HEROIC RESCUES FROM WATER

Ten Year Old Harold Botham Saved by His Brother-in-law, Oscar Church—Boy Broke Through Witch Hazel Mill Pond Ice While Skating—His Rescuer Pulled From Water Nearly Exhausted—Reached by Line Formed With Ropes and Ice Pikes.

Fifty feet out from shore and nearly exhausted in his struggle with the breaking ice and cold water, Oscar Church, 36, Uncasville, was pulled out of the witch hazel mill pond in Uncasville Saturday afternoon, together with his ten-year-old brother-in-law, Harold Botham, whom he had heroically saved after the boy broke through the thin ice on which he was skating on the upper end of the pond. That both were not drowned was due to the fact that several men formed a line with ropes and ice pikes and by cautiously crawling out on the ice were able to get hold of Church and bring him to shore. Among those assisting in the rescue work were Charles H. Roy, Francis J. Browning and Clyde Beebe.

The Botham boy, who is the son of Mrs. John Botham of Uncasville, was skating on the pond about 2:30 o'clock with two other boys, while Mr. Church and some other men were cutting ice. When the boys skated towards the upper end of the pond they got on thin ice and the Botham boy went through in a spot where the water is about three feet deep. The other boys got away safely and started shouting for help while the boy in the water struggled to keep afloat, but was rapidly weakening.

The cries of the boys attracted the attention of Mr. Church, who came to the rescue of his little brother-in-law and his friend, who were in danger by the breaking of the ice as it tempted to reach the boy, who by this time had come down once or twice. When Church reached and got hold of the boy he tried to get out on the ice and back to land with him, but the soft and rotten ice broke away before him as he struggled vainly to climb out on the ice. Two boys on the shore kept on shouting for help and also ran off to where Mr. Roy, Mr. Browning and Mr. Beebe were in the field nearby. These men, with other men who helped, got ropes and ice pikes with which they were able to make life the ice cautious are of getting out on the ice reach near enough to Mr. Church to get him ashore, although with much difficulty.

When this was accomplished he was told to run off home with his two boy chums and they were all told to keep moving as fast as they could to get to the bay where had been the ice. Mr. Church was taken to the home of Mrs. Roy, where he was given dry clothing as well as some stimulant to overcome the effect of the icy bath he had experienced.

On Sunday it was reported that neither Mr. Church nor the boy who had been promptly taken care of by his mother when he reached home, showed any bad effects from their perilous experience.

After having been engaged in making successful trial tests of the Gallaudet tractor bi-plane manufactured by the Gallaudet Manufacturing company of the city, Edson E. Gallaudet returned on Friday night from Hempstead Plains, Long Island. The owners are greatly pleased with the machine of the trials and are of the opinion that no difficulty will be experienced in securing a market for their machines which are of the military type. At present E. E. Gallaudet is not making any trips in the bi-plane owing to his accident of two years ago when he fell a distance of 100 feet from the top of a building by an expert Harold Kammer, a young man of 23 years residing in New York.

The bi-plane has especially fine qualities, two of which are notable. It is designed to be of inherent stability and to have excellent gliding power. The spread of the wings is 54 feet and its length is 23 feet. The machine weighs without the pilot 1900 pounds. Photographs were made of the machine in flight and it was seen by an expert Harold Kammer, a young man of 23 years residing in New York.

The French bi-plane engine which draws the bi-plane is located in front. The construction is simple and it is shaped like a fish having head, wings and a tail. The propeller is ahead of the engine. Then there is the cabin or passenger section and the extending body with its tail. The front section runs on the other side of automobile wheels until the body is level and then the bi-plane elevates itself. The body construction of the bi-plane is of magnesium, which is lighter and stronger than steel. The wings are covered with linen and then varnished with specially prepared varnish.

The bi-plane has been just sent to the trial grounds on the Gallaudet estate but it has twice the power of the first. The wings are a trifle shorter, 22 feet and installed in a 100 h. p. bi-plane engine. The 20 h. p. bi-plane can fly at an altitude of 25 miles an hour. The smaller powered machine is built to travel at the rate of one mile an hour on the other side of a considerably faster rate and probably 5 miles a minute.

