take out automobile registration in the state of their residence. There was some talk of enforcing this double registration several years ago, but the police officials of both places wisely winked the other eye and everybody was satisfied. In justice to the Connecticut state, perhaps it said that no owner of a Rhode Island machine has been arrested for not taking out registration in Connecticut, so if there is to be a change in present methods the initiative move will be made by the police authorities of the state of Rhode Island.

Local Luncheon. Miss Annette McColl, the social well-fare worker, is an expert tennis player. Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Nordell are among the Rhode Islanders marooned in Paris.

The Westerly board of assessors has organized by the election of Samuel Sharp as chairman, Everett E. Whipple as clerk and Everett A. Kingsley as secretary. The board will start next Wednesday on the annual tour of inspection of every taxable real estate in the town for the purpose of assessing taxable valuation.

Amedie Scavaqua, who is wanted for fifteen robberies in Huntington, L. I., was arrested in Westerly Saturday night, at the instance of a detective who has been on his trail from New York to Lynn and then to Norwich and Westerly. Sheriff Amasa Briggs of Huntington arrived in Westerly Sunday afternoon and left on the 5.04 train for New York with Scavaqua, who waived extradition formalities.

STAFFORD SPRINGS. Funeral of Harlan G. Dunham—New Hay May Have Caused Gay Barn to Burn.

The funeral of Harlan G. Dunham, age 38, was held at the Methodist church in Staffordville Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Edmund Tunnicliffe officiating. Burial was in Staffordville cemetery. NORWICH TOWN

Rev. Charles H. Ricketts Preaches at First Church—John Sullard's Hand-some Flowers—Automobile Party's Mishap.

Rev. C. H. Ricketts of the Greenville Congregational church occupied the pulpit of the First Congregational church Sunday morning in place of the pastor, who is having his vacation.

The subject of the address was Things That Cost, the text being 1 Co., 6: 19. The sermon considered, first, what it costs to be good to ourselves and to society; second, what it costs to be bad to ourselves and to society. Things that are of value we pay for and their value is always gauged by what we pay. The man who throws but little out of it, if we have any of the bigger things in life, we must begin at the bottom—we must dedicate ourselves to the larger service. The physical and intellectual life is being developed, but we do not put the same amount of energy into the development of the spiritual life.

In his address at the Davis theatre several weeks ago Fred B. Smith declared that by 1920 America would be a soulless nation. The saloon has been in existence now for so long that it will not be easily exterminated—we must pay the price.

The man who chooses to lead a vicious life pays the price to the last farthing. When will people remember that God Almighty is not to be mocked and that whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap?

Be good to yourself and to society and it will equal the cost plus the reward. Be bad to yourself and to society and it will equal the cost plus the penalty.
