Heretofore it had a supplement, and sometimes you laid down the supplement while you were reading the other part, and then forgot the supplement, and so missed the best part of the news. But it is all news in the Norwich Bulletin. They put it all in one piece, and the record of putting more different items in information general and particular today than they had yesterday. The Bulletin is certainly a great newspaper, serving its constituency to the full measure of what is happening in New London Globe.

AUTO CAVALCADE STORRS

Sixty-two Machines Carrying New London Improvement League Party—Horns Toot and Flags Wave All Along the Way From Norwich—Visitors See All There is to See at State's Agricultural College.

MURRAY D. LINCOLN, County Agent

Everybody along the 22 miles from Norwich to the Connecticut State Agricultural college at Storrs knew on Wednesday that the New London County Improvement league was the liveliest kind of live institution. The long anticipated and once postponed automobile trip of the league swept over the roads with horns honking, flags and banners flying, and signs baying.

The start in this city from the Improvement League rooms in Shetucket street was a busy scene from 10 o'clock while the other automobiles were assembling. By their ceaseless activity in getting the machines into line and assigning to each the passenger list, the county agent, Murray D. Lincoln and Secretary Elmer C. Jewett were multiplied into a dozen men in effectiveness.

Is This Why English Beauties Are So Fair?

(From London Herald.) Ever since the discovery that mercuric was used to whiten and remove a discolored complexion, its use by ladies has remained popular. A perfect complexion can be maintained indefinitely by this remarkable substance. It is used in its beneficent cleansing, clearing and preservative action is quickly apparent and ladies who have been paying as high as a guinea a jar for "special bleach" from beauty specialists soon recognize that mercuric was outwitted them all. It has become so popular that it can be obtained at chemists shops in the British Isles. American druggists also have great demand for it, in original one ounce packages, in 1/2 ounce and 1/4 ounce sizes to apply to like cold cream, before retiring, washing off at the morning.

The sallow complexion, wrinkles and the facial contour has also become extremely popular. One ounce powdered sallowite is dissolved in one-half pint with water. Bathing the face in this has a splendid effect in erasing wrinkles and improving contour.

gave Undertaker Hourigan permission to remove the body about the middle of the night. A very short time the crowd gathered, and Officer Charles Smith had his hands full in keeping back the curious onlookers. One woman who had fainted when she saw the body suspended in the air, and several of the women were eye witnesses and rushed to the scene, and one of them went for a ladder, but it was too late, for the body had fallen.

The body was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Kilroy of West Town street and would have been 18 years old on the 22d of September. He was a graduate from grammar school, and had attended the Academy, and has been in the employ of Mr. Johnson only a short while. Besides his parents, the boy leaves two brothers, John and George, and two sisters, Alice and Helen.

INSTANTLY KILLED UNDER WHEELS OF FREIGHT TRAIN. Louis Porter, 17, Was Trying to Jump Aboard Near Central Vermont Station.

Louis Porter, between 17 and 18 years old, and the third son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Porter, of No. 65 Myrtle avenue, was instantly killed about 5:50 o'clock Wednesday night while trying to jump a freight train at the Central Vermont station. The train was a special freight and was going through here to New London at the rate of 25 miles an hour.

Porter got a partial grip on the grab bar of the train, but the middle of the train, but his hold was torn loose and he went under the wheels, so that several cars passed over him. Both arms and both legs were cut off, and the body was horribly mangled, its fragments being strewn along the track for 35 feet or more. The face showed only a few bruises and cuts.

The freight crew were unconscious of the accident and the train passed on without stopping.

Max Herz of No. 30 North Thames street and Frank Smith of No. 29 Cove street were two boys who told Dr. Rush W. Kimball that they saw the accident, which took place between the freight shed and the passenger station platform. A few minutes before the train came along Porter had been talking to Smith and had wanted him to jump the freight with him and go to New London, but Smith refused. It is said that Porter had made a practice of riding freights to New London in the early part of the evening and returning on a northbound train about midnight.

Porter left Smith and made for the train, with the fatal result that followed. Smith hurried away to tell Policeman Charles McFadden of the accident, which took place in W. Main street. With Constable Myer Blumenthal, the officer held the curious crowd back, while Medical Examiner Kimball was summoned.

A pitiable incident in connection with the shocking occurrence was that Porter's mother was passing along West Main street and saw the body heart-rending.

When the medical examiner had learned the facts in the case, he gave Undertaker Church & Allen permission to remove the body to their morgue.

The young man is survived by his parents by three brothers, Joseph, Arthur and George, and by two sisters.