The Gallaudet company is developing a bi-plane which will be of 170 and 200 horse power.

OVER 100 GUESTS ON GOLDEN WEDDING DAY

Gifts of Gold and Flowers to Mr. and Mrs. James O. London.

Like their wedding day in Voluntown 30 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. James O. London of No. 29 Treadway avenue had an ideal February day for their golden wedding anniversary on Saturday and during the afternoon and evening something over 100 friends called to offer their congratulations.

At the three masses in St. Patrick's church Sunday the following circular letter was read to the congregations: Episcopal Residence, Hartford, Conn., February 2, 1915.

Dear Father: The holy season of Lent which is observed by the faithful of all churches in accordance with the following regulations:

- 1. The sick and delicate are not bound either to fast or abstain.
- 2. The aged and persons under 21 years of age are not bound to fast, but must abstain on abstinence days.
- 3. The abstinence days for the laity are the Wednesday and Friday of the Lenten season, and all members of the household of laborers are Fridays Ash Wednesday, Tuesday and Saturday of Holy Week.
- 4. The abstinence days for all other persons are the Wednesdays and Fridays of the second and last Saturday of Lent.
- 5. All who are engaged in an exacting occupation are not restricted to one meal, but may eat on all days at all meals except on abstinence days.
- 6. Both meat and fish at the same meal are not permitted on any day of Lent.
- 7. Those who are bound to fast are allowed to take only one full meal a day. In the morning, however, they may take a cup of coffee or chocolate with a piece of bread. In the evening they may take a volation. At this collation it is lawful to use fish, eggs, cheese, butter and milk, but the quantity of solid food should not exceed ten ounces. Meat is allowed only at the principal meal of the day. This meal may be taken in the evening and on Saturdays no one is bound to fast or abstain.

The faithful should be reminded that the law which formerly obliged everyone both to fast and abstain on all the days of Lent has been relaxed for the present only by special dispensation of the Holy See. In granting this dispensation the Sovereign Pontiff requests that those who take advantage of it shall substitute other good works, e. g., giving alms to the poor, abstaining from intoxicants and attending the Lenten services of the church. The customary exercises are the Rosary of the Blessed Virgin, sermon, Way of the Cross and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Yours sincerely, JOHN J. NILAN, Bishop of Hartford.

In furtherance of Bishop Nilan's plea for total abstinence during Lent, Rev. John H. Broderick had distributed to the congregation pledge cards urging abstinence from intoxicating liquors, in honor of the Lenten fast, upon the cross. Each was asked to sign the card and promise: 1st, To abstain from all intoxicating drinks during Lent; 2nd, To abstain from the use of tobacco, and 3rd, To visit our Our Father and three Hail Marys every day for the suppression of intemperance.

At the high mass Rev. J. Galvin preached from the epistle for the Sunday I Cor. XIII, 1-12, on Charity. The offertory selection was Dr. Jules Jordan's ever pleasing "The City and Ave Maria" well sung by John Sullivan.

Mrs. Frederick W. Byington. Following an illness due to a complication of diseases, Frances F. Moulton, wife of Frederick W. Byington, died in this city Saturday afternoon. She resided at No. 105 High street. Mrs. Moulton was born in this city on March 17, 1830, and was the daughter of Frederick and Annie Moulton. In April, 21 years ago, she was united in marriage with Frederick W. Byington in New London.

Mrs. Byington leaves her mother, husband and five children: Mary E. Byington, Mr. Joseph E. Henry, Jr. and Willis F. Byington, and three sisters: Mrs. Adam J. Gernhardt and Mrs. Charles H. O'Neil, this city, and Mrs. Thomas McAuley of Saylesville, R. I. Burial is to be in New London.

At 7 o'clock Saturday morning Mrs. Ann Conner, 32 years of age, died at the Norwich state hospital. She leaves one son, James B. Costello, who is a sergeant at police at Springfield, besides other relatives. The body was prepared for burial by Undertaker M. Hourigan and was sent to Springfield on the 2:30 train Saturday afternoon, where burial will take place.

Other speakers on the same bill were F. J. Murtha of Norwich, William T. Meyer, cashier of the Bridgeport post office, James J. Walsh of Hartford, internal revenue collector for Rhode Island and Connecticut, and George E. Haggerty, president of the clerks' association of Bridgeport.

ADVOCATED SUPPORT FOR NEW HAVEN ROAD.

State Board of Trade Wants Civic Bodies to Cooperate.

When the state board of trade met in Bridgeport on Thursday its members went on record as advocating cooperation among all the civic bodies of the state for the establishment of the New Haven road which was said to be essential to the prosperity and welfare of the state on public questions.

This sentiment was embodied in a resolution which also praised and encouraged the progressive work of the railroad's officers. It was also urged that a committee be appointed to investigate ways for obtaining united effort with the Connecticut chamber of commerce on public questions.

Lyman C. Root of Stamford, was re-elected president of the board although he protested a younger man should be chosen. Thomas Kelley, of Hartford was again selected as the secretary and treasurer.

This board also passed a resolution approving the resolution of Governor Holcomb in advocating a merger of the various state commissions as a step towards efficiency and economy in the conduct of the state departments.

A resolution endorsing the open shop policy in the interest of the maintenance and encouragement of industrial peace in manufacturing centers was adopted on the ground that a city having a reputation for industrial peace is in a position to attract new industries and investments of capital. Incidents of concern which had moved from other states to Connecticut were cited.

The board also endorsed the county form bureau plan after listening to an interesting talk by E. E. Allen of Ridgefield. President Root was especially enthusiastic in approving of the form bureau plan and predicted great things for the state if it were followed out.

A blow at false advertising was dealt when the members of the board approved the bill now pending in the general assembly which will prohibit untrue or misleading advertisements. This bill is now before the judiciary committee.

HOW THE PARCEL POST HELPS IN BUSINESS. Shown in Book Sent by the Postal Department.

A book issued and sent to the postmasters throughout the country contains, along with other interesting and valuable information an article dealing with the effect that the parcel post has had on the business of country as well as city merchants.

It is now possible for housewives to have delivered at the door in time for the noon meal or even groceries, for cost which is comparatively slight. For instance, if a resident living back two or three miles in the country wants some meat or perhaps a pound or two of butter and some incidentals it would be possible for her to have the goods delivered in the morning by parcel post at a very low cost. Suppose that the goods she ordered came to twenty pounds, the cost would be but fifteen cents for three pounds of meat, ten cents for a pound of butter and five cents for incidentals. This, of course, applies only in the local zone. The same idea applies not only to housewives dealing goods, but to business men who want to send goods to a customer.

Apparently there has been a mistake in the local zone by parcel post. It would be possible to send five pounds of nails a few miles back into the country. Had he been aware of the scale of rates he would have made a mistake but a larger quantity, but he, as do many others thought that the cost would be too great to make the sending of a large quantity of goods. The parcel post cost seven cents, ten pounds cost ten cents, fifteen pounds twelve cents, twenty pounds cost fifteen cents, thirty pounds cost twenty cents, and fifty pounds cost thirty cents. This scale of prices is based on the proportion of the drop in cost as the weight of the article sent is increased.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S HEROISM. Exalted in Address by Rev. E. George Biddle at McKinley Avenue Church.

At the McKinley Avenue A. M. E. Zion church on Sunday evening, the pastor, Rev. E. George Biddle, made an address on Abraham Lincoln's Heroism in the city of Washington, D. C., "Choice for this day when we will serve."

The opening years of the 19th century were characterized by the birth of great reformers; from 1800 to 1812, the birth decade of Lincoln, were born great men who stood firm for the rights of the oppressed. In 1809, William Lloyd Garrison in 1809, Abraham Lincoln in 1809 and Charles Sumner in 1811 and others.

It is a great privilege to have the life of Lincoln in the country. Stephen A. Douglas.

Rev. Mr. Biddle then followed with a concise summary of Lincoln's achievements.

In concluding the speaker said: "Let us as a race reverse the name and character of Abraham Lincoln, a man whose God raised up to lead our race and the country up from the terrible blight of slavery to freedom. Let us have our children to copy his life and to follow his example."
